By FRANK BRUTTO

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Deposed President Joao Goulart fled into exile today, culminating a two-day rebellion by anti-Communist generals.

His departure from the southern city of Porto Alegre, where he had hoped to rally support for a comeback, was announced by his followers there in a radio broadcast.

Early in the day, Congress declared the presidency vacant and swore in Paschoal Ranieri Mazzilli, speaker of the Chamber of Deputies, as the new president of Brazil.

Installed in an early morning ceremony in the inland capital of Brasilia as the new president was Paschoal Ranieri Mazzilli, president of the Chamber of Deputies.

Goulart fled from Rio de Janeiro as rebel army units and civilian militiamen marched on the city Wednesday, vowing to force him from office and lift "the Red yoke" from Brazil. He flew to Brasilia and then to Porto Alegre, 670 miles southwest of Rio de Janeiro.

There, in his home state of Rio Grande do Sul, he claimed support of the strong 3rd Army. A statement read in his name over Porto Alegre radio declared: "The hour of mobilization, the hour of vigilance is here."

Radio Liberty, in the industrial city of Sao Paulo, an anti-Goulart stronghold, said there were unconfirmed reports Goulart had fled to Asuncion, Paraguay, and asked for political asylum.

In Brasilia, Auro Andrade, president of the Brazilian Senate, declared the presidency va-

Recovery 'Still Possible' for Gen. MacArthur

By JOHN BARBOUR

WASHINGTON (AP)—General of the Army Douglas MacArthur's condition after 31 days in the hospital and three major operations was put in these terse words by doctors:

Outlook — not good, but recovery still possible.

That was the last report Wednesday when doctors had noted a slight improvement in the 84-year-old general's lowered blood pressure and control of the troublesome and sporadic internal bleeding.

Asked flatly if the general would recover, Dr. Henry S. Murphey, a brigadier general and hospital commandant, answered "We hope so."

The tube which had been inserted through MacArthur's esophagus and into his stomach remained in place. But the pressure of a small balloon against broken veins — designed to retard bleeding in the esophagus — was all but removed.

"He is markedly composed ... has asked for his wife many times and she has visited him frequently," Murphey said.

Most critical still were signs early Wednesday that MacArthur's heart was losing efficiency and his kidney function was worsening. Even the slight im-

Five Men Simulate Space Travel For One Month in Steel Chamber

SEATTLE (UPI)—Five men who spent a month locked in a steel chamber were being debriefed here today and scientists labeled their feat a major breakthrough in life support systems for manned space travel.

Dr. E. B. Konecci, director of biotechnology and human research for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's office of advanced research, said work would now go on towards a six-month life support system.

The men emerged hale and hearty Wednesday from the sealed chamber at the Boeing Co. where they had spent 30 days proving that man in space can survive on water reclaimed from body wastes and oxygen generated by a system described as a major breakthrough.

E. Eugene Mason, project engineer for NASA's manned environmental systems assessment at the Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va., said the crew members drank water "purer than your tap water."

Mason said the water reclamation system was designed to produce only the best water and the system functions perfectly 60 per cent of the time, rejecting water less pure than distilled water.

Mason and Konecci were particularly pleased with the oxygen generation system which used sodium superoxide, a chemical that absorbs carbon dioxide while generating oxygen.

Crew commander Roger Barnicki, 28, Lancaster, Calif., said he felt fine, "better than when I went in, because I lost some weight—about 10 pounds."

With him were Lt. Cmdr. Donald E. Robinson, 33, Pensacola, a medical officer; Ralvan Welker, 36, Woodinville, Wash.; Paul Trush, 26, Seattle employe, and Warren Swenson, 26, Seattle.

"Now we are past the 30-day point, we are working on a six-month life support system," said Konecci.

Coy Found Guilty Of Robbery And Conspiracy

A District Court jury found Michael A. Coy guilty Wednesday afternoon of aggravated robbery and conspiracy after only half an hour's deliberation.

Aggravated robbery carries a possible sentence of two years to life in the state penitentiary and conspiracy one year to 10.

Potential of Space Travel Claimed by NASA Official

Man seldom is aware of the potential of what he is doing and this is the way it is today with the American efforts in space according to a visiting government official.

He was James E. Webb, administrator for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). Webb delivered the keynote address Wednesday night at the sixth annual Air Force Academy Assembly which runs through Friday.

Theme of the assembly is "Outer Space."

Webb said in contemplation of the theme: "In assessing the future, one can always learn from the past, and if the thoughtful student of history learns anything from a review of the march of human progress, it is that the ultimate potential of contemporary undertakings is almost never perceived."

He compared the position of NASA today with that of the Protuguese prince and king, Henry the Navigator, in the early 1400's.

The NASA director pointed out that Henry pushed his mariners to penetrate the "Sea of

Pianist-Composer Dies Following Detroit Concert

DETROIT (AP)—Concert Pianist Bozidar Kunc of New York City collapsed in the wings and died of a heart attack after performing one of his own compositions with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Wednesday night.

Few of the 1,900 persons attending the benefit performance at glittering Ford Auditorium on the downtown riverfront were aware of the tragedy.

Defense Against ICBM Possible, Expert Says

A defense of some sort can be designed and built against intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) attack, a space expert, James Webb, said at the Air Force Academy Wednesday night.

In an interview after his prepared address, Webb said:

1. Technically, with modern technology a defense can be built against ICBM attack. However, he added that such a defense would be similar to defense in air war with planes. "It would involve attrition as in air warfare," he explained. Such a defense is so important that it is a component of the strategic planning of all nations.

2. Democracy in America is facing a particularly trying time for it has reached the place where it is becoming difficult if not impossible for men to know and understand many of the complex issues before them.

As a result, people must turn to other men; people must have a source of trusted information.

NASA believes it is contributing to possible greater understanding by its program of en-

Famed Conductor Pierre Monteaux Collapses

ROME (AP) — Conductor Pierre Monteaux collapsed and fell six feet from the podium Wednesday night while conducting Ravel's "Pavane for a Dead Princess" in Rome's Santa Cecilia Auditorium.

The conductor, who will be 89 on Saturday, slipped between guard rails that had been placed around the podium for his protection. He fell heavily, landing on his left shoulder and the left side of his face, as the audience cried out in horror.

Doctors in the audience carried him to a nearby seat. After 20 minutes he walked slowly back to the stage, expressed his regrets and asked if the audience wanted him to continue.

Many cried no, fearing for his health. Monteaux started to walk away, then turned back.

Seated in a chair, he finished the concert.

The audience gave him an ovation.

A native of Paris, Monteaux has been an American citizen since 1942 and has a summer home at Hancock, Maine. He had a slight heart attack in October 1961, but continued as permanent conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra.

U.S., Soviets Hold Secret Talks About Disarmament

By JOHN A. CALLCOTT

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States announced today it has been holding private talks with the Soviet Union on a possible agreement to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

American disarmament negotiator Adrian S. Fisher accused the Russians of blocking agreement, however, by presenting political arguments against the projected multilateral nuclear force (MLF) for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Soviet chief negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin, in a follow up speech before the 17-nation disarmament conference, said the United States "prefers a nuclear alliance with the Bundeswehr (West German army) than to have an agreement on non-dissemination."

West German participation in the MLF has long been the target for communist propaganda attacks.

"We have, as the (disarmament) committee knows, been discussing privately with the Soviet Union a proposed agreement on the non-dissemination of nuclear weapons," Fisher said.

These discussions have been between Fisher and his Soviet counterpart, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, in their private meetings as conference co-chairmen.

"There is general agreement that preventing the spread of nuclear weapons to nations not now controlling them is an urgent matter," Fisher said.

"But an effort is being made to becloud this issue with essentially political arguments against the projected multilateral force."

The Soviet Union charges that the MLF is merely an excuse for giving West Germany control over nuclear arms.

Fisher denied this claim and said the plans for MLF contain nothing contradictory to proposals for preventing the spread of nuclear weapons.

MOM LAUGHS—Mrs. Malcolm Peabody enjoys a laugh as she talks with newsmen outside the jail at St. Augustine, Fla., Wednesday. Mrs. Peabody, charged with two counts of trespass and one count of violating Florida's undesirable guest law, was arraigned and returned to her cell for attempting to integrate a motel with a group of Negro friends. Governor's Mom Taken From Jail To Testify for Integration Fight

By F. T. MACFEELY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Five demonstrators, including Mrs. Malcolm Peabody, were brought here today from a St. Augustine jail to testify in behalf of federal court intervention in the civil rights dispute of the nation's oldest city.

Mrs. Peabody, 72, mother of Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody, and the others made the 40-mile trip in a police car driven by Sheriff L. O. Davis.

There were no guards, but Police Chief Virgil Stuart of St. Augustine followed in another car.

Other prisoners were the Rev. William S. Coffin Jr. and Dr. David Robinson, Yale University chaplains; Dr. Robert Hayling, St. Augustine integration leader; and Anne Ruth Evans, 15, Negro girl.

U.S. Dist. Judge Bryan Simpson was to take testimony on the petition of three attorneys that the nearly 300 demonstrators imprisoned in St. Augustine in the past week be placed under federal jurisdiction.

The judge indicated to the attorneys that he would not take jurisdiction from the St. Augustine courts.

In St. Augustine, leader of the integration movement said they might issue a nationwide call for more demonstrators to fill the jails.

"It may be necessary to bring in part of our nonviolent army that we have recruited from all over the country," said the Rev. Bernard Lee of Atlanta, an aide to the Rev. Martin Luther King. He said King also might come to St. Augustine.

"They thought we were susceptible to blackmail," he said. "They think we are vulnerable because we are a tourist town. But I'm not so sure that we didn't get a million dollars worth of publicity."

Shelley said public facilities in St. Augustine were integrated. He said privately owned facilities were segregated "the same as Washington, New York, Boston and Chicago."

Attorneys for the demonstrators told Judge Simpson Wednesday the defendants could not get fair trials in St. Johns County or other Florida courts. Bails, ranging from $100 to $1,000 were termed excessive and the federal judge was asked at least to reduce them.

George R. Georgioff, assistant state attorney general, argued against federal jurisdiction, saying: "Either we have the right to privately discriminate or we don't."

Another petition was filed in U.S. district court seeking to stop the use of police dogs to round up demonstrators in St. Augustine.

Mrs. Peabody, Mrs. Donald Campbell and Mrs. John Burgess—all wives of Episcopal bishops—were plaintiffs in the action.

Mrs. Peabody said she also wants to try to prevent officers from using electric cattle prods on demonstrators.

Young Skier Missing at Vail Pass

DILLON, Colo. (AP) — A search was launched today for a young Illinois skier missing in the snow-swept Vail Pass area in the central Colorado mountains.

Dep. Sheriff Clair Elliott said Martin Koether, 14, of Winnetka vanished from the regular ski trails Wednesday afternoon. Elliott said the boy was staying at Vail Lodge, 10 miles west of here, with his aunt, Mrs. Herbert Koether of Winnetka, and a group of other young people.

Heavy snow hit the region Wednesday night and the temperature dipped below freezing. The snowfall was continuing today.

A search party of 65 worked until last midnight without finding a trace of the youth. The search force was expanded to 100 early today, including 14 experienced mountaineers from the Rocky Mountain Rescue Unit at Boulder, Colo.

Construction at Space Center Halted by Strike

By AL ROSSITER JR.

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — More than 300 iron workers failed to report to work today at this space center, halting major construction on the nation's largest moonport project and an urgent Air Force job.

The iron workers' walkout complicated another labor flareup that erupted Wednesday when about 2,500 of 4,100 construction workers were turned back by picketing guards.

The guards' picket lines remained up today. Some building trades workers began to trickle back to work, however, but the new iron workers' dispute brought steel work on the three biggest projects at the vast center to a standstill.

"None of the iron workers showed up," said a spokesman for the American Bridge Division of U.S. Steel. "We can't work without people."

Wet and Cloudy Weather Covers Most of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wet and cloudy weather covered broad areas in the nation today and a pocket of cold air remained in sections of New England.

Snow and rain mixed with snow dampened areas in the Plateau region. Fairly heavy snow was reported in some sections, including four inches in a six-hour period in Ely, Nev. It was a little chilly throughout the region with temperatures in the 20s and 30s.

Showers splashed across areas from the Ohio Valley to the central Plains. Fairly heavy rainfall was reported in parts of Missouri but amounts were light in most sections.

Clear skies prevailed along the Eastern Seaboard.

Temperatures were near zero in northeastern Maine and in the teens and 20s in other sections of New England.

A warming trend was reported from the Carolinas to Iowa and north to the Canadian border.

Roofers Union Continues Its Strike Locally

No progress has been made in efforts to settle the strike of Roofers Local Union 41 which began Wednesday morning.

The strike, which was called after union members failed to reach an agreement with Associated Roofing, affects workers in Colorado and Wyoming. The strike also extends into the jurisdictional areas of the union local in Yellowstone National Park, 11 counties in Western Nebraska and nine counties in Western South Dakota.

Roofers union members are not picketing jobs or shops, according to Harold Heyse, a member of Associated Roofing which represents the roofing industry.

Heyse said this morning that the union's negotiating committee does not have the power to call a negotiation meeting. He said that the next regular meeting of the union is scheduled for next Tuesday afternoon in Denver and that representatives of the roofing industry would meet with the union at that time in an effort to settle the dispute.

The union is asking for a 45-cent increase in hourly pay over a two-year period, according to George Bruce, business agent for Colorado Springs members

Russians Say They Can Knock Out U.S. Rocket

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union claimed today it can knock out American rocket weapons, including nuclear submarines.

"Under present conditions successful battle is possible not only against planes and stationary rocket establishments but also against atomic rocket submarines, both in their bases and at sea," the Defense Ministry newspaper Red Star said.

Sheet Metal Workers Union Continues Strike

Shops of members of the Contractors Association of Colorado Springs are being picketed today by the Sheet Metal Workers International Union Local No. 9. The union members went on strike Wednesday morning after they failed to reach a contract agreement late Tuesday night with the contractors.

Curtis Guidry of Denver, business manager for Local No. 9, said this morning that no meeting between the union and management has been scheduled. He said the federal mediator, Pete Nichols of Denver, has been trying to set up a meeting so that the dispute might be settled as soon as possible. Guidry said the union is "willing to meet anytime" with the contractors association.

Guidry said that the union is not picketing any of the job sites and will not do so unless non-union labor is called in by the contractors to complete the work started by members of the Local No. 9.

Preparations Made for New Cigarette Tax

DENVER (AP)—Hugh Weed Jr., state revenue director, said today procedures will be completed by the end of the month for collection of Colorado's new tax of three cents a package on cigarettes.

The bill was signed by Gov. John A. Love Tuesday. The tax enacted by the recent session of the legislature is expected to raise $6 million a year.

Collections start July 1 at the wholesale level.

The State Revenue Department will sell tax stamps to licensed wholesalers at a discount of 10 per cent. Metering machines also are authorized if found to be practical.

Solon Predicts Cuban Revolt Against Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., today demanded "open and increasing assistance" to Cuban freedom fighters.

Dodd, in a speech prepared for Senate delivery, predicted that in the not too distant future Cuba "will be the scene of another popular revolt against Communist bestiality," and declared:

"And on the day when the pent-up wrath of the Cuban people explodes, our action or inaction may make the difference between victory or defeat."

Without mentioning Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Dodd took sharp issue with Fulbright's Senate speech last week urging a change in Cuban policy.

Fulbright suggested that Fidel Castro's Cuba should be looked upon as "a distasteful nuisance but not an intolerable danger." While Fulbright said Castro

Audubon School Construction Low Bid Given

The low bid for construction of an addition to Audubon School, 2400 E. Van Buren St., was submitted to the District 11 Board of Education Wednesday by the Reynolds Construction Co. The bid of $156,981 is for construction of eight classrooms and one multipurpose room with a sliding partition.

Walter Kuenning, building coordinator for the district, said the multipurpose room will be the size of two classrooms and will be used without the partition when additional room is required.

Kuenning said the addition, for which materials are already on order, will include an expansion in administrative area, additional counseling facilities and a teachers workroom.

Six portable buildings now at the school will be moved to other schools, so there will be only a two room addition in student capacity at Audubon when work is completed, Kuenning said.

Work on the foundation for the addition is expected to begin before the current school semester ends.

Bank Robbers Face Litterbug Charges

A policeman who arrested William P. Kelly, 36, and Dennis Glidewell, 27, said he spotted them burning money bags taken in a $4,000 robbery last Wednesday at the Wiley, Colo., State Bank.

Bank robbery charges were filed by the FBI. Local authorities added the charges of littering.

The Italian government has issued a regulation calling for a 30 per cent down payment on all installment plan purchases, the balance to be paid in not more than 12 months.

Aurora to Get New Western Electric Plant

DENVER (UPI) — Industrial expansion in Colorado received a boost Tuesday when Western Electric Co. announced it planned a regional scientific engineering center in suburban Aurora.

Please call for the firm to increase its present employment by 900 with a yearly payroll of $10 million. The announcement was immediately hailed by Gov. John Love, whose new industrial development set-up had pushed hard for the center.

N. Howard Nilson, general manager of Western Electric's Mountain-Northwest region, said about half of the new 900 employes would be hired locally. The rest will be transferred from New York and Chicago. The firm now employs 600 in the Denver area.

Nilson said the firm hoped to move into a 100,000-square-foot center in Aurora by July 1.

By CAROLYN McADAMS — 687-9065

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brown have moved all their appliances and equipment from their former Browncraft Steak House location on Main street in Woodland Park to their new restaurant location on Highway 24 on the curve just entering Woodland Park. Workmen have been remodeling the interior for over a month. It will have an out-of-door, western atmosphere, with one of the finest views of the Pikes Peak mountain range in the area. A private dining room, with seating capacity for 50, will have a tangerine and gold wool tweed wall to wall carpeting. A large mural painted by L. Sherwood of Peru, Neb., covers one wall, showing an Indian sentinel mounted on a painted horse, standing guard on a mountain slope above the Indian Village. Another large picture is the head of an Indian Chief painted by Ship Shee, a native Indian of Topeka, Kan. A new fireplace constructed of red Rancho brick, with flagstone hearth two feet high, has a five foot pair of "Longhorns" mounted over the mantel. Five walnut wagon wheel light fixtures, with bands of brass chains and lamp shades also of brass, decorate the ceiling of knotty pine boards and huge log beams.

A waitress station, made of knotty pine, has a thatched shingle roof and is convenient at one side of the room. The cooking area adjoins the private dining room, with booths of tangerine leather seats. It can accommodate 24 persons. Stainless steel fixtures and appliances will include several new additions, a Manley popcorn machine and a Tayler ice cream freezer. Swiss walnut Marlite wood paneling covers the cabinets, with a copper hood over the grill and charcoal burner. A thatched shingle roof canopy is built over the cooking area. Mrs. Ione Brown will have the "L" shaped southeast corner for her novelty and gift shop. Mirrors have been fashioned inside antique black leather horse collars, and adding to the western motif are mounted steer horns, a crank telephone of bygone days and numerous antique items. This very deluxe new Browncraft Steakhouse will bring pleasure to all of us in Ute Pass, and we extend our best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Brown, who have had the vision to bring such a fine business to our community. It is comparable to any for miles around. The date for its opening will be announced in the near future.

Tuesday, March 24, began the last six weeks of league play for the Ute Pass Hill Bowlies. Still holding first place among the eight teams is Reeds Indoor Rodeo, with 73 games won, 35 lost, and 52447 total pins. Next is Hughes Excavating, 61 wins, 47 lost with 51331. Kenneth Quinn Builder, 56½ won, 51½ lost, with 51430. Browncraft Steak House won 55½, lost 52½, with 51575. Edwards' Grocery won 50, lost 58 with 51665. Fisherman Inn won 48, lost 60 with 51154. Dillon Construction won 44, lost 64, with 50770. Haynes TV won 44, lost 64 with 50635. High teams in single games were Edwards, 712; Browncraft, 694; Hughes, 678. For the three game series Browncraft came in first with 1963, Hughes 1922, and Reeds 1894.

High individual scores for single games were Anna Ruth Sharpe, 210; Mary Mayfield 206; Lucia Church 202. In the series Lucia Church made 539, Ann R. Ann Rasner 537 and Lola Lawton 535. Replacing Ruth Dilts on Fisherman's Inn team for the remainder of the season will be Isabel Tompkins. Substitute players last week were Jane Dzwons and Juanita Lawson.

Ruling for subs beginning the last six weeks, they must have an average of 15 pins below or above the regular bowlers' average. Eligible subs whose average has been established with the Hill Bowlies League, and can be used, are: Margaret Allen, Susie Denman, Irene Gish, Staffa Hansen, Virginia Hilbert, Doris Kincaid, Juanita Lawson, Mildred Paul, Edie Peterson, Jackie Richner, Nancy Urban and Grace Wilson, all of Colorado Springs; Marion Flynn, Manitou Springs; Donna Kohl, Francine Nelson and Louise Weiman, of Cascade; Jane Dzwons and Violet Osbern, of Chipita Park; Pat Penman, Green Mountain Falls; Virginia Ligget, Woodland Park.

Mrs. Ruth Dilts has returned to her home after being hospitalized for pneumonia. She must continue to be careful while recuperating. Her many friends wish a speedy recovery.

The Town Crew, Walt Peters and Paul Stafford, have been busy readying the play grounds and recreation area for spring and summer use. Picnic tables, outdoor fireplaces, swings, sliding boards are being checked for repairs. The tennis court, shuffleboard court and swimming pool will be cleaned and properly conditioned for their use.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tillman and daughter Candy spent Thursday and Friday at Arapahoe "A" Basin where they enjoyed hours of skiing pleasure. They stayed at Quandry Lodge in Breckenridge, Thursday night.

Friday night, March 27, Mrs. Penny Tillman was guest officer for the secretaries station at Fidelity Chapter No. 144, Order of the Eastern Star, Pueblo, in observance of Friendship Night. Mrs. Tillman, secretary of Snowflake Chapter No. 153, OES, was accompanied by Mrs. Barbara Elwell and Mrs. Pearl Tillman to the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McWilliams, Holdenville, Okla., were here for a short stay in their summer cottage, "Rest-A-While." They visited their daughter, a college student in Boulder, for a week, and are anxious to be back for their summer residence in Ute Pass.

Mrs. John (Teddy) Carey, presented several of her own compositions on the pipe organ at the Chapel of the Holy Rosary in Cascade, for the High Mass Easter Service at 10 a.m. The musical ritual of the Mass of Saint Cecilia was specially composed by Mrs. Carey and included a "Kyrie," "Gloria," "Sanctus and Bendictus" and "Communion Agnus Dei." John Carey was the chanter for the "Proper of the Mass Gregorian," which was an intermittent part of the service.

Mrs. Polly Bartley, music arranger for the Sweet Adeline Chorus, has completed the four-voice parts for the Gypsy music, which will be the theme for the Spring Competition in May. Rehearsals have begun on the following songs, "The Gypsy," "Gypsy Love Song," "Play Gypsy, Dance Gypsy," "Play Fiddler Play" and "The Happy Wanderer."

Miss Eloise Bellinger has been appointed one of the five Messengers for Bethel 23, International Order of Job's Daughters, and Miss Cathy Cornett was appointed official substitute. The election of new officers was held Monday night, March 23.

There are approximately 35.5 million amateur musicians in this country, the American Music Conference estimates.

CAPITOL STUFF

By JACK METCALFE

WASHINGTON — Here's a foreign policy issue which we offer free to the Republicans in this presidential election year. It's nothing less than the old charge of appeasement by the State Department. But it has a new and particularly vital twist that is close to home for New Yorkers and Washingtonians alike.

For the State Department, bowing to outraged protests by foreigners, has knuckled under. One of the strongest positions it has ever taken has collapsed utterly.

In a word, the department has thrown in the towel in its campaign to crack down on illegal parking of diplomats' autos.

Last month it looked like the millenium was at hand. The District of Columbia commissioners, acting at the department's request, announced that real, unfixable tickets would henceforth be given to cars carrying diplomatic license plates which were parked illegally.

Until then, Washington cops like the New York police, had been obliged to respect the diplomtic immunity that carried over from the autos 'owners to the cars themselves. Their drivers, frequently American citizens working as chauffeurs or messengers, could park anywhere their fancy dictated. And this was likely to be everywhere — in driveways, in front of alleys, blocking fire hydrants.

All the cops could do was issue a ticket — which by tradition the State Department had to fix — or an equally meaningless warning notice.

The parking situation was completely out of hand and growing worse. In 1961 a total fo 4,500 warnings and tickets were written; in 1962 the number climbed to 6,800. And last year, with some 3,500 diplomats' autos licensed in Washington, Maryland and Virginia, the total soared to 11,000 parking violations.

CHOICE OF PAYING OR STANDING TRIAL

But starting March 16, the town's 119 embassies were told their staffs would get real tickets. They had the choice of paying them or waiving their immunity and standing trial.

Since then the chorus of lamentation has been heard throughout Foggy Bottom. So incensed were envoys of 24 newly-independent African nations that they commissioned the dean of the diplomatic corps, Nicaraguan Ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa, to complain to Secretary of State Rusk himself.

Sevilla-Sacasa had his audience March 25. March 26, William J. Crockett, deputy undersecretary of state, who has the unhappy task of coping with the parking problem, announced U. S. capitulation.

Crockett didn't, of course, put it quite that way. He said the department would not put heat on any scofflaw diplomat to pay a ticket if he got the ticket while working. This policy of leniency, distinguishing between official and unofficial parking violations, had been in the back of the department's mind all the time, Crockett added. This was, however, the first time anyone had mentioned it.

How would the department know whether a diplomatic culprit had actually been working — trying to tap the U. S. Treasury for some extra foreign aid, for instance when his car was ticketed. Well, Crockett said, if he says he was on duty, State will just have to take his word for it.

DRAWBACKS IN HONOR SYSTEM

Considering that a diplomat has been defined as a man sent abroad to lie for his country, this honor system may have its drawbacks.

When the tough edict first went into effect, it was like Christmas for the long-frustrated Washington cops. With zest usually reserved for ordinary offenders, they ticketed diplomatic autos freely and even towed a number of them to the police pound.

President Walter Tobriner of the district commissioners started the appeasement policy with an order for police to curb their excessive zeal. The cops, he said, should "continue to extend the same courtesy and consideration to members of the diplomatic corps as has existed in the past."

In other words, take it easy, because sometimes "the officer can best accomplish his mission through the issuance of a verbal warning or perhaps taking no type of enforcement action."

The annual per capita meat consumption for Americans is 164 pounds, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

Quotas to Curb Meat Imports Are Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Farm Bureau Federation today proposed temporary quotas to curb meat imports until a tariff commission study of the problem has been completed.

Lloyd Sommerville, Grand Junction, Colo., stockman appearing for the federation, told the Senate Finance Committee the quotas should be based on a recent five-year period.

The committee is considering a bill by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., to establish quotas based on 1959-63 imports.

The finance group already has directed a Tariff Commission study. The report is due June 30.

The commission, if it finds that serious injury is being caused by imports, can recommend to President Johnson increased tariffs for quotas.

Sommerville conceded that "increased imports quite obviously are not the sole cause of the drop in cattle prices," but said they have been a contributing factor. An important factor has been a sharp jump in domestic production, he said.

The Farm Bureau spokesman attacked recent voluntary agreements made by the United States with Australia, New Zealand and Ireland to control meat imports. He urged legislation to cancel them.

"These particular agreements amount to a betrayal of American agriculture," he asserted.

"The effect is to give foreign competitors assurance that they will be permitted to increase sales in the U.S. market in the future in return for a relatively small, temporary cutback.

"This almost certainly will encourage foreign cattlemen to expand production for the U.S. market."

Sommerville emphasized also that this country has a big stake in farm exports, because "we already are exporting the output of one acre out of every five acres of cropland harvested."

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: Sometimes life closes in on me and I feel like running away from it all. The road that passes by my house seems to beckon to new places and new experiences away from the reality of responsibility. Should a person feel this way? —E. R.

ANSWER: Your desire to escape the burdensome routine of everyday living is not abnormal. It is human to dream and hope for a place in time where burdens will be lighter and skies brighter.

But what you must remember is this: boredom is not something that happens to you—it is something you make yourself, and wherever you go, unless your attitude changes, it will go with you. Christ didn't always say: "Go ye into all the world"; sometimes He said: "Go home to thy friends and tell what great things the Lord hath done for thee."

Your longings, which you interpret as a desire for new places and new environment, is in reality a cry for God. People have spent fortunes trying to get away 'from it all', only to find that their guilt, their dissatisfaction travels with them. When Cain, the first murderer, sought to escape his guilt, he said: "I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond on the face of the earth." But new scenes and new faces never removed the inherent guilt from his soul.

Christ can be in your present "life situation" — He can be a part of all your day to day affairs. A change of environment will not help you!

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Bill raises a hot issue that may provoke a lot of controversy so analyze his arguments. For why should taxpayers in other states contribute $1,000 per year to educate the children of shrewd New Yorkers who enroll in their state universities? And why shouldn't public schools become private, self-supporting? That would also end teacher strikes fast!

By George W. Crane, Ph. D., M. D.

CASE S-428: Bill M., aged 33, is an economics professor in a small private college in Indiana.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I agree with your recent newspaper column in which you said it is time to re-evaluate public education.

"And that is especially true regarding state colleges, which load hundreds of millions of dollars in unnecessary taxes on the citizens.

"For example, here in Indiana we have 36 private colleges that don't cost the taxpayer a penny!

"But we also have 4 tax supported colleges and universities that are a tremendous drain on the already overburdened taxpayers.

"Consider my own intolerable situation for I am employed by a private college to teach students who pay their own tuition without a cent from the taxpayers.

"Yet I must deduct from my professor's salary to help pay for the education of students at Purdue, Indiana University, Ball State and Indiana State College.

"Moreover, hundreds of students come from Purdue from New York and other Eastern states to take advantage of our low-cost, tax supported colleges.

"Our Indiana taxpayers thus are forced to contribute $1,000 per year per pupil toward the education of those New Yorkers who are swamping our Midwestern state schools, just because of this bargain in education.

"I feel it is wrong for Hoosier taxpayers to be forced to pay for the schooling of the sons and daughters of shrewd New Yorkers who are out-foxing the taxpayers of Indiana, as well as Wisconsin, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan and many other states.

"Notre Dame also pulls from all over America, but its students pay their own way, for taxpayers aren't forced to support Notre Dame.

"So why can't we inject a little 'Horse sense' into this matter of higher education?

"If students in the 36 other colleges and universities of Indiana pay their own tuition, why should we subsidize those who crowd into our state colleges?

"Let them pay if they want an education!

"You have also pointed out that there are over 1.00 excellent Business Colleges in America which don't ask for a cent from the taxpayers.

"And those Business Colleges don't even get tax exemption, as our state colleges do.

"They pay real estate taxes, yet erect their college buildings, pay faculty salaries, and still stay our of the red without ANY aid from taxpayers!

"Since our state universities obtain complete tax exemption, at least they should be able to operate as efficiently as Business Colleges!

"The time is here when taxpayers should revolt against all the needless burdens loaded on their shoulders.

"And that is especially true of the out-of-staters who deluge our state colleges in Indiana, therby forcing our taxpayers to contribute $1,000 per year pupil to educate those sons of foxy New York parents."

Well, I present this professor's views so you can analyze his arguments.

Even our public grammer schools might also be challenged, for Catholic, Lutheran and private grammer schools now educate millions at no cost to taxpayers!

So why should free public schools exist at all?

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Schools Entice Construction Into Competing

By LEIF ERICKSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — There's a powerful amount of leverage in $30 million.

Thirteen California school districts pooling 22 new school building projects into one market plum have enticed the construction materials industry into a spirited contest of cost-cutting innovations.

The impact could be nationwide. Firms in the contest, both winners and losers, see a much larger possible market for components they developed for the California bidding.

Six firms have won basic orders totaling $10.7 million for mass-produced components for the 13 California school districts. Their potential share in the $30-million program could be near $20 million. The basic bids cut an estimated $2 million from traditional costs.

Each school district's architect will have full design freedom for exterior treatments, visual beauty, and landscaping. Foundation and exterior materials are excluded for the pooled bidding.

The mass-produced components include structurals, air conditioning and heating with individual room controls, combined ceiling and lighting fixtures and partitions.

Good School Bus Driver Is Honored

FAIRHAVEN, Mass. (AP) —For 20 years, school bus driver LeRoy L. Wood picked up and delivered his band of youngsters to the little schoolhouse on Sconticut Neck.

He never had an accident. He never was late. The children's mothers felt secure knowing the kids were in his care.

The Fairhaven School Committee decided to name a new school on Sconticut Neck the LeRoy L. Wood School.

The white-haired Wood said Wednesday: "My goodness, I was speechless there for a while" when informed of the school board's decision.

He Will Be Given Absentee Ballot

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Justice of the Peace Walter Lagergren imposed a 60-day jail sentence on Emmett Covan of Pensacola Wednesday on a charge of public drunkenness.

The justice of the peace is a candidate for renomination in the May 5 primary.

"But judge," protested Covan, 56, "I won't be able to vote for you."

"That's all right," replied Lagergren, "I'll send you an absentee ballot."

Meat Import Attitude Said 'Vindictive'

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., suggested today the Agriculture Department had a "vindictive" attitude toward meat imports because of farmer opposition to federal controls.

Williams is a member of the Senate Finance Committee holding hearings on a bill which would limit the imports to the five-year average of 1959 - 63. The measure, sponsored by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., and others, was introduced in response to the complaints by cattlemen that increasing imports are driving them into bankruptcy.

The Delaware Republican read an article (Denver Post, Oct. 10, 1961) in which former Assistant Secretary James Ralph was quoted as saying "we welcome all beef imports South America, New Zealand and Australia want to send until the cattlemen get all the free enterprise they want."

"Doesn't this appear to be vindictive on the part of the Department of Agriculture?" he asked.

Lloyd Sommerville, Grand Junction, Colo., a representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, agreed.

Bob Buffington, Shenandoah, Iowa, spokesman for the cattle industry Committee for Legislative Action, urged that Congress limit imports to 4.9 per cent of the annual domestic production, the 1960 level.

During the past 15 months, Iowa cattle feeders have been selling at a loss of $25-75 a head, Buffington said. He conceded overfeeding has contributed to low livestock prices, and that prices paid for feeder stock have been involved in the losses.

Les Davis, spokesman for the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, also testified for the Mansfield bill.

"If the market we have developed for beef in this country is going to be invaded by countries with production costs much lower than ours, there may be no end to the current downward trend in domestic cattle prices," he said.

Prospects for action on the meat bill appeared to be decreasing in direct ratio to the increase in Senate talk on civil rights.

Atom Quake Theory Discounted by Prof

GOLDEN (UPI)—Prof. Frank Hadsell, seismologist at the Colorado School of Mines, Tuesday scoffed at a theory that underground nuclear testing might have triggered Alaska's earthquake.

"I don't buy that at all," Hadsell said. He added that if the theory were true, the earthquake itself in turn should set off a shock violent enough "to destroy half the earth."

Hadsell, whose seimsographs at the school were knocked right off the scale by the violence of Friday's quake, said that energy released by a nuclear explosion is "nothing like" the vastly greater energy of an earthquake.

The nuclear explosion theory was voiced by Swedish scientist Sven Svantesson who suggested Soviet and U.S. underground nuclear tests might have touched off the disasterous quake.

Truck Driver Was Drunk, Probers Say

GOLDEN (UPI)—Deputy Jefferson County Coroner Dr. John R. Hunt testified today that tests indicated the driver of a truck was drunk last Wednesday night when his vehicle collided with a Continental Trailways Bus.

Hunt said Carl Lewis Hicken, 32, of Hideaway Park, Colo., was found to have a blood-alcohol count of 2.5, above the level of intoxication.

Hicken, Earl O. Chamberlain, 55, of Denver, driver of the bus, and a bus passenger, Pamela Jo Grant, 4, of Louisville, Ky., were killed. Thirty - three others were injured.

Hunt said he ran tests on the bodies of both drivers to determine the presence of any tranquilizers, barbiturates, carbon monoxide and alcohol.

Hunt said he found an insignificant and probably normal amount of carbon monoxide in Chamberlain's system, and the 2.5 alcohol level in Hicken's blood.

Hicken's State Highway Department snowplow truck and Chamberlain's 3,000-pound bus collided on a four-lane highway five miles west of Denver.

Witnesses said the truck seemed to appear suddenly before the bus and Chamberlain was unable to stop in time.

ILLEGAL ALL AROUND

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP)—Burglars found an unexpected source of income when they looted offices in the Warren County courthouse of more than $13,000.

They also broke into 13 slot machines that were seized in raids and stored in the sheriff's office.

Group of Newspapers Sold in New York State

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — The Westchester-Rockland group newspapers, nine New York daily papers and one weekly with a combined circulation of some 200,000 were sold today to the Gannett newspaper group.

Valentine E. Macy Jr., president, and J. Noel Macy, board chairman, of Westchester County Publishers, Inc., and Paul Miller, president of Gannett Co., Inc., made the announcement.

Miller said no changes in staff or in basic employment policies were planned for the 10 papers.

The amount of money involved in the sale was not disclosed.

Better Foreign Policy Demanded by Sparkman

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Sen. John J. Sparkman says that U.S. foreign policy objectives could be better promoted with a more flexible policy toward some Communist countries.

The Alabama Democrat, in a lecture Tuesday night at the University of Alabama, said increased flexibility in U.S. trade and other policies could encourage "growing divergencies within the bloc" to its own advantage.

Sparkman is a senior member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, whose chairman, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., last week called for consideration of a more flexible policy.

Viet Group Meets Without Program

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam's Council of Notables, an advisory body set up by the defunct revolutionary government of Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh last January, the Council of Notables had passed into obscurity with no apparent role in the government. Its 49 members, however, continued to meet.

In Tuesday's session, the members resolved to continue working until and unless the body is formally dissolved by Khanh.

There were 17,144 townships in the nation at the conclusion of the last census of governments.

Hearing in Furr's Case to Be Conducted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Trade Commission officials said today public hearings on charges of unfair trade practices against Furr's, Inc., which operates more than 60 grocery stores in Colorado, Texas and New Mexico, will open April 21 in Lubbock, Tex.

Examiner Walter Johnson will conduct the hearings, which also will be held in Denver and in Washington, and conclude with rebuttal arguments at a session in Lubbock in June.

A complaint filed against Furr's last June 28 by the FTC accuses the chain of obtaining payments from supplying companies in return for special advertising campaigns which Furr's put on and in which products of the supplying companies were exhibited.

The FTC said such payments were not accorded to Furr's competitors and that this put the competitors at a disadvantage. The charges have been denied by attorneys for Furr's, which has headquarters in Lubbock.

The Denver hearing will be held in federal court chambers May 4 through 8.

Chipita Park News

By CAROLYN McADAMS — 687-9065

Charles (Chuck) Stull Jr. is one of the thirty authorized RACES (Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service) ham operators in El Paso County. Chuck has his radio shop fully equipped at his home on Escondido Road, the highest in Chipita Park, located above Mountain Road. The recent catastrophe in Anchorage, Alaska, has kept all of the "ham operators" busy receiving messages coming into the United States from the disaster area. Those belonging to Colorado Springs are forwarded by the RACES operators, which are connected with the Civil Defense program. Many families are being informed about their relatives living on the west coast and in Alaska.

In spite of the patches of snow and cold winds, the second annual Easter egg hunt, sponsored by members of the Junior Guild, Church in the Wildwood, was considered a big success. Early Saturday morning, March 28, the committee, Martha Crabbs and Letty Weseman, helped the Easter bunny hide 120 colored eggs in tufts of grass behind rocks and bushes surrounding Marcroft Hall, in preparation of the "hunt," starting at 10 a.m. Thirty boys and girls arrived, accompanied by their mothers, and at a given signal started to find the hidden eggs. Prizes were marked eggs, which were found by Eleanor Hotson, who found the gold egg; Douglas Page, Douglas Weseman, Mike and Eddie Pearson, who found the numbered eggs. Sacks of candy were given each child by the Guild. Mrs. Mollie Lutz, chairman, was ill and could not attend.

Mrs. Jean Regier and children, Brenda and Lora, from Liberal, Kan., spent Easter weekend with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Crabbs. Mrs. Regier helped with the Easter egg hunt Saturday morning.

Among those arriving to spend Easter vacation in their mountain homes were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Searle (Ret. Brig. Gen.) from Topeka, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. John Culp and the M. H. Tuckers from Greensburg, Kan., and Odessa, Tex.; Mrs. Frank Adams, Wichita, stayed at the Falls Motel; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bradley, Dallas, Tex., and the E. J. Whalens, Hutchinson, Kan., who opened their Longwood cottage in Green Mountain Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Haines and daughter spent Easter vacation in their Terrace Hotel. "Bernie" and Georgia are science teachers at the Basalt Consolidated Junior High School, located between Glenwood Springs and Aspen. After the school term is over, many of our summer residents will arrive to enjoy vacation days in the mountains, in their other homes.

Frank Van Arsdale, manager at the Brockhurst Boys Ranch, left home at 5 a.m. Easter Sunday morning with his son, Layne Van Arsdale, and picked up seven boys at the Brockhurst Ranch, to attend the Easter sunrise service at the Garden of the Gods. Although quite cold there was a large crowd and the service was very impressive. Mrs. Lorraine Martin, Mrs. Laura Jones and Mrs. Margaret Quinn, members of the Mother's Club of the Woodland Park Lioness Club, colored three dozen hard boiled eggs, which were put in individual Easter baskets for the Brockhurst Boys Ranch. Mrs. Jones also baked a big cake, decorated with candy eggs, for the noon meal. Dena Hageman, granddaughter of Mrs. Jones from Tribune, Kan., delivered an Easter basket to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brockhurst, early Sunday morning. Some of the boys went to their homes over the weekend, but Chester Mattern, who outgrew the Ranch and is now living in a Foster home in Silt, Colo., came back to the Brockhurst Ranch, which he feels is his real home, to spend his easter holiday. Among the animals on the Ranch is a baby lamb, orphaned recently, which follows every one around and has become the mascot pet.

"The best laid plans" for the Boy Scout overnight camp-out last week were canceled, because of the deep snow on the Rampart Range, where the new camp site is to be located. Thirteen Scouts of Troop 26, were present at the regular meeting Friday night. A speed contest, tying eight different knots in a relay race by patrols, was held with great accuracy and minimum time. The Scouts are preparing for the Camp-o-ree, to be held at Fort Carson in May. They will complete their First Aid requirements as a troop with fast action, also compass work, Morris code calls and fire by friction. Scoutmaster Charles Stull will tell you with what hard work and how sincerely the boys apply themselves to become efficient young men of action, ability and leadership, all found in Boy Scout training.

Wayne Woolston, Cub Scoutmaster of Pack 33, Dens 1, 2, and 3 of Ute Pass, welcomed a large crowd of Cub Scouts, their parents, little brothers and sisters at the March 27 Pack meeting held in the Community Building, Green Mountain Falls, at 7:30 p.m. Awards were presented Cub Scouts of Den 2, as parents of the boys pinned the badges on their sons. John Love got a Wolf badge, one silver and one gold arrowhead. John Pole received his assistant Denner stripe, a silver and a gold arrow head. Kent Nelson was awarded his Bear badge. Kenneth Milboan got nis bobcat badge, and Stephen Schumacher was given his one-year pin and a Denner stripe. Each boy was given three DYBS bow's by his Scout mates. The highlight of the Pack meeting was the Pinewood Derby race. The tiny cars, about 7½ by 2½ inches, could not exceed 5 ounces and were free wheeling. Last fall the boys purchased the specified kits, and built their own cars with the assistance of fathers, mothers, brothers of sisters. Wayne Woolston received an old Pinewood Derby track from a school as a gift, which was hauled by Frank VanArsdale to the Community Building, where it will be stored for future use. A ramp over 15 feet long and a straightaway of 15 feet was placed in the auditorium about 3½ feet high, where three cars could race at the same time. First place ribbons were won by Billy Anderson, Johnny Pole, Greg Bartley; second place by David Woolston, Stephen Schumacher, Rickey Ernst; third place by Billy Rasner, Kent Nelson and Jeff Houchin, in Dens 1, 2, 3, respectively. Then the three first place winners competed for the grand champion award with Johnny Pole capturing the play-off ribbon. Mrs. Marlene Willie led the group singing, "This Little Scouting Light of Mine" and a parody of words to "John Brown," which concluded the meeting.

Milk production per capita in this country for last year was 659 pounds, a slight drop from 675 pounds recorded in 1962.

communism posed a "grave threat" to other Latin-American nations, he contended this could be dealt with by prompt and vigorous use of antiaggression machinery of the Organization of American States.

Dodd described as a "fallacy of the do-nothing policy" any argument that "the Castro regime, while admittedly a nuisance, does not pose any mortal threat to our security."

"It is perplexing to note that some of these who understood the illusion of 'fortress America' isolationism have now become the advocates of an essentially identical brand of isolationism," he declared. "They appear to believe that our security and our freedoms would not be affected even if the major part of the hemisphere and, for that matter, of the Free World, were to go Communist."

Dodd, a member of Fulbright's committee, said the United States "should use all the resources of diplomacy, not excluding economic countermeasures, to discourage allied and friendly nations from shipping critical materials to Cuba."

Dodd also advocated a U.S. commitment to "declaration of independence and freedom" for the Cuban people, invoking the Monroe Doctrine to proclaim "a total embargo on shipments of Communist military materials and military personnel to Cuba" and "open and increasing assistance to Cuba's heroic freedom fighters, who are daily defying Castro's execution squad."

Accident Victim Still Critical

Sumpter, of 502 E. Pikes Peak Ave., suffered multiple fractures when his motorcycle struck a car at Hancock and Platte Avenues on March 26.

Defense Sirens to Be Tested at Noon Friday

Civil Defense sirens will be tested as usual at noon Friday, Charles W. Willoughby, city-county civil defense director, said today.

He said the blast from the 21 sirens would be of the steady tone for three minutes.

LEGAL NOTICE

PUBLIC NOTICE
SCHOOL BOND ELECTION
HANOVER SCHOOL DISTRICT
NO. 28
EL PASO COUNTY, COLORADO
APRIL 9, 1964

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That at a special election to be held on Thursday, the 9th day of April, 1964, at the Hanover Elementary School, Route 2, Colorado Springs, in El Paso County, Colorado, in said District, there will be submitted to such qualified taxpaying electors of the District the following question:

"Shall the Board of Education of Hanover School District No. 28, in the County of El Paso and State of Colorado, contract a bonded indebtedness of said District in the amount of $15,000 for the purpose of erecting and furnishing an addition to the existing school building in said District, said bonds to bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 4½% per annum, payable semi-annually each year, and maturing $1,000 in each of the years 1965 to 1969, inclusive, and $2,000 in each of the years 1970 to 1974, inclusive?"

The polling place for the reception of ballots upon said question will be opened at the hour of 7:00 o'clock A.M. of said day, and will be kept open until and will be closed at the hour of 7:00 o'clock P.M. of said day. Ballots to be used in voting upon the question submitted will be furnished by the Secretary of the District to the Judges of Election to be by them furnished to the voters. Each elector voting at said election shall deposit in the ballot box a ballot whereon shall be printed the question to be voted upon and the words "FOR THE BONDS" and the words "AGAINST THE BONDS" and the elector shall indicate his approval or disapproval of the proposition submitted by placing a cross (x) opposite the group of words on his ballot which expresses his choice.

Persons who are fully qualified to vote on said question but will be unable to appear at the polls on election day should contact the Secretary or Deputy Secretary of the School District at the office of the Superintendent of Schools, R. F. D. No. 2, Colorado Springs (eleven miles east and six and one-half miles south of Fountain), not later than 5:00 o'clock P.M. on Thursday, the 2nd day of April, 1964, to determine whether they are eligible to vote by absentee ballot on said question, and, if eligible, to make application for such ballot.

No ballot will be received by the Judges of Election unless the person offering the ballot shall be a qualified elector of the District and shall have paid a school tax therein in the year next preceding said election.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Board of Education of Hanover School District No. 28, in the County of El Paso and State of Colorado, has caused this Notice to be given as required by Law, as of the 3rd day of February, 1964.

Defense Against ICBM Possible, Expert Says

couraging graduate work in the colleges.

NASA, he explained, does not grant scholarships and fellowwhips to individuals. Instead, it grants the money to the schools, such as the University of Colorado, and tells the schools to select the best qualified students for more work.

"This makes the professors work harder, for they select the brightest students, and that makes the professors better teachers. We believe that this strengthens the universities and thus adds strength to our society," he explained.

3. NASA has no plans to work with the Air Force Academy to build a special course at the academy for astronauts.

"The Air Force has many needs and thus many tasks for its graduates. For instance some of the students here now will some day return to teach."

He explained further: "We are delighted to have military men in our program."

4. The nation's high schools are the key to better understanding on the part of future citizens. He explained that he headed a program that once spent $5 million in five years developing a high school physics course and that the course now is used to teach about two-thirds of the high school physics courses in the United States.

The nation needs more development programs of that sort, he said.

5. The cooperative program between NASA and the Air Force pays off for both organizations and saves money as well.

"For instance, we plan to de eight, I believe it is eight, experiments for the 9ir Force in the Gemini program, and the Air Force will pay us for them. We also will have them do some experiments for us."

This cross research helps speed up development of ideas, he said.

"Ideas do have to be researched. In World War II, we added 20 miles an hour to every plane by testing it in a full-scale wind tunnel. We did the same thing for submarines and added to their speed," he explained.

cant. Mazzilli, next in line because Brazil has no vice president, took the oath of office at 3:30 a.m.

The revolutionary generals met in Rio and announced that calm reigned throughout the country.

Although the revolution began Tuesday, it has apparently been almost bloodless. Only two casualties were reported—pro-Goulart students killed in a clash Wednesday with troops at Recife.

The rebel proclamation of victory Wednesday touched off wild demonstrations in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, Brazil's largest cities.

$4,774 Stolen In Checks From Car Here

Checks totaling $4,774 were stolen from the car of Gilbert Ralph Wieger Wednesday evening while the car was parked in the Bowl-Mor parking lot, 31 W. Las Vegas St., police reported.

Wieger, of 1825 S. Cascade Ave., told officers he had left the car unlocked. One check, endorsed for deposit at the Exchange National Bank, is for $4,490, Wieger told police. Three checks for lesser amounts were also taken.

Virginia Lloyd Kelleher, 431 E. Kiowa St., reported to police Wednesday that a collection of 90 silver dollars minted from 1879 to 1935 were stolen from her home between Saturday and Wednesday. She said the collection was taken from a dresser drawer in the bedroom.

A television set worth $225 was stolen from the Cooper Insulation and Roofing Co., 420 S. Corona St. Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning.

Police said thieves kicked in the front door to the business and scattered the contents of a desk drawer on the floor before getting away with the set.

The burglary was reported to police by C. G. Cooper, owner of the business.

Shepherd Dog Protects Home From Burglars

A German Shepherd dog apparently frightened off a thief who was trying to burglarize the home of Kirby Nunn, 2217 Collier St., Wednesday afternoon.

Nunn's wife told police she was out of the house for a few hours Wednesday afternoon and when she came home she found the side door of the house damaged from being slammed hard. Rugs in the home were wrinkled.

Mrs. Nunn said someone must have entered through the unlocked front door. The dog, which was sleeping upstairs when she left the house, apparently woke up and chased the intruder who slammed the door behind him when he escaped.

Vandals Smash Windows in City

Vandals smashed windows worth a total of $225 in two cases of malicious mischief reported by the police department this morning.

A plate glass window worth $125 at the Lake Center Drug Store, 309 S. Hancock Ave., was broken Wednesday night. The incident was reported by Mildred Tote, wife of the store's owner.

Six windows worth $100 in a house under construction at 2611 N. Logan St., were broken by BB pellets sometime between Friday and Wednesday. Victim of the vandalism is the Metzler Building Co.

Recovery 'Still Possible' for Gen. MacArthur

provement in blood pressure during the day was not enough to add optimism to the late report.

Doctors explained that they had stand-by methods of taking over for the failing kidneys if it became necessary. But a heightened pulse rate and the faltering blood pressure — signs the heart was working harder, but doing its job less well—were still worrisome.

One way of making up for the failing kidneys is a technique called peritoneal dialysis. This is an operation in which two tubes are inserted into the abdominal cavity between blood vessel rich membranes called peritoneum.

Chemicals are then fed in through one tube. They draw out some of the waste products and compounds accumulating in the blood — substances that would have been removed by the kidneys.

Then the flushing chemicals and waste products are drawn out through the other tube, completing the circuit.

Through Wednesday afternoon, doctors had not felt pressed into using this or other artificial kidney techniques—but they were carefully watching the status of MacArthur's blood for signs that it might be necessary.

They continue to feed drugs into the general's veins to raise the blood pressure and to "encourage" the kidneys.

They were initially somewhat successful with the blood pressure, but said nothing about an improvement in kidney function.

There was also still the possibility that an ulcer had developed in the stomach, brought on by the continued stress of surgery. If there is one, at least for now, it appears to be under control, Murphey said.

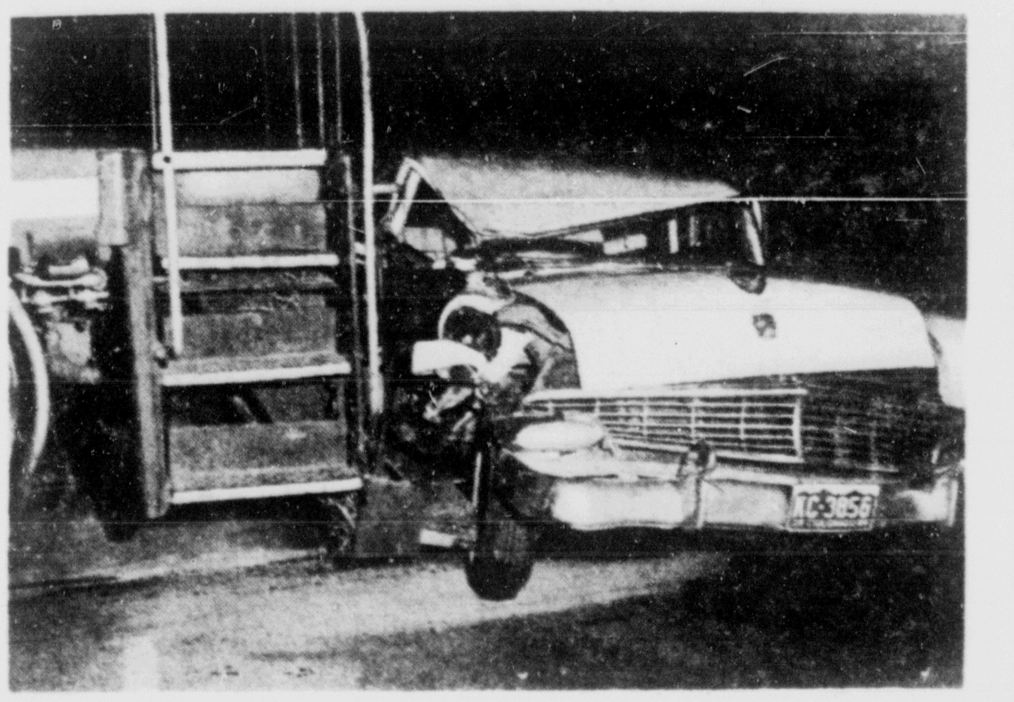
No further surgery is planned, at least for the present, he added.

The general has already endured one scheduled and two emergency operations. Doctors operated on March 6 to remove his gall bladder and gall stones which had obstructed the bile flow and had caused jaundice.

Under emergency conditions, they operated again on March 23, removing the spleen, and rerouting blood flow to lower the blood pressure on ruptured varicose veins in the esophagus.

Last Sunday, MacArthur underwent a second emergency operation to remove eight feet of intestine, part of which had been trapped and strangled by an old hernia.

The hospital was still receiving many inquiries about the old soldier's condition. Among them were messages from King Baudouin of Belgium, the National Assembly of Korea and President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines.



TRAIN-CAR COLLISION—The wreckage of a car driven by Irma Keckley, 69, 506 N. Cascade Ave., is shown shortly after the car collided with a Southbound Rock Island train on a spur track at Fillmore Street Wednesday night. Mrs. Keckley was taken to Penrose Hospital with a fractured rib and bruises. She was listed in satisfactory condition this morning. State Patrolman Jake McDaniel said the car was going west at the time of the collision. The car was pushed 19 feet after the impact.

Sheet Metal Workers Union Continues Strike

met both Monday and Tuesday nights in an effort to settle the dispute before the strike deadline at midnight Tuesday. The contract expired at that time.

The strike has affected 17 sheet metal workers employed at the NORAD Hardsite at Cheyenne Mountain.

Roger Lohse, secretary of the contractors, said Wednesday that the union had rejected an offer which included a 5-cent wage increase now, an additional 10 cents on Oct. 1 of this year, and another 10-cent increase in April, 1965. He said the offer also included a vacation plan previously requested by the union by which money would be withheld from the members' wages to finance the vacations, and a health and welfare plan which the employers would finance.

Lohse said he felt that the contractors were "bending over backward" in an effort to meet the demands of the union. He expressed the opinion that the strike would never have taken place if the Colorado Springs members of the union had not merged their Local 107 with Local 9 of Denver. He said this was the first time in 60 years that the sheet metal workers in Colorado Springs had gone out on strike.

The merger took place on March 1, about 75 days after negotiations on the union contract began. The contract expired Tuesday at midnight.

Three Cases of Theft From Cars Reported

Three cases of car theft were reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday.

The first happened at the home of Donald J. Hotavis, 101 Grinnell Ave., Widefield, when someone broke into his car which was parked in front of the house and stole a tire and wheel and spare fan belt worth a total of $32.

The second incident was reported by Mrs. Ruby Oliver who told Deputy Sheriff Harry Orvis that the floor mats had been taken from her unlocked car. They were worth $19.90.

The final theft took place at 614 Stevens Dr., the home of Frank Flinn. The Flinn car which was parked in the driveway was prowled and a number of personal papers stolen.

Darkness" more than 500 years ago.

In the first 40 years of exploration that began with Henry, mariners charted the coastline of Africa for about 1,000 miles, which then was a great undertaking, but today seems a relatively small advance.

However, in the next 40 years, Africa was rounded, and contact was made by sea with India, the Far East and the American continents.

The result, said Webb, was one which none could foresee. "It was unprecedented maritime progress in which Portugal discovered the whole world, and shattered the medieval bonds that fettered the knowledge of mankind."

Quoting an unnamed historian, Webb said, "Henry set in motion not only the Age of Discovery but 400 years of European colonization — a process that has been decried in our own time, but without which vast regions of the globe might still be in a state of barbarism."

Following Henry and what happened in his wake, first Copernicus and next Galileo pushed forward man's knowledge of his world, and then Newton speculated on what would happen to a projectile fired with sufficient force to leave the earth.

"From this," Webb said, "he worked out — nearly 300 years ago — the mathematical formula on which the launching of an artificial earth satellite is based."

Webb pointed out the parallels between the age of 500 years ago and this one.

"Just as Prince Henry inaugurated an Age of Discovery which led man to all the seas and continents of the earth and into the atmosphere up to twice the height of the tallest mountains, so have we today embarked on a new Age of Discovery in which there is no foreseeable horizon."

Throughout history, man has not been quick to perceive or grasp the opportunities opened by science and technology, he said.

In aeronautics and astronautics, America has made spasmodic progress, going forward rapidly in times of crisis and showing disinterest in "so-called periods of peace."

He pointed out that the world's first liquid fuel rocket was developed in this country, at Princeton University, in 1926 by Prof. Goddard, but in World War II, the United States ruled the air above Germany with conventional air power.

Meanwhile, "Five-and-one-half ton German V-2 rockets rained destruction upon English and continental targets until their launching sites were overrun by Allied surface forces," he said.

Further, the Germans produced the first jet aircraft to appear in combat over Europe, he pointed out, and added that the U.S. National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics which was created in 1915 had rejected a plan for jet power research in 1928.

In 1954, this nation suddenly awoke to the fact that intercontinental liquid - fuel missiles with nuclear warheads were under development in the Soviet Union.

America then went into a crash program aimed at redressing the military balance of power but then became so preoccupied with the program that it lost sight of what lay beyond.

On Oct. 4, 1957, the Russians put up Sputnik I, the first man-made earth satellite.

This caused Americans to pause and think, and it became apparent the nation was not in first place as the space age dawned, Webb said.

Now the nation is moving forward rapidly gaining much vital information about the earth, life, and the solar system, he explained.

"Scientific data collected by space vehicles is greatly extending many of the natural sciences, bringing answers to questions which have perplexed mankind from the earliest days of human existence on earth," he said.

The next space program planned by NASA is Gemini, and following that will come the Saturn V booster and the three-man Apollo spacecraft, which will permit man to travel, explore and use the space not only around the earth, but outward to the moon, Webb said.

Apollo will give the United States preeminence in the space field, he stated. "Russia is not building such a device, we believe, and there is no indication that she is capable of building one within the time frame we will allow," he said.

Where will all of this lead?

Webb quoted the late Pres. John F. Kennedy, who told an audience at Brooks Air Force Base the story written by Frank O'Connor, an Irish writer, about his youth:

"'As a boy,' Pres. Kennedy related, 'O'Connor and his friends would make their way across the countryside, and when they came to an orchard wall that seemed too high and too doubtful to try and too difficult to permit their voyage to continue, they took off their hats and tossed them over the wall — and then they had no choice but to follow.'

"'This nation has tossed its cap over the wall of space, and we have no choice but to follow it. . . with the help of all those who labor in the space endeavor, with the help and support of all Americans, we will climb this wall with safety and speed, and we shall then explore the wonders on the other side.'"

The Nation's Weather

These showers and thundershowers should increase in amount and intensity during the day in the central portion of the country.

Scattered showers also developed ahead of a warm front from South Carolina through the Ohio Valley into the central Great Lakes.

Cincinnati reported more than a half of an inch during the past six hours ending at 7 a.m. here. Showers with snow at higher elevations fell over the Rockies and Plateau region during the night.

Grand Canyon in northern Arizona was blanketed with four inches of snow while Ely, Nev., reported three inches of snow.

There were a few showers in western Washington and Oregon along with the northwest coast of California.

Temperatures were quite cold again this morning in the middle and north Atlantic states. Lowest temperatures for so late in the season were set at Atlantic City with 23 degrees and Cape Hatteras, N.C. with 26 degrees.

Testimony was given during the second day of the trial by Robert J. Ryan who turned state's evidence against Thomas and West.

Ryan, 27, 1527 S. Franklin St., has been charged with aggravated robbery, receiving stolen property and conspiracy arising out of the Furr's incident.

He has pleaded innocent to all counts and is scheduled for trial April 21, but a member of the district attorney's office indicated during recess Wednesday it was highly probable he would change his plea.

Ryan admitted in open court that he had been charged and was presently in county jail. Although he denied he had received any promises or inducements to testify, he proceeded to outline in detail his association with the defendant, Thomas and West and related how Coy masterminded the robbery.

He had shared a house with Coy he said, and they had gone into partnership in the entertainment business. They were not very successful so they "cased" Furr's Super Market with intention of burglarizing it. During the course of their investigations, he continued, they discovered it had a safe and as neither of them knew anything about safes, the plan was changed and they decided to stage an armed robbery.

Sometime in November they met William Thomas and his wife Pamela. Mrs. Thomas has subsequently been found guilty of no account check and is scheduled for sentencing in the near future.

Thomas was found guilty of aggravated robbery and conspiracy March 5 but his attorney, Otto Hilbert has won him a new trial.

The Thomas family moved in with the witness and Coy and when the plan to rob the store was mentioned, Thomas, the witness said, was agreeable. Finally it was decided three men should participate. Ryan was excluded, and an acquaintance of Thomas', Larry West, was approached and found willing.

The witness then went on to tell how he and West went to Albuquerque to buy guns and came back the following day. Subsequently several attempts were made to rob the store but it was called off each time as there were always too many people present.

On Dec. 4, the day of the stickup, as Coy left the Franklin Street address with Thomas and West, Ryan testified Coy said, "If it's necessary to use these guns, I've got two good men to back me up."

The trio returned about 8:30 a.m. carrying a shopping bag. Ryan removed the getaway car from the front of the house, came back and the money was split up. According to the charge filed against Ryan he received $740.

The Thomases and Coy finally went to Phoenix, Ariz. in the witness's car and Ryan joined them after traveling there by bus, Ryan told the court. West went to Cascade.

Thomas, his wife, Coy and the witness rented a house in Tempe, lived there for about a week and then Thomas and Coy took off leaving Ryan and Mrs. Thomas. On Dec. 16, said the witness, he was arrested and returned to Colorado Springs.

During cross examination conducted by Coy's attorney, Darrell Thomas, Ryan admitted he had pleaded not guilty to all three counts against him. Commenting that Wednesday's testimony was inconsistent with his plea Thomas asked "Did you make those statements in hopes of making a deal or receiving leniency from the district attorney's office?" "No," answered the witness. "Why are you on the stand testifying against someone you have been in business with," the attorney probed? "I was charged with three counts and did not feel I was guilty of all three." "Don't you intend to change your plea to guilty of all three," Thomas demanded. "No," Ryan answered.

He also denied ever taking dope, being a heavy drinker and being involved in bar room brawls.

The attorney asked him why he had refused to speak to him before the trial and Ryan answered "Your interest in this case doesn't coincide with mine. You're defending him, I'm testifying against him." "Why?" asked the lawyer. "Because I think it's the thing to do." Coy's attorney then commented that Ryan's trial was set for April 21 and concluded sharply saying "I take it you're confessing."

Earlier testimony was given by C. R. Duran of the state patrol who told the court he picked up Coy and Thomas Dec. 14 near Walsenburg. Deputy Sheriffs Franklin T. Ripley and Woodrow Littrell also took the stand.

No testimony was offered by the defense attorney but he said in his closing statement that the testimony given the previous day by Cecil Brinson, manager of the food store, was "beyond belief as he was so prejudiced and should be discounted." There was not enough evidence before the jury, Thomas said, to show that Brinson was intimidated and afraid and the statute provided that these elements must be present for a conviction on an aggravated robbery charge.

The attorney also said Ryan's testimony should be regarded with great caution — "I would not trust his testimony a minute. . . it is totally, completely unreliable. . . if anyone lied on the witness stand it was him."

Coy was given 15 days in which to file for a new trial by the presiding judge, David W. Enoch. Herman Ratner and Charles West appeared for the district attorney's office.

GEN. WILLIAM H. HENNIG

Veteran Officer To Retire at NORAD July 1

United States Army Maj. Gen. William H. Hennig, North American Air Defense Command chief of staff since November 1959 will retire from active military service July 1.

Gen. Hennig graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in June 1928 and has 36 years of commissioned service to his credit.

In 1958 when the first NORAD Army Air Defense Command Nike Hercules missile organization was equipped with a nuclear capability, Gen. Hennig was selected its commander, making him a pioneer in that field.

During his four years in Colorado Springs, Gen. Hennig has been active in community affairs. When speaking of his feeling for the community recently he said, "This city has more friendly people for its size than any other community I have ever served in."

Gen. and Mrs. Hennig, who have resided at 16 El Encanto Drive in Colorado Springs, will travel in the U.S. prior to selecting their permanent retirement home.

of Local 41. The roofers presently draw $4.10 per hour.

George Canfield of Denver, president of Associated Roofing, was quoted by a Denver newspaper as having said that the union is asking for a wage increase of 65 cents an hour over the same period. Canfield was out of town today and could not be reached.

Also unavailable for comment was Archie Topping of Denver, business representative of Local 41.

Bailey Injuries Not as Serious As Reported

The condition of Battalion Chief Barnard Bailey of the Colorado Springs Fire Department, who was injured in a car collision at West Colorado Avenue and Limit Street Tuesday, today was reported not to be so serious as was first believed. His injured left leg was not broken. He did suffer a broken nose.

The condition of Mrs. Margaret Kumm, of Manitou Springs, driver of the other car was reported today to be much improved.

a work which demands virtuosity of pianist and orchestra, Kunc, 60, wiped his brow three times and once momentarily rested his head in his arms, witnesses said.

He took two bows alone and bowed to the applause a third time with conductor Sixten Ehrling.

As Miss Milanov finished an encore just 25 minutes later, C. P. Kennedy, stage manager, "turned and looked back into the wings, there he was," Kennedy said, "lying on his back and breathing heavily."

Stagehands said Kunc had been pacing back and forth while his sister sang a Croatian folk song and an operatic aria minutes before.

Kennedy summoned a doctor from the audience. The physician worked over Kunc among the tangle of ropes and pulleys. Miss Milanov came to her brother's side.

Kunc was dead on arrival at receiving hospital. A medical examiner's report said he died from a heart attack brought on by an arterial sclerotic heart disease (hardening of the arteries).

Kunc's wife, DeElda, and sister accompanied the ambulance to the hospital.

Kunc's performance of the concerto was a Detroit premiere in a $10,000 orchestra fund-raising project by the Detroit Croatian Board of Trade. His American premiere of the work was with the Philadelphia orchestra in 1954. He wrote it in 1933-34.

The audience, at first unaware of Kunc's death, received word of it at a gala reception in the Detroit Athletic Club, said Detroit Free Press music critic Collins George.

"When the word reached the reception," he said, "the men and women solemnly retrieved their coats.

"They checked again the name of Bozidar Kunc, placed the programs on a handsomely decorated table, and left the room in silence," he said.

A prolific composer, Kunc had more than 90 works to his credit. They included compositions for orchestra, piano, violin and voice.

The Kuncs had planned to baptize their 1½-year-old daughter Ivana today. The godfather was to have been John Prepolec, board of trade chairman.

Kunc had lived in the United States since about 1951. He taught piano and voice in New York City.

There was perhaps only one forewarning of Kunc's collapse, Detroit News music critic Armand Gebert said.

"During a rest period, he leaned on the music rest of the piano," Gebert said. "He put his arms on there and rested his head on his arms, but just for a very brief moment." Musicians often wipe their brows after intense passages, Gebert said, but he thought it unusual for Kunc to rest his head.

The performance "was very bombastic," Gebert said.

Kunc's playing was "exciting" and the pianist "seemed to be in fine fettle," George said.

Howard L. Addison Services Set Friday

Howard L. Addison, 2529 E. Columbia St., a contractor and life resident of the Pikes Peak Region, died Tuesday at a local hospital. He was a graduate of the Palmer High School, a member of Mountain View Chapel and of the Home Builders Association. He was a veteran of World War II.

Mr. Addison was born in Yoder, Colo. June 15, 1919. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Katherine Addison, Colorado Springs; three sons, William E. and Walter Jack Addison, both of Colorado Springs, and Robert M. Addison, Newport Beach, Calif.; a daughter, Miss Katherine Addison, Colorado Springs; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Addison, Peyton; a brother Elvin R. Addison, Greeley, Colo.; two sisters, Mrs. Nellie M. Nelson, Colorado Springs, and Mrs. Phyllis J. Holmberg, Leadville, Colo., and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Friday at the Law Drawing Room. The Rev. Earl Engle Jr. will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Food Price Probe Asked by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to set up a bipartisan commission to look into the spread between what consumers pay for food products and what farmers receive for them.

Johnson had announced in a news conference at his ranch in Texas last Saturday that he would ask for the legislation. He said then that in some cases producers were receiving 25 to 30 per cent more, or about the same as a year ago.

In today's letter to Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., and Senate President Pro Tem Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., Johnson made no direct mention of the price spread. He said the commission would study and appraise the changes taking place in the American food industry.

The bipartisan commission would be composed of 15 members. Five each would be named by the House and Senate and five by the President. Johnson said sufficient information is not now available to permit an informed judgment concerning the effect of recent changes in the food industry.

Teacher Proves Blind Student School Success

By MICHAELA S PYLE

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Educators here are observing a blind student teacher in an experiment that could open new horizons for sightless men and women.

While local administrators view the project with some apprehension, 69 students of Spanish at Gettysburg High School are enthusiastic about William J. Shoemaker Jr., whose other senses are so acute that no student dares to be disrespectful or inattentive.

Blind from birth, the 21-year-old language major at Gettysburg College will complete a 14-week student teaching program at the local high school in mid-May. He will receive his B.A. degree in June and will begin graduate studies at the University of Pennsylvania in September.

Shoemaker is one of two blind children of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Shoemaker Sr., Valley Stream, N.Y., elementary teachers in the New York City school system. Bill and his sister, Ruth, a sophomore at Gettysburg College, both were born blind victims of optic nerve atrophy. Each is determined to teach in public schools.

When Shoemaker came to Gettysburg College four years ago, Dr. Russell Rosenberger, head of the department of education, questioned the advisability of his going into education.

"But I soon realized that his determination to become a teacher was much stronger than any of the obstacles I thought he faced," Rosenberger said.

Shoemaker recognizes the obstacles, but he believes he can meet them successfully.

His teacher-adviser, Jose M. Perez, says he is amazed at the response Shoemaker receives from the students.

Shoemaker acquired his college education by carrying a portable tape recorder to class and, through a special mouthpiece, dictating notes to the machine without disturbing other students. When he returned to his dormitory room he transcribed the recording to Braille notes.

Shoemaker speaks freely of his blindness.

"I learned to accept it many years ago and was determined that the loss of sight would not keep me from doing everything in life there is to do," he said.

Nikita Sends Message Over Alaska Quake

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has sent a condolence message to President Johnson over the earthquake "in neighboring Alaska," close to Siberia.

The message, made public here today, asked Johnson "to accept our profound sympathy and to convey the Soviet people's sincere condolences to the population of the affected state."

BIGGER COCOA CROP

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Trade sources anticipate a substantial increase in the 1963-64 Nigerian cocoa crop over the 1962-63 crop of 175,000 tons.

Several cocoa merchants forecast a crop of about 200,000 tons, or slightly more than the record 195,000 tons in 1961-62. Part of the increase this year represents cocoa from the light 1962-63 crop held over to the new season to take advantage of higher producer prices, sources said.

Ike Would Not Have Permitted Wall

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says he never would have allowed the Communists to build the Berlin wall.

Eisenhower also told the first Republican party-to-people forum Tuesday:

—Any Russians who flew over United States or Allied territory and refused orders to land should "pay the penalty"—presumably meaning they should be shot down.

—There never was a missile gap, as the Democrats had charged.

—The United States has considerably less prestige than when he left office.

—The United States is in trouble with its alliances, especially because we offend friends like French President Charles de Gaulle when we don't consult them.

Eisenhower headed a panel of top Republicans who are trying to find an American consensus on what is needed "for the peace and security of the United States." The consensus is to be put in the Repubican platform.

ONE FAMILY AT A TIME

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Mrs. Keen Johnson, whose husband once served as governor, still chuckles when she recalls one of her shopping trips here.

Handing the clerk in a downtown store a bunch of packages, Mrs. Johnson asked that they be charged and gave her name.

The Pony Express began service between St. Joseph, Mo., and Sacramento, Calif. April 3, 1860.

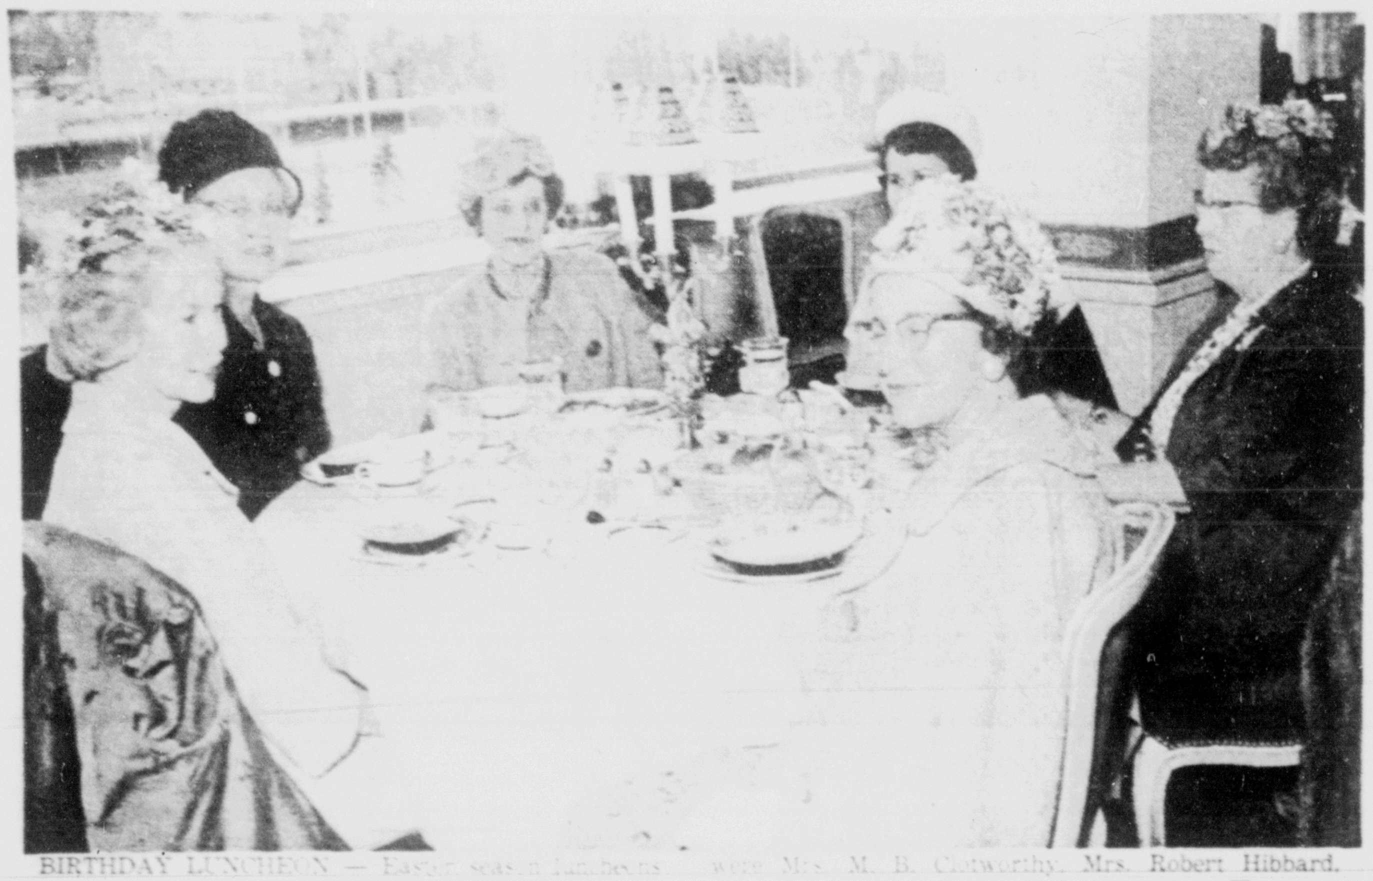
Springtime Theme to Be Feature of Benefit Party

Reservations are being received for the annual benefit card party sponsored by the Altar and Rosary Society of Holy Trinity Church, to be held in the parish hall at 1 p.m., Saturday, April 18. Dessert and coffee will be served.

The theme of this year's party is "Springtime in the Rockies." The attendance prize will be a spring flower arrangement by Jerry Mahoney of Circle Florists. A $100 gift certificate and two $25 gift certificates from Montgomery Ward will be awarded during the afternoon. Ticket holders need not be present to win. In addition, the usual table of beautiful prizes will be featured.

Early reservations are advised because the capacity of the hall is limited to 50 tables. Receiving reservations are Mrs. George Parks, 633-6763; Mrs. Overton H. Gilmere, 633-8047, or Mrs. James J. Gonski, 632-3720.

Among those working on the card party are: chairman, Mrs. C. P. Semmens; co-chairman, Mrs. John J. Montgomery; Circle 12, Mrs. C. M. Loughrey, chairman, prizes; Circle 6, Mrs. Dan Johnson, table arrangements; Circle 5, Mrs. George Parks, reservations and tickets; Circle 10, Mrs. R. R. Mertens, decorations. Dessert arrangements are being made by Circles 1, Mrs. Nicholas Mattes; 2, Mrs. Robert O. Clark; 7, Mrs. Celeste Duggan; and 9, Mrs. L. E. McCarthy.



BIRTHDAY LUNCHEON — Easter season luncheons in the Penrose Room of The Broadmoor included a birthday celebration honoring Mrs. Don Hibbard, left, given by Mrs. R. L. Spurgeon, seated next. Other guests were Mrs. M. B. Clotworthy, Mrs. Robert Hibbard, Mrs. F. L. Bunts and Mrs. E. L. Richardson. The group enjoyed a showing of spring fashions presented in the series of regular Thursday fashion shows.

Everett Scott Will Be Panelist on NSA Workshop

Everett Scott, district supervisor for the State of Colorado Department of Rehabilitation for the past eight-and-one-half years in Colorado Springs, and first vice president of the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center, will be a panelist speaker at the sixth annual Workshop sponsored by the Pikes Peak Chapter of The National Secretaries Association at Colorado College on April 11. Mr. Scott will speak on Motivation for Decision Making.

Mr. Scott's experience in social work is wide and varied. He started as child welfare worker in Billings, Mont. Since that time he has worked for the Community Center in Kansas City, Kan.; has done field work in psychiatric social work under doctors of the Menninger Clinic and the V. A. Regional office in Kansas City, Mo., and just prior to his becoming District Supervisor, he worked in child welfare in El Paso County and was employment counselor in Pueblo for a time.

Mr. Scott has attended Whitworth College, Linfield College, Whitman College, Washington State College Graduate School of Social Work, Gallaudet College in Washington, D. C., and Kansas University Graduate School of Social Work. He is a veteran of World War II and resides with his wife and two teenage daughters in Colorado Springs.

Other panelists will include Dr. Lelong, Colorado College, and Betty Suvanto of Colorado Interstate Gas.

Mrs. Tubbs Heads BSP Chapter

Mrs. Barbara Tubbs was elected president of Phi Rho Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, at a meeting held Monday at the home of Mrs. Polly Coil. Miss Betty Brenek, is vice president; Miss Hariette Moore, recording secretary; Mrs. Linda Brice, corresponding secretary; Miss Marina Shankland, treasurer; and Miss Sharon Walker, representative to BSP city council.

The chapter gave an Easter basket and a birthday gift of a hat and matching purse to an underprivileged youngster.

The next meeting will be held at 8 p.m. April 13, at the home of Mrs. Tubbs, 5845-B, Ft. Carson.

A Sarah Coventry party will be held April 20 at the home of Mrs. Tubbs.

Paintings by Mrs. Edwards To Be Exhibited at YWCA

Mrs. M. B. Mize, chairman of the YWCA Food Service Committee announces that a new one-man art exhibit has been hung in the cafeteria.

The artist whose work is on display is Mrs. Ruel C. (Goldie) Edwards. Mrs. Edwards began her art career when she was in Junior High School in Huntington, W. V. She had her work exhibited in a special art show and distinguished herself through posters of unusual merit. She credits an art teacher, Miss Beinkampen, for encouraging her.

She states that her mother was not sympathetic with her talents and demanded that she quit High School to take a job. Later she enrolled in a Mechanical Drafting Extension Course and again distinguished herself with the teachers. When her husband was stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., she took a drafting job but soon her talents were discovered and she was given illustrating and poster work. She also designed materials for special projects.

During 1952-54 while her husband was stationed in Germany, she studied under a French Artist: Mainz, and later when they were at Wiesbaden, Germany, she had two art exhibits of her work.

Scenes for her pictures have been inspired by the many localities in which she has lived. She is currently working on a large picture of Jacqueline Kennedy.

Mrs. Edwards and her husband live in Security. He is no longer in the Service and they expect to make their home here.

Mrs. Edwards has an ability which might be of interest to program chairmen of groups who want an outstanding program. She has the ability to construct a picture spontaneously after some member of the group makes a few random marks on her large pad or blackboard. Sometimes a poem or a song is used as the inspiration for these on-the-spot pictures and designs.

Mrs. Edwards has agreed to give a demonstration at the YWCA soon, the date to be announced later. Her pictures will hang during April. Cafeteria serving hours are 11:30-1:30 p.m. and 5-7 p.m.

Get-Acquainted Events Scheduled For YW Members

Members of the YWCA and their guests will meet at the YWCA from 1 to 3 o'clock Friday for table games and cards.

These semi-monthly afternoons, the first and third Fridays, are planned by the membership committee to help members become acquainted, and for those who have been in YWCA bridge classes to practice their new skills.

The committee will include Mrs. John R. Meyer, Mrs. Ray Strohm and Mrs. Howard Whitlock.

No reservations are necessary. The committee assigns tables and helps with progressive games, and will arrange playing companions for those who come alone.

There are other games provided in addition to canasta and bridge.

Eta Psi Chapter Plans Program

The Eta Psi Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha held its March business meeting at the home of Mrs. John Koch. All members were present.

The ways and means chairman brought up for discussion the CAA program and it was voted to try it for the next 13 weeks. The program was given by Mrs. George Coupens. The state convention to be held in May at Estes Park was discussed.

The social meeting of the month was held at the home of Mrs. Ferrel Patterson. Tripoli was played, with the high going to George Coupens and the low to Mrs. Patterson. The April business meeting will be held at the home of Dorothy Bower.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

It's NOT Elementary!

DEAR ABBY: Our children go to elementary school in a state where salaries are low and there is a shortage of teachers. A woman I shall call Mrs. X is a supply teacher. She is also a crossing guard, and must excuse herself in order to direct traffic. Mrs. X married at 14 and had her first child at 15. She did not even finish JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL. Yet we hear that the principal is making her a full-time teacher next year. When we complained, the principal said he "thought" she took a correspondence course and finished high school. Is this fair? Many high school grads would like to forego the expense and work of college, and go right into teaching. Mrs. X must have cast a spell over this principal. What can be done? —ANGRY PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Qualifications for teaching vary vastly in the individual states. But apparently Mrs. X qualifies to teach in yours. If she hasn't also "cast a spell" over the superintendent and the school board, they can explain it to you.

DEAR ABBY: What makes a 57-year-old man suddenly decide to go on a diet, and to take an interest in clothes and grooming? —CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: A woman.

DEAR ABBY: My front porch is being used for a public bus stop. When it rains, my porch is crowded with strangers who are waiting for the bus. Some of them leave newspapers on the floor, and I even find cigarette butts that have been crushed by their heels. My porch is my private property. I hate to be mean, but I am getting tired of cleaning up after the public. I can't help it if my house is right on the corner a few steps from the bus stop. What should I do? —BAD BACK

DEAR BAD: (1) You could ask either the "city" or the transportation company to provide a shelter for that bus stop. (2) You could enclose your porch and put a lock on the gate. (3) You could stick your head out the door and remind folks that they are trespassing on private property. Number Two would be my choice.

DEAR ABBY: A very cute boy shouted across the campus to me, "C. Y. K." I didn't know what he meant, so the next time I saw him I asked him and he told me to ask you. So I am asking. —DEBBIE

DEAR DEBBIE: It means "Consider yourself kissed."

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

While testing laundry methods at a friend's house, I hit upon a good idea.

There happened to be quite a few birds in the neighborhood, so as soon as I hung up the clothes, I took an old plastic shower curtain and laid it over all of the clothesline and clipped it tightly at each corner with clothespins. The plastic curtain protected the laundry from the birds. This is especially good for women who leave their clothes out airing for more than one day. Besides, the plastic curtain may be hosed off.

We found that if we left our white things out two days they were "even" whiter. The moisture, which comes around midnight, seeps into the white sheets, pillowcases, bath towels, and diapers ... and just does something to the clothes.

Then one can go outside early the next morning, remove the clothes to be ironed and they are "just right" for ironing. All one has to do is to put them in a plastic bag. I find it is far better to fold and put the clothes into the bag instead of rolling them tightly.

Isn't clean laundry wonderful? There's nothing that gives one more prestige in a neighborhood than white laundry. Huh? —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

To measure shortening without mess, first rinse your aluminum measuring cup with hot water, but do not dry it. Then dip the cup directly into the shortening. It will fall right out — the shortening, that is! — Mrs. Neal Pock

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

I darn my husband's socks like this:

I collect all the ripped ones, pass my hand over them while saying "Darn, darn, darn" and then throw them away or save them for cleaning rags . . . — A. N. M.

Dear Heloise:

To copy that favorite monogram or embroidery pattern from, say a blouse — to a pillowcase, lay the pillowslip over the monogram or blouse. Rub a silver spoon in your hair first and then rub it over the pillowslip — applying a little pressure. Repeat, rubbing the spoon in your hair as often as necessary.

Result? A quick, accurate pattern of the embroidery underneath.

Then the monogram can be embroidered any way you like, especially on these new sewing machines which make all the fancy stitching. —Mrs. Leonard Faucett

---

Lay the monogrammed article on your ironing board (it must be on something "soft" I found out) and rub briskly with the silver spoon. It works like magic but you'll never believe it until you try it. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

How many people have ever been annoyed by having the cork of a thermos bottle pop up after they have poured in the contents.

Did you know that if you dip the cork in a bowl of sugar before putting it in the hot liquid that it won't pop up? Try it! It works. —Charles

Dear Heloise:

When I give someone a wedding gift, I always enclose several old rags (clean, of course). Terry towels, old sheets, flannel, etc. are so welcome because it takes years before the bride's things wear out enough to be used for "dirty" work. I've had many thanks from girls I've given these to in the past. Be sure to add a note to these so she will know what they are for.

For kitchen showers I buy a plastic bucket, dish drainer, sponges, some spray wax, a bottle of household ammonia, and put in some of the soft rags. This isn't very glamorous but each one of the brides-to-be has come to me "later" to say how much she appreciated it.

We old married gals know that it is this eternal list of items that takes so much money out of a new wife's already squeezed budget. —Carole Peeples

The bidding:

East	South	West	North

Pass	2 ♡	Pass	4 ♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♣

Today's hand produced a sizable swing when it was dealt in a recent team-of-four match. Both declarers played a four heart contract and were the victims of an unfavorable trump split. One player was more adept than the other in anticipating adversity, however, and therein lies our tale.

The bidding was identical at both tables, and in each instance the opening lead was the queen of clubs. One declarer won the trick with North's king of clubs and observed that, with the probable three-two division of hearts, he should have no trouble in confining his losses to—at most—two hearts and one spade.

He promptly returned a club to his ace and ruffed the next round in dummy. The ace and another heart revealed the bad news in trumps, and East rattled off three straight heart tricks. The queen of spades was returned and South put up the ace. His only remaining hope was that diamonds would break evenly so that he could obtain a spade discard on North's long diamond. When this failed to come off, he conceded defeat.

At the other table the player in the South seat also took the first trick with dummy's king of clubs. It was likewise his intention to ruff a club and then attempt to split out the trumps. However, as a matter of technique—and at no additional cost to himself—he decided first to lead the nine of hearts from dummy, in the manner of one who was making a play in trumps. East hastened to split his heart honors by putting in the jack of hearts, and declarer covered with the ace as West's ten fell.

South now played the ace and another club ruffing in dummy. Trump was led and East was unable to take more than two heart tricks. His four of hearts eventually succumbed to declarer's holding in the suit. South cheerfully conceded a spade to fulfill his contract.

Whether or not East is to be severely condemned for his heart play is perhaps a moot question, but South certainly showed greater resourcefulness than his counterpart at the other table in launching the campaign which induced his opponent to commit the fatal slip.

Rehabilitation Center Gets Check From Fort Thrift Shop

Another in a series of four $200 checks was turned over yesterday from the Thrift Shop at Ft. Carson for the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center.

The money is part of the proceeds from operation of the Thrift Shop. It is earmarked to pay tuition costs for the 12 Ft. Carson children attending the Hope House for Retarded Children.

A total of $1,200 will be given to the Dads Club at Ft. Carson some time in April for the benefit of youth programs at Ft. Carson.

The $200 to the Rehabilitation Center is part of $800 which the Thrift Shop has undertaken to raise during 1963-64.

The Thrift Shop sells goods consigned or donated by military personnel. Anyone may donate and anyone may buy at the Thrift Shop, which is open for sales on Wednesdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Consignments by military personnel and their dependents are accepted on Mondays.

Good Breakfast Makes Day Glow!

A brighter breakfast makes the entire day seem brighter. If you doubt it, take this Pear Crescent hot from the oven, serve with fruit juice and coffee and watch the early morning smiles. Flavorful, fragrant and substantial—it's very good.

Spicy Pear Crescent

- 1 (1 pound 13 ounce) can Bartlett pear halves
- 2-3 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 package dry granular yeast
- 1 cup butter
- ¼ cup very warm water
- 4 egg yolks, lightly beaten
- 4 cups sifted flour
- ½ teaspoon salt

Topping

- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon mace
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
- ½ cup chopped nuts

Slice pear halves and drain thoroughly on absorbent paper. Scald milk. Add 1 teaspoon sugar and cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in water. Add to milk mixture. Stir in beaten egg yolks. Cut butter into flour and salt. Stir in yeast mixture and blend thoroughly. Dough will be soft and moist.

Divide dough into two parts. Roll out one portion on floured board. Arrange half of the pear slices on half the dough. Sprinkle with half of the topping made by combining topping ingredients. Fold dough in the center. Moisten edges slightly and seal by fluting. Slash across the top diagonally at 1-inch intervals. Repeat with remaining portion of dough. Place on lightly greased backing sheet and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for 35 to 40 minutes. Drizzle with powdered sugar icing. Slice diagonally and serve warm.

Hint: For easier handling transfer rolled dough to baking sheet before adding pears and topping.

Barbara has been the Birkebaks' pet since she was found by Richard's father a year ago. She flies daily to Falcon Heights Elementary School and sits on the sign above the entrance while the children line up to march into the building.

Then she retires to a nearby telephone wire to wait for recess, when she joins the kids on the playground.

LBJ's Favorite: White House Deer Meat Sausage

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) —Deer Sausage, Presidential style, is a new item on our national menu. Gourmets and psychologists scent political significance.

They point out that a deer covers many miles a day, can climb the side of a mountain in a few minutes and develops hard muscles. The meat is tough and lean.

But the deer sausage served at the Johnson ranch near Fredericksburg, Texas, is not all tough nor all lean. It has a smoother side, too. Because deer meat has no fat, the sweet fat of pork in equal amounts goes into the now historic sausage.

The White House gave us the recipe for 200 pounds. It starts: "Take one-half deer and one-half hog." The offical seasoning lacks French subtlety. Black and red pepper and sage are the insistent spices. Salt, like sage, is freely used.

The President prides himself on his traditional Texas cooking. No modern short cuts for him. It takes three days to make the sausage. The meats are mixed together outdoors and cooked in big galvanized tubs. Some Republican observers of the rite report the smell is horrible. This might be no more than bias.

Our White House recipe is a bit sketchy. Like many chefs, French or political, LBJ may not want to divulge all his secrets.

Therefore, your gastronomic sleuth, consulted a deer-sausage neighbor of the LBJ ranch.

"I'm sure the Johnson ranch does it the same way all old-timers do. He's a stickler for authenticity," he said.

"It must be done outdoors. Combine the venison and pork and season highly. Grind together, using first a coarse chili grind, then a fine grind.

"We used to use the pork intestines for casings. But today a lot of people buy casings from a packing house," he continued, adding, "the sausage can be smoked by hanging in the smokehouse. Or it can be packed like fresh sausage and frozen. If you freeze it, there will always be some on hand when visitors you want to impress arrive unexpectedly."

Up to 25 years ago Texans used venison sausage almost exclusively, he commented. However, many Texans now substitute pork sausage processed by packing houses for deer. But not LBJ.

Like the President, the new First Lady often hankers for a nostalgic taste of Texas cooking. Visitors to their ranch understand why. Lady Bird's rich chocolate cake with coconut-pecan frosting is an old recipe used in the Texas German colony in 1846. Even visiting German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, no mean trencherman, asked for seconds and pronouced it "wunderbar."

There may be election year significance in hearty deer sausage and "wunderbar" chocolate cake. If so, the pollsters will soon report. In the meantime, let's follow the advice of Marie Antionette (no deer sausage fan) and eat cake.

Lady Bird Johnson's German Chocolate Cake

- 1 package sweet chocolate
- ½ cup boiling water
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 2 cups sugar
- 4 egg yolks, unbeaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2½ cups sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- Coconut-pecan filling and frosting

Melt chocolate in ½ cup of boiling water. Cool. Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating after each. Add vanilla and melted chocolate and mix until blended. Sift flour with soda and salt. Add sifted dry ingredients to chocolate mixture alternately with buttermilk, beating after each addition until batter is smooth. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Pour batter into three 8- or 9-inch round layer pans lined on bottoms with paper. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 35 to 40 minutes for 8-inch layers or 30 to 35 minutes for 9-inch layers, or until cake springs back when lightly pressed. Cool. (This delicate cake will have a flat contour and a slightly sugary top crust which tends to crack.) Frost top and between layers with coconut pecan filling and frosting for 3-layer cake.

"Note": Cake may also be baked in two 8x8x2-inch square pans lined on bottoms with paper, for 45 to 50 minutes, or two 9x9x2-inch square pans, lined on bottoms with paper for 40 to 45 minutes.

Frosting Recipe

Combine 1 cup evaporated milk, 1 cup sugar, 3 egg yolks slightly beaten, ¼ pound butter or margarine, and 1 teaspoon vanilla in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat 12 minutes, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat. Add about 1 1-3 cups flake coconut and 1 cup chopped pecans. Beat until cool and of spreading consistency. Makes 2 2-3 cups, or enough to cover tops of three 8- or 9-inch layers.

Devil Figures In Art Contest

PLEASANT HILL, Calif. (UPI)—The Pleasant Hill Chamber of Commerce plans to hold an art course for California and Nevada high school students. Entrants are to draw a devil—a very special one.

He is "Puy," the spirit and protector of Contra Costa County's Mt. Diablo, located about 20 miles east of San Francisco.

"Puy" was first recorded in history after a battle between the Spanish and Indians at the foot of Mt. Diablo in 1806. Legend has it that "Puy," dressed in "extraordinary plumage and making diverse movements," appeared near the combatants and scared the Spanish soldiers away.

His appearance was described by General Mariano Vallejo in a report presented to the California State Legislature in 1850.

Daring Dish: Chops and Cherries

Now is the time to brighten up your family meals. So be a little adventurous and serve these colonial pork chops with bright red cherry sauce.

Colonial Pork Chops (6 Servings)

- 6 sweet potatoes
- 6 pork chops
- ¼ cup unsulphured molasses
- ¼ cup water
- ½ teaspoon instant minced onion
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard
- ¼ teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- ¾ teaspoon salt

Cook sweet potatoes in boiling salted water for 15 minutes. Drain, cool slightly, peel and cut in half; arrange in 3-quart casserole. Brown chops slowly on both sides in skillet, 15 to 20 minutes. Combine molasses, water, instant minced onion, dry mustard and ginger; pour over sweet potatoes. Sprinkle pork chops on both sides with monosodium glutamate and salt; arrange over sweet potatoes. Bake, covered, in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour, or until chops are tender. Serve with Cherry Sauce.

Cherry Sauce (2¾ cups)

- 1 can (1 pound) tart red pitted cherries (water-packed)
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard
- ¼ teaspoon ginger
- Red food coloring
- 1 tablespoon butter

* * *

Drain liquid from cherries into 2-cup measure (reserve cherries); add water to make 1½ cups. Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt, dry mustard and ginger in saucepan; gradually blend in liquid. Stir constantly over moderate heat until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Add cherries and a few drops of red food coloring to make attractive color. Cook 3 more minutes; remove from heat and stir in butter.

Cook's Tour

By JEANNE LESEM

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — "When you're a good cook, you cannot follow a recipe—you must feel it," says Sara Tucker, wife of the operatic tenor, Richard Tucker.

Her recipe for chemzel, a fritter-type dessert, calls for 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon of salt, 1 cup of water, 1 teaspoon of chicken fat and 5 other ingredeints—ad lib. The measurements are left to each cook's own judgment, to make a dough thick enough to mold around fruit preserve centers.

Chemzel can be served throughout the year, Mrs. Tucker said in an interview. It is a favorite with her family—husband, three sons and a daughter-in-law — during Passover, the eight-day spring festival commemorating the Jews' exodus from Egypt.

Passover this year begins at sundown March 27. A ceremonial meal called the Seder is held the first two nights by Orthodox and Conservative Jews.

The Tuckers will observe the holiday in Miami Beach, where her husband customarily serves as cantor for the Seders at a hotel. Tucker held a top cantorial post in Conservative Judaism before he entered opera.

"Except for symbolic foods used in the Seder ritual, there are few menu restrictions," Mrs. Tucker said. Leavened bread is forbidden throughout Passover because the Israelites who fled Egypt had no time during their exodus to wait for bread dough to rise. Only matzos, which are unleavened bread, are permitted, and matzo meal and potato flour substitute for wheat flour.

Vegetables of the legume family also are forbidden, presumably because certain dried peas or beans create their own natural yeast when soaked before cooking.

Ceremonial foods include matzos, sacramental wine, bitter herbs — horseradish, representing the Israelites' tears; a roasted lamb shank bone—symbolizing the Pascal lamb; an egg roasted in its shell, symbolizing burned sacrifices made in the ancient temples of Jerusalem; and charoses, a mixture of finely chopped walnuts, apples, raisins and wine, representing the mortar used by the enslaved Jews to build the Pyramids.

Asked to describe a favorite family menu of Seder, Mrs. Tucker said it might include grapefruit halves, hard-coooked eggs, gefilte fish (fish dumplings served cold with red horseradish), clear chicken soup with matzo balls (matzo meal dumplings), roast chicken, timmes or potato pudding, vegetables, applesauce or dried fruit compote, and tea with cakes, such as chemzel, honey or sponge cake, macaroons or taiglach — small round cakes mounded with honey glaze which symbolize the sweetness of life.

Mrs. Tucker said tzimmes means mixture and usually includes fruit, vegetables and beef brisket.

She accompanies her husband on frequent concert tours so she welcomes a chance to do some cooking when they're home in Great Neck, N.Y. Unlike some male opera stars, her husband does no cooking himself.

"In the Jewish tradition, men shouldn't be in the kitchen—except to pick up a lid to see what's cooking," Mrs. Tucker said.

Chemzel

Here's Mrs. Richard Tucker's recipe for chemzel. Beat 3 eggs with 1 teaspoon of salt and 1 cup of water. Add 1 teaspoon of chicken fat and enough matzo meal to form a dry batter stiff enough to mold into small ovals. Make a depression in each oval, fill each with about 4 teaspoons of cherry preserve and mold dough to seal. Fry in hot deep fat until lightly browned. Serve hot with liberal sprinkling of powdered sugar. Makes about 8 fritters.

Easy Spring Dish

You'll like this springtime meal - in - a - dish. Packed with the flavor of fresh vegetables and tender meat, it's easy to prepare, gentle with the budget and has that second-helping look.

Fresh Vegetables and Hamburg Casserole (4 servings)

- ½ cup diced onion
- 2 tablespoons butter, margarine or beef suet
- 1 pound lean hamburg meat
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1 cup sliced carrots
- 1-3 cup diced green peppers
- 1 beef bouillon cube
- ¼ cup hot water
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ cup cold water
- 2 cups mashed potatoes

Saute onion in butter or margarine or beef suet. Add meat and cook until all the pink has disappeared. Add celery, carrots, green pepper, beef bouillon Cover and cook 5 minutes. Mix cube, water and seasonings. Cover and cook 5 minutes. Mix four to a smooth paste with cold water and add to the mixture. Turn into a 1-quart casserole. Spoon fluffy mashed potatoes around the top edge of casserole. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes or until golden brown over the top.

Grieving Dad Launches Auto Safety Crusade

A Mona Lisa likeness about her smile makes one wonder if she were happy or sad. But a girl as beautiful as Susan could hardly be sad. She would have been the belle of any party.

But her father hopes that in some way Susan's death served a purpose. In her memory he has started the Alert Crusade, so that a speeding driver might remember her needless death and slow down.

Jessup wrote a letter to a San Francisco newspaper about a month after Susan was killed proposing the crusade, a movement designed to convince everyone that traffic accidents are needless.

At his expense, he has printed the first of a series of Alert Crusade bulletins, detailing ways in which motorists can curb slaughter on the highways. These are mailed upon request from his home at 1447 Alvarado Ave., Burlingame.

Some of Jessup's suggestions: "help keep drunks off the road, support stronger traffic laws, and report traffic violations."

LBJ Boycotts GOP Leaders in Policy Dispute

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has cut off direct communications with Republican Congressional leaders in possible miffed reaction to their criticisms of his foreign policy course.

Not since he asked them to the White House Jan. 29 to participate with Democratic colleagues in a discussion of the Panama crisis has the President talked to either Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois or House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

This provides sharp contrast with Johnson's demonstrated desire in the first critical weeks of his presidency to court Republican support for his actions.

In that period, the President often called Dirksen on the phone a half dozen times a day, summoned him to the White House frequently and talked over with him many of the legislative and other problems that were arising.

When an anonymous White House source criticized Halleck in December for blocking speedy House action on the foreign aid bill, Johnson had Halleck in for lunch. He apologized for the attack.

Now, however, the phones have gone silent and the White House invitations, informal and otherwise, have ceased.

Dirksen and Halleck are inclined to attribute the two months' hiatus in communications to the fact that it is a presidential election year. Their attitude is that they can get along very well without being consulted by a Democratic chief executive.

Highly placed Democrats are convinced that developments at and since the Jan. 29 meeting have convinced Johnson that the Republicans intend to try to make political capital out of his troubles in Panama and elsewhere.

The meeting was described by participants as disappointing, so far as it concerned development of any unity of opinion on the Panama situation.

Subsequently, Dirksen and Halleck have been hammering away in GOP leadership statements at Johnson's handling of Panama and other international matters.

They assailed the sale of wheat to the Soviet Union and they pictured the President as inconsistent about the question of neutralizing Viet Nam. They contended that one day Secretary of State Dean Rusk was saying American consumers might boycott goods produced by nations trading with Cuba, but a couple of days later the State Department announced the government did not favor such a boycott.

"We Republicans do not recite these examples of vacillation in American foreign policy with any satisfaction," they said. "We recite them with dismay."

This was the sort of political barrage the late President John F. Kennedy used to take in stride.

Kennedy established a pattern of ringing up Dirksen a couple of times a week and inviting him to come by for a late afternoon drink. In these sessions, the President tried out some of his ideas on Dirksen.

"Once in a while I would tell him, 'Mr. President if you do that, I'll get up on the Senate floor and denounce you from stem to stern.'" Dirksen said. "He would just die laughing."

Now, however, the laughter seems to have died out of presidential relations with the opposition in Congress.

Soviets Fail to Send Rockets to Venus

NEW YORK (AP) — The Soviet Union failed twice in the last month to send payloads to Venus, presumably because of a recurring problem with an upper-stage rocket, the New York Times said today.

The failures are not being made public by either the Soviet Union or the United States, a Washington dispatch added.

The story said, however, that the launchings were detected by a U.S. electronic network which monitors Soviet space activities.

Lodge to Become Chief Target Of Rockefeller

By ROBERT T. GRAY

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has become the chief target of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in the batlte for the Republican nomination for president.

Brushing aside Lodge's repeated statements that he is not a candidate and does not intend to become one, Rockefeller argued that Lodge "is running and running hard from the privileged sanctuary of diplomatic immunity."

The New York governor maintained in an interview Wednesday that Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, was "a part of the Democratic administration and he is a candidate for the GOP nomination who is working from out there very hard."

The statements were Rockefeller's sharpest criticism to the candidacy of the ambassador.

By his remarks, Rockefeller not only challenged Lodge's denial of candidacy but also was in conflict with President Johnson, who has accepted the ambassador's statement that he is not a candidate.

Rockefeller said Wednesday that Lodge should resign as ambassador and return to the United States to participate in the contest for the GOP nomination.

Lodge has become one of the top prospects by virtue of his surprisingly strong write-in victory in the New Hampshire primary March 10.

Rockefeller's remarks indicated an apparent concern that Lodge posed a danger to the Rockefeller effort in Oregon. Lodge's name is entered in that state under a law authorizing the secretary of state to list the names of all individuals he considers possible candidates.

Rockefeller's schedule took him today to Los Angeles for the final round of activity in a four-day political visit to the West Coast. He will return to New York tonight.

PAVEMENT PAINTING PLAN

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) —Red, green, and amber pavements have been painted on a busy intersection near Richmond in a safety experiment. The intersection was paved in red, identifying it as an area of potential traffic hazards, and the northbound lane beyond the intersection was a green pavement indicating the area of safety. A warning area of about 300 feet on the northbound lane was paved in amber, indicating the need for motorists' caution.

Atlas Missile Hurls Warhead 5,000 Miles

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —An Atlas missile hurled a deceptive new warhead 5,000 miles today and simultaneously served as an airborne launching pad for two small research rockets.

The piggyback rockets were fired from a seven-foot canister protruding from the Atlas and carried three radiometers to measure radiation flowing from the Atlas engine exhaust. Information was radioed to the ground.

The experiment, being conducted to determine radiation characteristics of a rising missile, could help develop spy satellite instruments for spotting a hostile missile the instant it is launched.

Stop Reading by Word . . . and Get Better Grades

By The Reading Laboratory, Inc.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Association

Time your reading of this column and compare your speed with that indicated at the end. The expected speed assumes a daily five per cent improvement.

Pre-reading will be the best time-saver in reading you'll ever learn. And it is impossible to compute how much more understanding you'll get from your reading using this technique. You've done a little pre-reading in the column on concentration, but now we'll go into it fully.

When and when not to pre-read is the first thing to learn. When you read for style appreciation (Dickens, Frost, Shakespeare), forget pre-reading. When you read for information or opinions, pre-read. Here is how it's done.

Take your book in the subject you least like. Let's make it European history this time. Turn to the title page. The title and subtitle should tell you the subject of the book. Most books will have something like this: NINETEENTH - CENTURY EUROPE. That's some help; not much. The subtitle tells you more: CHIEF MILITARY ALLIANCES. Now look under the author's name for his credentials. This may tell you whether he is a real specialist and perhaps whether he has an ax to grind.

Now read the table of contents. You'll learn the steps to be taken to where you'll be going and the relation of one step to another. You'll learn where emphasis will be placed, and you'll want to know why. One of the steps may tie in with some personal like or dislike or something you've always been curious about. This will involve your interest. Know the table of contents and you know the outline of the book.

Now turn to the preface. You may never have read one before. It's what the author writes last. The preface tells you where the author is taking you in his book and will clear up many questions unanswered by the table of contents. Generally the opening two paragraphs and the closing two will fill the bill.

So far, you know where you are going, the steps to get there, who's taking you. If this little pre-reading has raised as many questions as answers, splendid! Now you'll look for answers.

Turn to the first chapter. Read the title and whatever else precedes the main body of type. Now read the first two paragraphs. The opening paragraphs give you an idea where you are going; the divisions are the steps along the way and the concluding paragraphs sum up the trip. Now do the same with each chapter.

If the text has an index, take a quick look through it. A name may strike a familiar chord. Look it up and see where it fits into the pattern. If it's a pet personality, see how the author treats him. You'll get further involved with the author's plans.

Get into the habit of pre-reading what we call practical prose as opposed to fiction, poetry, drama. It gives you a very acute sense of direction for your thorough reading.

You should have completed this reading in 75 seconds.

NEXT: No Questions, No Answers.

If you wish to refer to this instructive series in the future, order a copy of the 70-page, spiral - bound book. To get a copy send your name, address and $1 to: Stop Reading Word by Word, in care of Gazette Telegraph, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

First Gemini Test Flight Scheduled

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The long-awaited first test flight in the two-man Gemini program, an attempt to orbit an unmanned spacecraft, is scheduled for Tuesday.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration announcement Wednesday said major goals of the test will be to check the orbital ability of the Titan 2 rocket, spacecraft structural integrity and compatibility of the rocket-capsule combination.

If the flight and a second unmanned mission scheduled for next summer are successful, two astronauts are to ride a Gemini craft on a three-orbit ride in November or December.

Technical difficulties with the Titan 2 and the spacecraft have delayed the program nearly a year.

LOADED CAR

LONDON (UPI) — Ten persons were found in a pre-war British compact car by policemen who halted the vehicle because it was leaning over and swerving.

Three persons were sitting with the driver and in the back a woman was "propped against the roof and supported by five men," a police officer told the court Tuesday.

The driver was fined $28 although he insisted he was only giving the passengers a lift to a bus stop.

Alaskan Disaster Points Up Health Mobilization Meet

The Alaskan earthquake disaster was a case in point for the opening session of the Colorado Health Mobilization Course Wednesday. Maj. Gen. Von R. Shores, Air Defense Command acting chief of staff, cited the Good Friday catastrophe as an example of the needs of readiness, while speaking on "Disaster Casualty Control."

"I don't think we have any point in keynoting this meeting, after the events of last Friday," Gen. Shores said. He pointed out day to day need for community readiness and training to meet unexpected disasters such as the explosion at Texas City, mid-air collision of two airliners over New York City in recent years, and natural disasters such as the Galveston hurricane and the San Francisco earthquake of 1906.

Gen. Shores stressed overlapping interests of military forces and Civil Defense, during nuclear disasters, by noting the high rate of casualties following the Hiroshima-Nagasaki atomic bombs of WW II.

"Prior to these catastrophic events, Hiroshima had a population of approximately 400,000 and Nagasaki, 300,000. In both cities, at least 50 per cent of the populace were either killed or injured," he said. The exact figures will never be known as no one was ever able to determine how many fled their homes to die or recover somewhere else. Many perished because there was no warning of an air raid, and thus the advantage of available shelter was lost."

Gen. Shores cited the severe impact upon the medical profession of that disaster. In Hiroshima 90 per cent and in Nagasaki over 50 per cent became casualties, with almost complete destruction of medical facilities and supplies.

According to an on-the-spot evaluation by the U. S. medical survey team Gen. Shores said, "The almost complete destruction of medical facilities and supplies in the two cities contributed greatly to the total number of deaths."

"As a commander of USAF units for many years, I have been vitally interested in the response of the USAF medical service to emergency or disaster situations. To better prepare for the problems of nuclear war, we have developed a "stay and go" concept which will be utilized where practical and when warning time permits."

"This provides that a small part of the medical resources "stay" on base to furnish the minimum medical support for the operational elements committed to combat. The "go" portion will deploy to predetermined off-base locations where medical supplies will be pre-stocked," he said.

Gen. Shores also discussed other aspects of the program pertaining to self-aid in a disaster situation. "As part of this program the Armed Forces have developed what we call Phase I or "Buddy-Care" medical kits. These are designed to provide first aid material for 100 people, to be used by non-medical personnel. They are prepositioned on our installations in survivable areas, on the basis of one kit per hundred individuals," he stated.

In closing, Gen. Shores said, "I have merely tried to remind you that the training you receive and the plans you make, have hopefully, a far greater chance of being used in natural disasters which occur every day in this country. I wish you success in your continued fine efforts here," he said.

Maj. Gen. Joseph C. Moffitt, adjutant general, Colorado National Guard, is scheduled to address delegates today at 2:30 p.m. at the Broadmoor on "Civil Defense in Colorado."

A civil defense emergency hospital exercise will highlight the program schedule at 11:15 a.m. Friday at the Civic Auditorium.

HEALTH MOBILIZATION MEET — Governor John Love (right) was on hand Wednesday to greet delegates attending the opening session of the Colorado Health Mobilization Training Course. Discussing the program with Love from left are Dr. Gabriel P. Ferrazzano, office of the Surgeon General, and Dr. R. L. Cleere, director, Colorado State Department of Public Health. The course is sponsored jointly by the Colorado State Health Department, the Colorado Medical Society and the Colorado Civil Defense Agency, in cooperation with the U.S. Public Health Service.

Driver Ticketed After Car Hits Fence, House

Robert David Townley, 20, suffered head cuts and was ticketed for careless and reckless driving after his car smashed thru a metal fence and struck a house early Wednesday morning, police reported.

Townley told police he was driving east on Colorado when he lighted a cigaret, thinking a friend, Gary Justis of Ft. Carson, was steering the car.

The car veered to the right and struck the curb. It bounced off the curb and went north across the avenue, jumping the other curb and a one-foot-high brick retaining wall. The car then plowed through the fence into a house at 2102 W. Colorado Ave., police said.

Cub Scouts Visit Peterson Field Fire Station

Den Mother Mrs. Roy Schaub, assisted by Mrs. Ramon Laughter and daughter Becky brought a group of Cub Scouts to the Peterson Field Fire Station recently for a look at facilities there. All were treated to a ride in one of the big fire trucks as an exciting end to the visit.

The boys, from Longfellow School's Den 10, of Pack 13, were Joe Foss, Robert Esau, David Esau, Robert Hughes, Steven Schaub, Randall Laughter, and Douglas Truitt.

Fire Station personnel Airman 2 C. David Locker, Airman 1 C. Ishmeal Morrison, T. Sgt. Hubert Davis, Airman 2 C. Coy Upshaw, and Fire Chief William H. Mitchell were hosts to the group.

Equipment Valued At $1,187 Stolen

Equipment worth a total of $1,187.55 was stolen from Werner Lasher of the Lasher Standard Service, 630 E. Fillmore St.

According to Deputy Sheriff Larry Holien, entry was gained through a window in the corner of the building and then by opening an overhead door.

Lahser said all the equipment which included battery chargers, spark plug machines, hand tools and various other items had been for sale and that in the last few days a number of persons had been in and out of the station examining them.

Lasher also added that the machinery and tools would only be of use to people working in service stations.

Pump, Hose Stolen From Building Site

Jim Arnott doing business as the Arnott Masonry Contractor reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday that a pump and hose had been stolen from a site of the Garden of the Gods Road where he was doing a job.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman said the missing items are worth a total of $45.

Woman Tells Judge 'Turn Regulation Little Obscure'

A 43-year old woman who pleaded guilty to the right turn violation claimed Wednesday in Municipal Court that "for people like me who are only downtown occasionally, I think the law is a little obscure."

Mrs. Dorothy Brennan, 518 N. 17th St., also said she was upset when she noticed television cameramen from Pueblo taking pictures of her as she was being ticketed.

Judge Allan Asher disagreed, explaining to Mrs. Brennan that a person's unfamilarity with traffic signs and regulation does not excuse one. "It's your obligation to observe signs and other traffic," he told the woman.

He found Mrs. Brennan guilty of the violation but converted the ticket to a warning.

Adolph Riehl, 38, 1428 Serva Rd., pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined $10. William Tankesly, 19, 505 W. Cheyenne Rd., was fined $15 on a guilty plea to careless driving. A reckless driving charge against the youth was dismissed. Joseph Neiens, 37, Denver, failed to appear in court on a speeding charge and his $15 bond was ordered forfeited.

Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac moved for a dismissal on charges of reckless and careless driving against J. B. Scott, 39, Black Forest, on grounds of insufficient evidence. He also made a motion to amend the complaint against Scott, to add a charge of breach of peace. Both motions were granted by Judge Asher. Scott, represented by attorney Lawrence Hecox, entered a guilty plea to the added charge, was fined $50 and granted a 10-day stay of execution.

Spencer Meech, 36, Turkey Creek Ranch, was found guilty as he had pled on a charge of injury to city property although he did not appear in court. Judge Asher imposed a $200 fine and ordered a write of execution issued.

Walter Tommy Titus, 36, 1011 N. Weber St., pleaded guilty to reckless driving, received a $100 fine, $50 of which was suspended for a one year period. Titus was represented by attorney Elmer Brittain.

Isaac was granted a dismissal of charges of riotous conduct and breach of peace against Andrew Burke, 28, 1209 S. Nevada Ave., who changed his pleas to guilty to charges of resisting police and drunkenness. Judge Asher dismissed the latter charge, and levied a $25 fine against Burke on the resisting charge. Burke was represented by Brian Mullett.

Democrats Will Hear Senator Tursi Speak

The El Paso County Democratic Forum will meet at the Moors in Stratmoor Hills Saturday. Luncheon will be served at noon. State Senator Dale Tursi will speak. His subject is, "Who Pays the Bill When Republicans 'Cut' Taxes?"

Sen. Tursi is well known in El Paso County, having served as president of the Colorado Young Democrats in 1958 and 1959. He was elected to the State Senate in 1960 and has served on several committees, including health and welfare, industrial affairs, judicial, labor, state institutions and public buildings, state affairs, veterans and military affairs, and water resources.

During the last session he was a member of the Senate calendar committee. He has recently been appointed to the interim committee on surface and underground water.

All Democrats in the area are cordially invited to attend. Reservations should be made by Friday noon with Mrs. Lynn Larsen, 632-3136 or Mrs. Norman Foote, 481-2952.

Yield Failure Brings Driver $10 Fine, Costs

Phillip Lee Simpson, 16, 1918 N. El Paso St., was fined $10 and costs in Justice of the Peace James F. Quine's court Wednesday for failing to yield the right of way. The incident happened on U. S. Highway 85-87 Jan. 28 and the officer was C. W. Hubbard of the state patrol.

State Patrolman Paul H. Cornell gave Vivian E. Brooks a ticket for driving without a valid operator's license. Brooks, 38, 2914 S. Nevada Ave., was cited Tuesday on Fillmore Street and fined $5 and costs.

Start of 28th Annual DAV Dance Contest Set Friday

Zebulon Pike Chapter Number One of the Disabled American Veterans will present the 28th Annual Colorado State Square Dance, Callers and Fiddlers Contest in the City Auditorium Friday evening.

Friday's showing will be the first elimination night. The three best square dance sets in the Pre-Teens, Teen-Agers, and Open Classification, as well as the three best Callers and Fiddlers, will qualify for the championship round on Saturday evening, April 11th. The second elimination contest will be held on Friday, April 10th.

Friday's square dance sets are from out of the City of Colorado Springs. Eight sets have sent in their official entry blanks. They are: The Sundowners, Canon City; The Belmont Scamp-A-Roos, Pueblo; Desert Twirlers, Denver; Grand Pa's Darlings, Denver; The Eight plus Two, Canon City; the Prairie Stars, Pueblo; and two unnamed additional sets from Pueblo.

Callers who have submitted entries are: Lester L. Wright, Canon City; J. D. Comstock, Pueblo; Wilfred Heller, Pueblo; and Lawrence Berridge, Denver.

Some new names have been added to the Fiddlers Division of the contest this year. Among the new contestants are Oliver W. Barber, Model, Colorado, and Jack Peavler of Denver. Barber tied for third place at the Ralph Edwards Fiesta at Truth or Consequences.

It is anticipated that late entries in each division of the contest will bring Friday's entry list above those of other opening nights for the past several years. D. L. "Andy" Anderson, popular Denver radio and television star, will be master of ceremonies.

Following the contest there will be dancing for the audience.

Tickets, which are One Dollar, may be secured at the door of the auditorium. The contest will start at 8 p.m.

Officers Chosen For Local UN Association

Officers and board members of local branch of the American Association for the United Nations were chosen at the annual dinner meeting of the organization, held at the YWCA recently. They are Dr. Carroll Malone, president; H. P. Dix, vice president; Mrs. H. M. Whippo, treasurer; and Mrs. B. W. Helgren, secretary.

New members of the board are Mrs. Richard C. Bradley, Mrs. Mary Cameron, Miss Jane Cannell, Edward Diller and Carlton Gamer.

Guests present were officers of local High School International Relations Clubs. From Palmer High School were Miss Elissa Cross and Miss Age; from Wasson High School, Steve Hunt and Leonard Wright; from Cheyenne Mountain High School, Clifton Bradley and Miss Janet Davis.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. Douglas Mertz, whose subject was "Paths to International Law." Retiring president Mrs. Gerald Jones reported on the last year's work.

The Colorado AAUN will give a luncheon Saturday in honor of United Nations Secretary General U Thant at the Brown Palace Hotel in Denver. Going from Colorado Springs will be Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Malone, who will be at the speakers table, H. P. Dix, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Leon Hardt, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Jones and son Jerry, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Robert Mendenhall and daughter Carol.

Four Injured As Trucks Collide

Four persons were injured Wednesday morning when two trucks collided at Ft. Carson's B Street and U.S. Highway 85-87. None of the injured were hospitalized.

The driver of a pickup truck, James L. Byerly, 50, of Rt. 1, Box 80, suffered bruises. A passenger, Kenneth L. Byerly, 20, of the same address, received a bump on the head.

Two passengers in a panel truck driven by William R. Zentz Jr., 32, of 605 W. Van Buren St., were also injured. They were Bill Roberts, 25, of 606 Stevens St., who suffered bruises, and Lynn Zentz, 24, of 1306 Florence St., who suffered a whiplash injury.

State Patrolman Carl Drake said the Byerly vehicle was pulling away from a stop sign into the highway when it collided with the southbound panel truck. Damage in the accident was estimated at $1300.

Foreign Officers Arrive Today for Military Tour

The visiting military officers will spend Friday in Colorado Springs, during which they will visit both the North American Air Defense Command headquarters and the Air Force Academy.

The officers are members of the current United States Air Force squadron officers course conducted by the USAF Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama.

Friday morning they will be briefed by the staff of Gen. John K. Gerhart, NORAD commander in chief, and will visit the NORAD combat operations center.

They will depart NORAD at approximately 11 a.m. for the Air Force Academy where they will tour the Air Force Academy prior to journeying on to Denver.

The officers represent the following countries: Ethiopia, Libya, Philippines, China, Thailand, Laos, Norway, Greece, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Nicaragua, Guatemala, Turkey, and Afghanistan.

Fire Prevention Bureau Makes 1,721 Inspections

The fire prevention bureau of the Colorado Springs fire department made a total of 1,721 general inspections last year, but this was only a part of their regular duties.

Battalion Chief R. W. Nice heads the bureau. Assisting him are captains A. J. Balliett and Raymond E. Huff.

Investigations were made to determine the cause of each fire, with many facets considered to prevent a recurrence of the fire.

Nice said all theatres are inspected at least once a month for fire hazards, with first aid, fire fighting equipment, safety measures, exits, exits lights, etc., checked.

The same applies to hospitals, with some fire drills held for student nurses.

Each public school is checked each month by the captain of the fire station answering the alarm to that school. Two fire drills are held each month and careful checks are kept on the time it takes to evacuate buildings.

Additionally, Nice said, gasoline tank inspections are made at Service stations, garages, etc. for safety requirements as specified by the national Board of Fire Underwriters and city ordinances.

He reported that that every business establishment in the city is checked for fire hazards at least every three months, with verbal recommendations made on how to correct minor hazards that could become serious ones.

Building permits issued by the city Inspections Department are checked each Monday morning, primarily to determine if any fire hazards might exist.

Sprinkler systems in the city are checked monthly, and there is a complete card file on every business in the city concerning ownership, building construction and many other factors.

The bureau is also involved with weeds in the late summer and fall and engages in exhaustive efforts to cut down on fire hazards during Fire Prevention Week in the fall of each year.

The sixth annual Air Force Academy Assembly opened Wednesday with James E. Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), delivering the keynote address.

The second nationally known speaker scheduled to appear at the assembly is Air Force Sec Eugene M. Zuckert, who will speak at the assembly banquet Friday night.

The first lecture of the assembly was given during the afternoon meeting, the first plenary session, by Lincoln P. Bloomfield, director of the Arms Control Project, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Delegates from 65 colleges and universities will discuss the challenges of "Outer Space," the topic of the assembly, during the three days of lectures and panels.

The assembly is jointly sponsored by the Academy and Columbia University.

Dr. Fred Sondermann, associate professor of political science at Colorado College, will be the moderator for the panel discussion scheduled this afternoon.

Panel members will include Dr. R. W. Buchheim, chief Air Force scientist; Leonard Silk, senior editor of Business Week; Brig. Gen. Samuel Phillips, deputy director of the Apollo program, and Starr Colby, assistant director of Defense Research and Engineering for Space.

120 Building Permits Issued By County Office

The El Paso County building inspector's office issued 120 building permits during the month of March valued at $1,295,791. This figure compared favorably to the figure for the same period in 1963 when 92 permits valued at $1,022,718 were issued.

During the past month, the tally showed the following: Dwellings, 60 permits valued at $863,750; apartments, four permits, value $148,000; trailers, 4 permits, $15,400; additions, 17 permits, $28,771; accessory, 24 permits, $12,545; miscellaneous, one permit, value $25; public buildings, two permits, value $96,000; commercial, five permits, valued at $130,500.

Five Traffic Cases Heard In JP Court

Five traffic violators appeared before Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane Wednesday.

The first was John Frank Allardice, 57, of Denver, charged with speeding. According to State Patrolman Paul H. Cornell, the defendant was driving at 62 miles per hour in a 45 zone on North Nevada Avenue March 13. He was fined $20 and costs.

Richard R. Roberson, 20, of Ft. Carson paid a $6 fine and costs for hitch hiking on North Nevada Avenue March 21. Cornell was the officer.

No registration, and driving with an expired operator's license cost Ronald William Bouchard, 20, Ft. Carson, $15 and costs. State Patrolman J. D. Morrissey ticketed him March 11 on U.S. Highway 85-87.

David Hatch, 15, 2916 Garden Hill Dr., received a $15 fine and costs for atempting to evade a police officer on West Colorado Avenue Monday. The officer was Raymond E. Mays.

James Alfred Reid, 24, 3126 Virginia Ave., was charged with not yielding the right of way, driving the wrong way on a 1-way street and being without a valid operator's license. J.E. McDaniel of the state patrol gave him the ticket Friday on the Garden of the Gods Road. Reid was fined $20 and costs.

Last Man on Police List Sworn in Here

Kenneth Dean Kerr, the last man on the police department's civil service eligibility list, was sworn in Tuesday as a member of the Colorado Springs Police Department by Mayor Harry Hoth.

Kerr, of 1123½ N. Iowa St., was born April 9, 1941 in Lamar. He has lived in Colorado Springs for the past nine years and attended schools in Monument and Manitou Springs.

His addition brings the force up to the authorized strength of 108.

Tests to create a new eligibility list will be given at 7 p.m. April 22 in the main area of the City Auditorium. Interested applicants between the ages of 21 and 30 should contact the city personnel director's office in City Hall.

Robbery Charges Filed Against Three Wednesday

Charges of simple robbery and conspiracy were filed in District Court Wednesday against three men, Charlie Ray Wortham, 47, Ernest Stedson Ross, 21, and Michael Clevon Morehead, 18, all of Denver.

The trio are alleged to have stolen money and groceries from the McCall Mercantile, Palmer Lake, March 7 and conspired together to commit the felony.

Judge David W. Enoch set bond at $5,000 each.

A charge of burglary was also filed against Edward Sarabia Regalado, 21, Ft. Carson.

According to the information he broke into Barney's Cafe, 114½ E. Cucharras St. Monday.

Manitou Man Gets Six Months Jail

Leroy Fischer, 38, 920 Osage Ave., Manitou Springs received six months in county jail from Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane Wednesday for short check.

Fischer issued a $30.21 short check Feb. 15 with intent to defraud Safeways Inc.

Felix Bordelon, 18, 2016 Wood Ave., failed to appear to answer a charge of disturbance and forfeited his $100 bond.

First Session Derby Clinic Slated Today

The first session of the 1964 Soap Box Derby clinic will be held starting at 7:30 p.m. today.

Darrell Webb, industrial arts teacher, will direct the clinic which is being held at West Junior High School. The first session will be an orientation program and movies of the 1963 championship race in Akron.

Boys who have registered for the event are eligible to attend. Each is asked to being his 1964 rule book, Fred von Pingle, spokesman for the Junior Chamber of Commerce, said.

The clinic will be held every Thursday at the school for 10 weeks.

Man Drives Car Into Utility Pole

A man smashed his car into a utility pole in an alley in the 500 block of East Bijou Street Wednesday and then decided to tell police someone had stolen the car.

Police said Ruben Puredencio Baca, 20, of 817 W. Kiowa St., came into headquarters Wednesday and reported his car stolen. He then changed his story and said he had let "some boy" drive it and an accident had occurred.

Finally, he admitted he was driving the car but said he was "too drunk" to know how the accident happened, police reported.

Baca was ticketed for careless driving and damage to city property. Officers said the utility pole was ripped from the ground in the accident. Damage to Baca's car was estimated at $750.

Haiti Dictator Now President For Lifetime

The country doctor turned politician took the step as another in a series of measures which, since his election in 1957 for a six-year term, have given him an iron rule over this poverty-stricken Caribbean nation of 4 million people.

Top officers of his army assembled at the National Palace for the ceremony Wednesday.

Information Minister Paul Blanchet said Duvalier was acting in response to public demonstrations urging him to rule for life and to the expressed wish of the officers to take a new oath to him.

"I am happy that you understand it is necessary to join the revolutionary crowd and come here this morning to render homage to the constitutional chief of the armed forces in a new oath of allegiance," Duvalier told the officers, whose army Duvalier has reduced to 5,000 men in favor of the 10,000 secret police of the "tonton macoute," or bogeymen.

Duvalier, 54, accepted the lifetime title and the officers' oath and told them he considered himself the kind of man the country can produce only once every 50 or 75 years.

Duvalier singled out Gen. Gerard Constant, the chief of staff, and reminded him that he was a lieutenant when he sided with Duvalier in the 1957 campaign "and now you are a general."

Duvalier has bested rebels inside and outside Haiti as well as the opposition of the United States since he took office.

Relations between Haiti and the United States were broken off last year after Duvalier extended his presidential term by means of a rigged election. Relations were restored late in 1963 and Duvalier's recent pleasant dealings with the United States indicate he has resumed friendly relations with them.

Since 1957 the United States has given more than $60 million in loans and grants to help the country, where per capita income is about $60 a year. Most American aid was cut off last August in retaliation for his extending his rule.

Only last month Duvalier told U.S. Ambassador Benson E. L. Timmons 3rd that American tourists and warships, with their free-spending sailors, would be welcome in Haiti again.

Duvalier, bespectacled and heavyset, got his medical degree in Port au Prince in 1934 and took postgraduate work at the University of Michigan.

He was elected on popularity attained from his long medical practice and his expertness in voodoo, whose mystic rites are still widely favored in Haiti. He looks on voodoo as a valid religion that has been distorted by foreigners.

Another Apology Given In Stabbing of Envoy

TOKYO (UPI)—The parents and eldest brother of a deranged Japanese youth who stabbed U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer personally delivered an apology to the American Embassy Friday and begged forgiveness.

"We have no way to convey our deepest sympathy to Ambassador Reischauer and the United States for this grave offense our third son committed and for our own failure to provide him with adequate supervision," the parents wrote in a message. "We pray from the bottom of our hearts for the speedy recovery of Ambassador Reischauer."

In the classic tradition of Japanese family life, Mitsugu Shioya, 65, went to the embassy with his wife, Himi, 57, and the couple's oldest son to apologize for Kowa Shioya, 19. The youth plunged a knife into Reischauer's right hip Tuesday as the ambassador was leaving the embassy for lunch.

In an earlier era, the parents might have committed hari-kari as a face-saving act for their son's crime. The father owns an electrical appliance store.

SKID ROW

BLED, Yugoslavia (AP) —A new sport, autoskid, is fast becoming a rage in this mountain resort. Drivers speed across the frozen surface of Lake Bled, then slam on the brakes, skidding and turning until the car stops. Heavy trucks test the surface first. There have been no serious accidents so far.

Rusk, Fulbright Clash Over Cuba Policies by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk has clashed with Sen. J. W. Fulbright's views on Cuba and has made it clear that the administration disagrees with many points the Arkansas senator raised in a tempest-stirring foreign policy speech.

But, Rusk told a news conference Friday, he goes along with the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on some of the issues brought up in his Senate speech Wednesday.

Rusk said Fulbright's speech was a "thoughtful and thought-provoking" one. He called it a contribution to discussion, adding "it is important that these matters be discussed."

On this last point the two were in solid agreement, for Fulbright has said his reason for making the speech was to "stimulate consideration of our present course by all thoughtful Americans."

As for specific disagreements expressed by Rusk, Fulbright told newsmen, "I do not want to get into an argument with the secretary."

Here's how the two differ on the Cuban situation:

CASTRO—Fulbright called the Communist regime of Fidel Castro a "distasteful nuisance but not an intolerable danger." Rusk said Castro is "more than a nuisance; he is a threat to the hemisphere."

BOYCOTT — Fulbright said U.S. efforts to persuade other non-Communist nations to go along with the economic boycott of Cuba have been a failure. He called for an end to the boycott policy. Rusk said the economic isolation of Cuba "has not been complete" but it has been very substantial "with a substantial amount of cooperation from a list." He said the boycott will continue unless Castro changes his ways.

Their views on other points:

POLICY—Fulbright said "old myths" which have guided foreign policy attitudes should give way to revised assessments "in the face of new realities." Rusk said the administration has been facing up to realities in its foreign policy. He agreed that the Communists no longer present a solid bloc.

PANAMA—Fulbright said the United States should take a more magnanimous position toward revising the Panama Canal Treaty. Rusk said he didn't want to get into that subject because the two nations are now very close to an agreement.

CHINA—Fulbright said Red China should neither be recognized nor admitted to the United Nations. Rusk agreed. Fulbright also suggested it might be possible to draw Communist China into existing East-West agreements in such fields as disarmament, trade and educational exchange.

Child Thanks Navy Pilot in Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—The weary pilot found the note half-hidden in his plane after airlifting 30 persons here from Kodiak. It was written on a paper napkin.

"This is for nice kind persons at the Navy base. We thank you so much for your big help to native people.

"You clothed us when we didn't have clothes, you feed (sic) us when we were hungry, you gave water to drink and there is more nice things you Navy people help us with.

"It's so nice there is a Navy base or any base to help us, so this bye-bye from all Kaguyak people."

Parts of the letter were released Wednesday by Lt. Cmdr. R. L. Rundle of the Alameda Naval Air Station, Calif., who was the pilot. He said it had been left by a 9-year-old girl whose name he didn't know. He plans to frame it.

NURSERY SCHOOL RIVALRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Competition among three and four-year-olds for admission to private nursery schools is the latest battle for academic status, according to the New York University Testing Center. The director of the Center said recently there was evidence that one or two children in every 100 tested by the Center had been coached by parents who obtained copies of the Stanford-Binet standard intelligence test.

The city's 400 private nursery schools, which have a total enrollment of 35,000 mail out notices of acceptance or rejection each spring, similar to those used by colleges.

5,000 Measles Cases Reported in Colorado

DENVER (UPI) — Colorado's measles epidemic was estimated at nearly 5,000 cases Tuesday by Dr. C. S. Mollohan, chief of epidemiology in the State Health Department.

Dr. Mollohan said 2,308 cases of German measles actually had been reported since Jan. 1, but said the greater number probably was more accurate since not all cases are reported to state officials.

There were fewer than 400 cases reported in the same period a year ago.

The state official said 405 cases were reported in Arapahoe County, 386 in Denver, 380 in Pueblo and 313 in Boulder. Dr. Mollohan said an unusually high incidence of the disease was occurring among young adults.

GAS SNIFFER

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Special gas-sniffing equipment to detect gas leaks in the earthquake-torn streets of Anchorage, Alaska, left here Tuesday aboard an Air Force C124 Globemaster.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to rally early this afternoon with motors, steels, airlines and cigarette issues prominent gainers. Trading was active.

Gains of key stocks went from fractions to a point or so.

Comment on the booming economy, rising auto production, a pickup in cigarette sales and profits for airlines accompanied the rise.

Rubbers and mail order-retails were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .6 at 302.6 with industrials up 1.4, rails up .4 and utilities off .2.

Big first-hour volume of 1.78 million shares was buttressed by some sizable blocks.

IBM, up about 3, nudged close to the 600 line in a two-year high. Control Data gained more than 2, Xerox and Merck a point.

Prices were higher with airlines advancing in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Tobacco Firm Claims Sales Still Higher

FLEMINGTON, N.J. (AP)—The president of American Tobacco Co. said today that March sales of cigarettes will be substantially higher than a year earlier.

And said Robert B. Walker in a report to the annual stockholders meeting, sales for the first quarter will not be far below last year's.

His statement took into consideration a slump in cigarette sales in late January and February after a U.S. surgeon general's report that cigarettes were a hazard to health.

Exact sales and earnings figures for American Tobacco, second largest cigarette maker, will be announced later this month.

Walker said the tobacco industry is living through a period of storm and added, "I believe the current antitobacco storm, like most waves of hysteria, is motivated in large part by frustrations of one kind or another.

"There is first of all the frustrations of those who are unable to explain certain ailments which have accompanied our lengthening span of life on earth and who see in tobacco a convenient scapegoat."

"I may turn out to be a poor prophet," he added, "but perhaps we may begin to hear more of the good effects of our product than some of our antitobacco campaigners would like."

About 1,000 stockholders were registered for the meeting, held in the rural setting of the Hunterdon Central High School in central New Jersey.

Ferry Radio Station Brings Complaints

GENEVA (AP)—The International Telecommunication Union is going to ask the government of Panama to help silence Radio Caroline, the commercial station broadcasting from a converted ferry off the English coast.

The union said the ship, which is anchored nine miles offshore in international waters, flies the Panamanian flag. The British government, which bans private and commercial broadcasting in Britain, asked the union to help close the Caroline.

The union is a specialized agency of the United Nations which allocates radio frequencies under a worldwide agreement. Its intervention led to the withdrawal of the Panamanian flag from radio station ships broadcasting off the coast of the Netherlands and off the coast of Denmark, but both are still operating.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Prices were lower most of the time today in the grain futures market with some contracts weak under moderate to heavy selling on the Board of Trade.

Losses ranged to more than two cents at times in May wheat but the setbacks attracted speculative buying and prices rallied somewhat.

May soybeans also eased but other months had recovered earlier losses by early afternoon. Trade was mixed in the feed grains.

Navy Presents Polaris Flag To McLaughlin

The Polaris team flag, emblematic of membership on the Navy-Industry Polaris Team that produced the Polaris Fleet Ballistic Missile System with such remarkable speed and skill, was rpesented by the Navy to the McLaughlin Research Corp. headed by Charles McLaughlin of 1 Pine Ave., Broadmoor, in ceremonies at their offices in New York City at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The flag, in recognition of the company's participation in the development of a repair parts control program for the Polaris submarine fleet, was presented to the company's president and founder, a pioneer in the field of technical documentation.

Presentation of the flag was made for Rear Adm. I. J. Galantin, director of the U.S. Navy Special Projects Office, by Capt. Carl A. LaBarre, chief of logistics for that office. The Special Projects Office of the Navy has directed the Polaris development since its inception.

Adm. Galantin proclaimed the flag, for flagpole display beneath the Stars and Stripes, to be "a badge of membership in a unique and vital team dedicated to defense of our country and the preservation of peace."

The Polaris Fleet, the nation's No. 1 deterrent weapon system, has unusual supply requirements. Because of the speed at which these vessels are being commissioned and the complex, exotic equipment aboard, the supply problem has become extremely complicated. Therefore, in conjunction with PERT programming, highly accurate records and monitoring of the manufacturing, shipping, and delivery of this equipment is necessary. Through the use of a sophisticated IBM computer and high speed date processing equipment, the volume of information necessary to process these records is kept constantly accurate and available to the Special Projects Office of the Navy.

Not only has McLaughlin been able to accomplish this but also, through the use of this same data processing equipment, has developed and currently maintains a system whereby hundreds of thousands of drawings of the navigation subsystem of the Polaris Fleet are reviewed and authenticated, thus maintaining change and configuration control of the installed Fleet Ballistic Missile System (Polaris).

Corn King Giant Visits Safeway Stores in Area

The Corn King Giant, Henry Hite, who stands 8 feet 2 inches tall in his stocking feet, will appear at five Pikes Peak Region Safeway Stores today and Friday following an appearance Wednesday night at the Safeway Store at 2326 N. Wahsatch Ave.

Hite was scheduled to appear from 10 to 11:30 a.m. today at the store at 1200 S. Tejon St., from 1 to 2:30 p.m. at 515 S. 25th St., from 3:30 to 5 p.m. at 1830 Palmer Park Blvd., and from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at 728 W. Cheyenne Blvd.

He'll be at the Security Safety Store, Main Street, Security, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Friday.

Hite is touring from Cheyenne, Wyo., to Pueblo on behalf of Corn King meat products. During his appearances he tells shoppers about the corn-country flavor of Corn King Ham, bacon and other meat products, hands out free balloons to youngsters and autographs and gives away pictures of himself.

In 32 years of show business, Hite has visited four continents, every state in the Union, Hollywood and Las Vegas and has appeared on the Ed Sullivan show. He has just finished a motion picture.

Here are Hite's statistics:

Near East Was Close to War Nobody Wanted

By WEBB MCKINLEY

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—For a few days in March the eastern Mediterranean moved very close to a war nobody wanted. The fate of the area seemed to lie in the hands of a few hundred gunmen on Cyprus.

Turkey threatened to intervene to protect the Turkish Cypriots in the island's civil war. Greece, caught up in mass emotion, was ready to land troops to defend the Greek Cypriots.

One more all-out battle with high Turkish casualties almost inevitably would have set the war machine in motion.

The peril, as seen in Ankara, Athens and Nicosia, is by no means ended. One fateful shot could start a battle leading to a massacre. Turkey, already out on a limb, would have to move.

But a reporter who visits all three capitals learns that beneath the threats and angry words, both Greece and Turkey hope they will not be forced to intervene. They hope they will be saved by the United Nations force which aims to restore peace to Cyprus. Then they can, they say, get on toward a solution.

"First of all, what is needed is good will," says Turkey's premier, Ismet Inonu. "That will lead us toward a reasonable outcome."

Is there a possible solution?

At first glance Athens and Ankara and the Greek and Turkish communities on Cyprus seem hopelessly far apart.

In Turkey the only surface talk is of physically separating the island's minority Turks from the majority Greeks to form a federal state — not necessarily contained in one solid area of the island.

In Athens the talk is only of "self - determination," meaning a majority rule by Greek Cypriots in a unitary state and an end to the complicated 1960 treaties permitting intervention by Greece, Turkey and Britain.

Turkish leaders declare that bloodshed shows Greeks and Turks cannot live together there. Greek officials say that the two communities did live together until they were artificially inflamed.

Underneath these seemingly far apart attitudes, a broad base of moderation in both capitals gives diplomats some hope.

Papandreou at 76 shakes hands muscularly. He is described by his admirers in nearly the same terms the Turks use for Inonu. "He is the most clever man in Greece," they say.

Both men lead governments that are in some ways unwilling captives of the Cyprus crisis and its emotion. Neither can afford to show "weakness."

Colorado River Wildlife Council Name Adopted

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Delegates to the annual meeting of the Colorado River Fish and Wildlife Development Commission at Las Vegas Tuesday agreed to change the name of the organization to the Colorado River Wildlife Council.

Delegates from Wyoming were Ted C. Baker, federal aid coordinator, and Fred M. Eiserman, coordinator of fisheries field and research operations, both of the State Game and Fish Department.

Wayne Kirch of Las Vegas was re-elected chairman of the group and Dr. Wendell Swank of Phoenix, director of the Arizona Fish and Game Commission, was named vice chairman.

Harold Crane of Salt Lake City, director of the Utah Department of Fish and Game, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Kirch is chairman of the Nevada Game and Fish Commission.

About 70 members from Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Arizona, California and Nevada attended the two-day session. Some New Mexico officials also attended.

The commission resolved to support the land and water conservation bill now in Congress which would provide federal funds to states on a matching basis for the development of recreational areas on a state or a municipal basis.

Foreign Policy Path to Suicide, Barry Declares

By WALTER R. MEARS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Labeling Democratic foreign policy the path to suicide, campaigning Sen. Barry Goldwater insisted Tuesday night that President Johnson cannot disown the cold war course advocated by Sen. J. William Fulbright.

He said another absentee victory by Henry Cabot Lodge in the Oregon presidential primary would be "a very sad commentary on the American political mind."

But the Arizona conservative urged his followers to band behind the Republican presidential choice next November because "whether I'm the nominee or somebody else is the nominee, anybody we nominate is better than what we have."

Hunting California primary votes and campaign dollars, Goldwater declared the Fulbright proposals for altered foreign policy tenets "are dangerously weakening the posture of this nation in a world which is still involved in a cold war that no amount of hot air will thaw."

"They truly reflect the direction of U.S. foreign policy under this administration," he told more than 1,300 people at a $100-a-plate fund raising dinner.

As chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Goldwater said, Fulbright is the administration's chief congressional spokesman on world affairs.

"This is their baby and Republicans across the nation should not let the citizens of this country forget it," Goldwater said. "Beyond any details, the root assumptions of the Fulbright statement are the root assumptions of the administration's foreign policy."

He bore down on Fulbright's ideas about Cuba, and won prolonged applause when he said Fidel Castro must be deposed no matter how hard the task.

"The suggestion that we must either accept communism in Cuba or invade Cuba is defeatist and dangerous nonsense," he said.

Goldwater called for recognition of a Cuban government in exile to "enormously increase the pressure against shipping to Cuba" and serve as a rallying point for forces of liberation.

Lawmaker Wins Despite His Blindness

By BOB WOOD

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — John Vanlandingham is one of the 80 members of the Arizona House of Representatives.

Like most, he's a Democrat; like some, he's an attorney; like none other, he's blind.

"Being blind may limit your sight," Vanlandingham says, "but it certainly shouldn't bother your vision."

Vanlandingham's vision is to become the attorney general of Arizona in the forthcoming elections.

Thirty-seven years ago on a ranch in Kingman County, Kan., when he was 5—John Vanlandingham was stricken with scarlet fever. The disease brought glaucoma, an ailment that slowly blinded him.

Through the lower grades and into high school, Vanlandingham attended a class for the blind in Kansas City.

"Then I decided it was time to try a public high school. I had to live the rest of my life with the sighted," he explained.

"My younger brother had the job of reading to me from the textbooks," Vanlandingham recalls. "He hated the task and would read as fast as he could, rushing over page after page."

"It was the finest training possible for both of us. He became an excellent reader and I an excellent listener."

Two years later Vanlandingham entered Washburn University at Topeka, Kan., where he received a law degree.

After graduation in 1944, Vanlandingham served a term as Kingman county attorney and then was forced by illness to seek the warmth of Arizona.

With the help of a reader, he passed the Arizona bar examination and entered private law practice.

Elected to the Arizona House in 1962, Vanlandingham became an expert in picking legal flaws in legislation. He would have each bill read once, then once again. By the session's end, he had stored in his mind the basic wording of some 600 bills.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Consent of the Governed

We have been reading some interesting comments in one of our sister newspapers (the Santa Ana Register) concerning the intended meaning of a particular phrase in the Declaration of Independence. The phrase appears in the second paragraph of this immortal document and runs: "That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

As we all know, Thomas Jefferson is credited with writing the Declaration and therefore the discussion in the main has centered around Mr. Jefferson's supposed beliefs.

We will offer for considerations that even though Jefferson penned the document, it was UNANIMOUSLY approved by all present. So, in fact, we have to consider not merely what Jefferson may have or may not have believed, but what the consensus was at the time the unanimity occurred.

We suspect that there is no phrase in the Declaration so subject to interpretation and misinterpretation, and therefore an examination of what MUST be the meaning intended is important.

But first we must establish the setting. In the wording immediately prior to the phrase in dispute, the Declaration sets forth boldly the proposition that all men are CREATED equal in the concept of human rights. That is, it is specifically set forth that no man, be he king or potentate, has any more rights than any other man. Each man has exactly the same rights and these rights are UNALIENABLE. They cannot be added to and they cannot be taken away.

But the phrase we have quoted employs the word "secure." The impression can be created that governments PROVIDE the rights.

But this would contradict the original statement that man derives his rights at the moment of birth. The apparent contradiction is cleared up at once when we learn that the word "secure" at the time of its employment had only a single meaning. Secure meant to make secure, to nail down, to make safe. Today, we use the word to mean both OBTAIN and RETAIN.

The corruption has occurred through wide usage of the word "secure" in relation to "securing" a loan. To "secure" a loan, you furnish security. But you also "obtain" the loan.

Thus, a proper understanding of the intended meaning cannot be avoided. Governments are, at least in theory, to make safe the rights with which each of us is naturally endowed.

But now we come to the tricky part. Governments, it is said, derive their JUST powers from the consent of the governed. Note that the powers are presumed to be JUST. Surely, then, they cannot be powers that would deny the right of any man. And remember, each man has been INDIVIDUALLY endowed at the moment of birth with precisely EQUAL rights. King or commoner, the right is the same.

It follows that the only permissible meaning is that each man is to be governed by his INDIVIDUAL consent and that the "consent" of a majority of persons to be governed cannot be binding upon the unwilling individual.

The question being discussed in our sister paper relates to this particular facet. Did Jefferson believe in majority rule or did he believe in INDIVIDUAL consent of each person to be governed?

Frankly, we don't know what was in Mr. Jefferson's mind at the time he wrote the Declaration. And to try to find out what he meant then by examining later correspondence is wholly beside the point. Men's views change. And Jefferson's views underwent considerable change after he came to power. Yet this is the effort being undertaken.

We would like to suggest a better test. It is found in the events of the historic meeting in Philadelphia where the Declaration was finally approved.

Keep Them Happy

Unanimous Consent

The dramatic four days in July (July 1-4, 1776) which produced the Declaration of Independence gave us our first UNANIMOUSLY approved document. Only rarely since that time has unanimity been found on any measure among those striving to represent the people. The Constitution, which was finally ratified in 1789, did not experience this happy concurrence.

But the thinking, not only of Jefferson, but of all the representatives assembled in Philadelphia on those hot, humid days, is starkly revealed in what ensued.

For a debate opened in the convention, not over the phrase we are presently considering, but over the listing of rights specifically noted in the opening portion of the second paragraph.

Jefferson had reference, in his writing, to the Virginia Bill of Rights, which had been introduced into the Virginia House of Burgesses nearly a year before. In this document, written by George Mason of Virginia, it was set forth that all men had a right to own property:

"Section 1. That all men are by nature equally free and independent, and have certain inherent rights, of which, when they enter into a state of society, they cannot, by any compact, deprive or divest their posterity; namely, the enjoyment of life and liberty, with the means of acquiring and possessing property, and pursuing and obtaining happiness and safety."

When Jefferson brought his rough draft to the convention chambers, he had included this thought: That all men had equal right to life, liberty, property and the pursuit of happiness.

On the word "property" the convention hit a snag. Delegates from Georgia and North Carolina objected. And their objection took a curious and instructive turn. They objected to the word "property," because they held that a slave may NOT own property. This was, indeed, the distinction that marked a man a slave.

They were entirely content to suppose that a man COULD BE property. Indeed, they supported that idea.

But to claim that all men had a RIGHT to own property would mean that a condition of slavery in which the slave could not own property could not RIGHTFULLY be sustained.

A straw vote revealed that the delegates from Georgia and North Carolina would WITHDRAW their approval of the convention and the Declaration unless this matter were rectified.

Now there is no question but what the convention had reached a MAJORITY decision. Delegates from eleven of the thirteen colonies had approved the wording. Only two objected. Why did not the MAJORITY simply chuckle and proceed, knowing that the majority WOULD rule?

The reason is clear. The majority, though it might decide for itself, could NOT rightfully bind the minority. A UNANIMOUS decision had to be found. The Declaration was compromised and the word "property" had a line drawn through it. With this change, unanimity was obtained.

The question of whether or not the majority decision ought to rule the convention was not even debated. There appeared to be a common understanding AT THAT TIME, that the actions of a majority may not RIGHTFULLY be inflicted upon those who are in a minority.

Nor could any other understanding have been explicit at the time in view of the high purpose set forth in the Declaration that government obtained its JUST powers from the consent of the governed.

The only reasonable interpretation is that the convention, UNANIMOUSLY, at that time, believed it would be wrong to try to bind a reluctant minority to the decision of the majority.

This view was later changed when the Constitution was sought and obtained. With the change, it has become normal for us to view as "right" the concept that 51 men out of a hundred may decide an issue if only 49 oppose.

Power and the Coal Miners

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Joseph Moody, the president of the National Coal Policy Conference and Tony Boyle, who succeeded John L. Lewis as head of the United Mine Workers Union, are on the warpath against the Consolidated Edison Company of New York for planning to take two million kilowatts of electricity from a waterpower source 1,100 miles away in the wilds of Labrador. They argue that this would take bread from the mouths of the coal miners of Appalachia, who might otherwise provide for the power needs of New Yorkers by digging the coal that is the usual fuel for a steam plant.

Now Joe Moody is my friend, and I care more for the coal miners of West Virginia and Pennsylvania than I do for the fishermen and hunters (if that is what they are) of Labrador. But, as a conservative who still holds to the principles of classical as against modern collectivist liberalism, I think that Joe Moody and Tony Boyle are somehow barking up the wrong tree in trying to forestall the development of one of the last great untapped hydroelectric sources on the North American continent. Their efforts are bound to hurt the people of Northeastern America without helping the coal miners.

The fact is that Consolidated Edison is not planning to sacrifice any hypothetical coal-burning steam plant for a plant that is to be run on hydroelectric power coming in on high tension wires. The new Con Ed facilities, planned for the Ravenswood section of New York City on the Long Island side of the East river, are projected as a substitute for an atomic power plant that would not have utilized a smidgen of coal.

The Ravenswood tidewater site, which is hemmed in by a great metropolis, now boasts two oil-burning electric plants that produce 800,000 kilowatts, and there will soon be a third oil-fired plant adding 1,000,000 kilowatts. Conversion to coal in the area would not be impossible, but it would be uneconomic, and because of the circumscribed acreage which prevents storage, it would have to be on a hand-to-mouth basis, with the coal being fed in from barges almost as fast as it could be used up. Con Ed wanted to add an atomic plant to the Ravenswood constellation because an atomic nuclear core would take care of the expansion needs of the nineteen seventies without choking the available acreage. A hydoelectric substitute for the abandoned atomic project would likewise be economical of the space at hand.

Since Con Ed is already a great coal user (as its Astoria and Staten Island plants, for example), and is taking more coal now that unit train shipments make it cheaper, it cannot be considered an enemy of the coal miners. Its hopes for taking a limited amount of Canadian hydroelectricy are based on purely local considerations that the miners tend to overlook.

BUILD-UP

Hydroelectric power is no particular enemy of the coal miners for the simple reason that when and where it is used, as in the Tennessee Valley area, it tends to build up a region to the point where additional power sources are needed. The TVA territory has had to go in for a vast multiplication of coal-burning steam plants to supplement the original hydroelectricity — and on balance this has been good for the coal miners.

Whether sparsely settled Eastern Canada will ever outrun its hydroelectric possibilities is, of course, a question. But if and when it does, it will probably turn to atomic power instead of coal, which is not immediately available in economical quantities. The United Mine Workers, then, have nothing much to gain either in Canada or in New York City by preventing Consolidated Edison from going ahead with plans to take hydroelectric power from Hamilton Falls in Labrador. They would be hurting the development of Labrador and Newfoundland without creating any new market for coal, and they would be encouraging Con Ed to return to its idea for an atomic plant or more oil-fired plants at Ravenswood.

Ships That Pass in the Night

Question Box

Question No. 469: "Why are so many people afraid that some people or corporations will get so much wealth that the well-being of mankind will be retarded?"

Answer: There is no single answer to that. If, of course, they get their wealth by having laws passed that give them an advantage over other people, they are dangerous. Any wealth that is accumulated on account of special laws that take away from any individual his right to buy from the world's lowest-priced seller in order to enrich some special group is a dangerous situation. We, of course, have never had a completely free market where all people are permitted to help establish values. But to the degree that we have a free market, there is no danger of any individual or any corporation getting so much wealth that they will retard the well being of mankind on this earth.

The reason for this is as John Rustgard, a Swede, pointed out years ago. "That all wealth, all tools that are owned privately have to be distributed in order to benefit its owner." So the more wealth a man creates, the more he is able to distribute and benefit others. Or, as Bastiat pointed out, producing wealth is not like getting wealth by fraud or threats or by special legislation, but in producing wealth on a free market basis, the gain of one is the gain of all.

On the other hand the loss of one is the loss of all and any law which interferes with any individual progressing as fast as he can without any interference from any other group or any other government harms mankind.

It is this fear of concentrated wealth that is largely the cause of the socialistic and collectivistic laws we have passed in this century. These laws, however, were accumulated in the minds of men when each community decided that they wanted to force the minority to pay for what the majority regarded as education.

The real cause of this being afraid of wealth being concentrated is due to our schools and colleges and too many newspapers and politicians catering to the ill-informed. Taking a short-time view of things rather than taking into consideration posterity.

Real education that caused people to think and see what will happen from certain acts is what is needed.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

PORTLAND STRIKE

To the Editor:

I know you are familiar with the story of how the citizens of Portland, Oregon, turned out in support of the Portland Reporter newspaper, keeping it on its feet by donating silver and dollars in the amount of $50,000 with an additional $50,000 coming from two anonymous Portland businessmen.

My sister, Mrs. Anne Chambers, has been in charge of stock sales for The Reporter. We were visiting her in Portland recently and, though we have been residents of "the Springs" for only six months, I was proud to say, "That's my town," when she pointed out the following article which appeared in Harry Dutton's column of the Reporter on March 19:

"A Portlander received a letter from Colorado Springs which noted in part: 'That was a terrific grassroots effort by the people of Portland that saved the Reporter.' Incidentally, that story of the Reporter folding up was printed in practically every newspaper in the country. But the story of the Reporter UNFOLDING up didn't make any newspaper except the Colorado Springs Free Press and the Gazette Telegraph. We believe it was pulled off the AP and UPI wires somewhere out of Portland, so we had it put back on the wire in Denver, and as far as I have been able to determine, no one picked it up. Strange things happen in this day of monopolistic press."

We are very happy to be subscribers to both of these fine newspapers.

MRS. GALE B. GREGG
310 W. Ramona

Editor's note: Thank you for the compliment.

The Portland Reporter was started at the instigation of newspaper unions following a strike by 10 different unions at the Portland Oregonian and Portland Oregon Journal. After the strike began, these unions formed an organization headed by a representative of the International Typographical Union to conduct the strike. There have been many instances of violence in connection with this strike. For instance: Three men attacked and beat a Journal circulator with rubber hose, four newspaper union members were arrested at Woodburn while attempting to ram a working newspaper employe's car, four newspaper employes and a hotel clerk were beaten by attackers at the Hungerford Hotel, a rock was thrown through the window of a newspaper employe's home, a Journal circulation building was ransacked and fired, newspaper workers and police were attacked by a mob in front of the Oregonian building and two employes hospitalized, ten trucks owned by contract carriers for the newspapers were blasted by dynamite, the production manager of the Portland Oregonian was shot and hospitalized, homes in Oklahoma City belonging to newspaper production workers who helped the Oregonian and Oregon Journal publish were bombed, etc., etc.

When violence and strong-arm tactics in the strike were brought up at a meeting of the Beaverton Kiwanis Club, the chairman of the Portland Typographical Union negotiating committee dismissed the question with the remark, "Boys will be boys."

It is natural for the Colorado Springs Free Press to publish the story of the revival of the Portland Reporter since the Free Press is owned by the same Typographical Union which has been in charge of conducting the strike at Portland.

The Gazette Telegraph published the story because we thought there would be more than usual interest in it since the Typographical Union headquarters is located here.

CITY PARKS

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my own opinions on our own "municipal mystic maze."

In recent weeks much discussion has been centered around Memorial Park. On the plus side we might say the city has taken the first steps toward developing this area. They have constructed approximately three miles of new roads in and around the park. Five new paved parking lots immediately north of Prospect Lake have a combined capacity of 400 vehicles. Trees and shrubs have also been planted at various locations throughout the park area. On the surface this may seem to be quite an accomplishment, but let us take a closer look.

The city first removed two roads north of the lake, one an oil road next to the lake, and the other was a heavily traveled gravel road further from the lake. These roads had been used by the public for many years. No provision was made to handle this diverted traffic. The street closed was duly deeded by the donors of the park property as a public throughfare making it a legal passageway. Under extreme conditions the park property could revert back to the original owners by this action. Secondly, property owners and businessmen of the area were not given an opportunity to express their views on the matter. Anyone looking at a city street map can see that a large portion of Colorado Springs is denied an easy efficient way to

The Local Scene

Ribbon of Death

By RUFUS L. PORTER

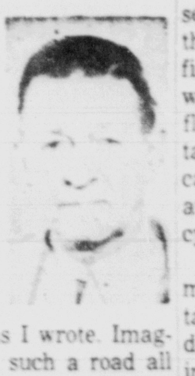
There's a road where nature beckons
In a dangerous sort of way
And the undertaker reckons
On at least a death a day

It's the highway of disaster,
Just a twisted narrow line,
Where the hand of Death is master
And the harvesting is fine.

It's the highroad to destruction,
Just a bumpy concrete path—
It's a blunder of construction
And it should arouse our wrath

There you'll see the bodies broken,
See the crippled and the dead;
Hear the horror left unspoken,
See the pavement splattered red;

There you'll see the battered wretches
Where the highway dips and swings,
On the RIBBON OF DEATH that stretches
From Denver to the Springs.



I wrote the above piece of verse about 25 years ago when practically all the blame for the mounting highway accidents was laid to the highways themselves. If you have driven from Palmer Lake to Larkspur by the "old road" you will know what I had in mind as I wrote. Imagine, if you can, such a road all the way to Denver (there is still a 35-mile stretch of it in use from Castle Rock through Sedalia to Denver) and with cars nearly bumper to bumper, all trying to at least make the 60-mile speed limit on a two-lane highway.

The ones breaking the speed limit were continually dodging in and out, forcing their way between cars where there was scarcely room to squeeze, then jumping out again into the lane of oncoming traffic from the other direction. Of course there were many smash-ups. And the road, which only a few years before had been heralded as a great improvement, was cussed and discussed and took all the blame because it wasn't wide enough or safe enough.

So now we have a smooth, wide, four-lane, dish-curved and excellently constructed highway — and the death toll continues to mount. Who or what are we to blame it on now? The cars and the highways have been made 100 per cent safer than they were even 20 years ago, but each and every highway continues to be a "ribbon of death" and most of the accidents occur on some of the safest stretches of road.

I have never seen any statistics on this, but it is my opinion that a much greater percentage of accidents per passenger mile of travel occur on the flat or gently rolling, well finished and maintained highways between the cities of the flatlands than in the mountains. Where people have to be careful, they generally are, or at least have a greater tendency to be.

One thing I do know is that most of the accidents on mountain roads happen where the driver can see farthest ahead—in other words, on the safest reaches of the highway. That's where one, drunk or sober, is tempted to "let her out a little." But we can't blame it all on speed, either.

I have no cure for the terrible toll of the highways, but there must be an answer. But death and disaster can never be completely eliminated from the scene. Many people were killed by runaways in the old horse and buggy days. To live at all is to live dangerously, and I often marvel that with so many millions of vehicles going at such great speed in so many directions at the same time there aren't more accidents instead of fewer. But if we all do our very best to drive carefully and courteously, I am sure we can do better than we have been doing.

A Celebration

By AMBROSE HILLS

Canadians often give the impression of being a pain-wracked, problem-ridden people, devoted to planning things down to the last painful detail. In 1967 they will be 100 years old . . . and already the birthday plans appear to be forged in anguish and argument, enmeshed with problems of bi-lingualism and multi-culturalism. The wordsmiths and intellectuals have tormented the subject in seminars, panels, discussion groups and dialogues, until it has almost bogged down. And then came some light!

A blunt, outspoken business man, Oakah Jones, president of The Consumers Gas Company, was invited to speak on Canada's birthday year to the Ontario Association of Architects. I have just read a copy of his speech, and I feel like shouting yippee.

He called for a little less rigid planning and a bit more spontaneous response, some enthusiasm, and lots of gaiety. He suggested we aim for a party that will bring happy recollections that will go on for years afterwards. Let's not fight about what kind of government help we are going to get for this project or that one — let the people put on a party of their own; a celebration. And it ought to be a colorful one, because we've so many racial backgrounds, so many ethnic groups that have retained their traditions along with their Canadianism.

It starts to sound like fun. It begins to become the kind of party that will bring Americans and Europeans flocking into Canada in 1967 to celebrate with us a real party — not a tear-stained debate about our various problems. And they'll go home saying, "What a whale of a wonderful party!"

So let's all catch the spirit. Let's tell the world we're going to live it up a little in 1967, and they're welcome to join us in the fun. We have a few problems, true; but we've plenty to be gay about as well.

Myth of Limited Government

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Let's take a look at the expression "limited government" to see if it has any meaning. If a government does govern, then any force which limits government becomes the governing body, stronger than the limited factor which can no longer exist as government. It's just that simple and no semantic legerdemain will change the situation unless we agree to change the meaning of the words we use in this connection. Now, let's explore the expression further.

Those who advocate what they call limited government, denounce unlimited government and suggest that the only proper function of government is to provide something called "protection." In other words, government action should be limited to the protection of law-abiding citizens from those who are not law abiding. Since those who advocate limited government are less than specific as to the details, I will use their generalities, police protection and national defense, and call your attention to the fact that the growing rate of criminality indicates that crime detection and law enforcement do not protect. In the area called national defense I do not know what the advocates of limited government mean. Do they mean a national defense to protect me and my family, or a national defense to protect the government which presumes to rule me and my family? Available evidence indicates that not even the president of the government or governors of state governments are necessarily protected by either police protection or national defense protection.

Ignoring the obvious inefficiency, and on this subject I could write ten columns without beginning to scratch the surface, to what degree and in which areas will limited government provide limited protection, and for whom, and in what degree will it be limited?

Let us assume that a state of limited government does exist. The protection will quite obviously be limited. At this point, the limited government, that is, those who have been employed to provide this so-called protection in certain specified areas, claims that the limitations placed upon it reduce the protection it supposedly is employed to provide.

For instance, the individuals who have been elected and employed to provide the protection insist that the protection will be inadequate unless certain sums of money are provided to bribe the governments of other people to cooperate in providing protection for the citizenry. Naturally, the administration of additional funds for a specific purpose, requires additional administrators and this requires an extension of the limitations placed upon the government in the first place. Are the people of the other nations content? Obviously they are not, so the expense and power of government must be expanded to a degree which will make a bribe available for the benefit of those who may or may not be ruled by a limited government of their own.

We can now begin to wonder if any amount of protection is adequate, and those elected and employed to operate the limited government assure you that additional funds must be raised to provide you with the protection you thought you were buying in the first place. Your protectors, expert in protecting, advise that the governors of other countries have acquired weapons which make all contemporary defensive weapons even worse than useless and what are you going to do about that?

Okay, you intend to elect protectors who promise to provide more adequate protection but take another look: those who wish to provide you with better protection have had no previous experience in protecting. All of those who want the job of protecting assure you that higher pay will attract many first class protectors. Are you beginning to wonder about your limited government for the purpose of protection or wonder what happened to the limitations? I contend that the expression limited government is meaningless. How about you?

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

PLAGUED BY FOOL CALLS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Of the 4,173 telephone calls received by the Bronx Zoo Wednesday, 3,682 were on the April Fool variety. They included 642 for Mr. Lion, 377 for Mr. Fox and 354 for Mr. Wolf.

Hagen to Retire From Police Dept.

Albert V. Hagen will retire April 10 after serving more than 20 years with the Colorado Springs Police Department.

A fixture on the information and booking desk at the police station since that time, members of the police department and city officials honored Hagen Tuesday with special retirement ceremonies in the kitchen area of the emergency control center in the basement of the new police building.

Hagen went to work on the police department Nov. 16, 1964 and has reached retirement age even tho he doesn't look it.

Actually, because of his good health and alertness, he has been permitted to work beyond retirement age, and Hagen said he was grateful to Police Chief Cecil C. McKissick and City Manager John M. Biery for that.

Hagen received several gifts from his many firends during the retirement ceremonies, including a handsome wrist watch, transistor radio and a 1964 fishing license.

"It has been a great pleasure for me to work with members of the police department and other officials of the city," Hagen said.

Mrs. Hagen was also on hand and they both played a part in cutting a big cake for the occassion.

Hagen is a native of Trinidad but has lived in Colorado Springs since he was 3 years of age. His father, operated the Hagen Fuel and Feed Col., at 603 W. Colorado Ave. for more than 40 years. His son was associated with him in that business for some time.

Hay Worth $120 Stolen From Ranch

Leo Mohl of the Mohl Ranch, Woodman Valley, reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday that between three and four tons of hay worth approximately $120 had been stolen from his ranch.

He told Deputy Sheriff Larry Holien that the gates leading to the ranch were locked but that he found one gate open Wednesday morning.

reach the downtown area of our city. People of the area are not asking that a sixty mile an hour freeway be built through the park, but only that a safe, efficient way may be found through the park or around the south end of Prospect Lake.

Newly constructed roads in the park itself are little more than good bicycle paths. Although they may look good on the city's scale model they are both impractical and dangerous. To illustrate a point, the recommended minimum turning radius is twenty-eight feet at the outside front wheel of an automobile. Roads in the park have radii of eighteen to twenty feet. This means a man with a normal size auto must either drive off the pavement or into an oncoming traffic lane to execute a right turn. Try it. In some places the narrow pavement is bounded on both sides by asphalt curb. This type of road design is both passe and dangerous for even slow moving traffic. The quality of the road itself is also questionable since it was apparently laid on virgin ground. The life expectancy of a road constructed in this manner is relatively short and might raise some questions about the economic feasibility since these roads were constructed as part of a long range park development plan.

Our late departed park superintendent, Mr. James Taylor, once said, "The beauty of our Memorial Park road system was that while driving in the park, one could see Pikes Peak from nearly every place." I wouldn't advise looking because it's hard enough to find your way through the "mystic maze" without trying to watch the passing scene, too. I realize there is a master road plan but it does seem that the roads go from nowhere to nowhere and take the long route. These are but a few of the mistakes made on the above mentioned roads.

As I was walking through Memorial Park this last week, I noticed that trees were being planted around the fences at the softball diamonds. During the summer this space was occupied by families in cars enjoying ball games. Small children sometimes get sleepy and it was very handy to have a car seat for a bed. I noticed, too, that older people, who no longer cared for hard bleacher seats, were also enjoying the games from the comfort of their cars.

1. Are the trees there to keep people or cars out? 2. Or are they there to protect people and cars from baseballs? In reference to the first question, they are very effective for keeping people and cars out. Our attendance probably will be lower for ball games this year. As to the second question, I have never seen any windows broken or people hurt by softballs at the games and I used to attend quite a few.

Another example of fine park management comes to light each Saturday morning during football season. At one time, roads and parking areas ringed the football fields west of Memorial Stadium. Our fine park department decided to rid the park area of these silly necessities. Now everyone can park on a very crowded Hancock Avenue. Our boys warm up for their football games by dodging cars while trying to cross the street to get to the playing fields. These are two more of the many things that need attention and consideration.

Our city fathers apparently were sold a fancy-looking master plan for Memorial Park without considering the consequences. The man that sold it to them is now gone and they are left holding the bag. Public opinion and interested parties do not seem to carry much weight with the park department since it is staffed with experts that know more about what is good for us than we do. By listening to the public, the department might accidently find solutions for some of its problems. When public opinion is choked off, as it has been in the past, we can only assume that it is not wanted.

I am the father of two boys and am very interested in good parks and recreation facilities. I am also a taxpayer of this city and want to see my tax dollar spent wisely.

BEING HELPFUL

To the Editor:

A good many years ago I was a newspaper boy in Lawrenceville, Pa. Then the boys didn't throw the paper and run but stayed to visit with the people and each person would want the boy to stay awhile. The people used to save pie apples, and other things to eat for the newspaperboy. I was supposed to stay with people when they were waiting for the doctor or minister. That was the first time I became especially interested in people. Lawrenceville was between two rivers, and at one time the water got so high in our house that we had to stay upstairs for some time.

When I was a little bit older, I lost my entire family.

Then I traveled to many states in order to study the circumstances of the people. People in every walk of life had their troubles.

I lived in Chicago for some time. At first the size of Chicago was different to me having lived in a small town. The rush of everyday life in Chicago was no surprise to me. At first I thought I could find no Christian love in Chicago. But I soon discovered there is Christian love in almost every town in America.

I ended up on a Chicago park bench penniless. I promised God in my heart that if he would help me get off that park bench, I'd spend the rest of my life helping others.

At first I thought there would be no opportunity to help others, but I soon discovered that wherever you are, you can help others.

I thought of these words. It costs so little, and means so much if we speak kindly to everyone.

I have been in hospitals in many states and I discovered that a hospital is a great place to help others.

Leaving out the next few years, eventually I was a watchman in a large factory. There I had many chances to save labor trouble. A quarrel will sometimes start like a fire in a building.

My only object in this writing as well as in the others, is to ease the smart of some aching heart or, in other words, to help someone who has fallen overboard in the ocean of grief.

Political Farm Circles Speculate On Wheat, Cotton

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Political and farm circles are speculating on what action the Johnson administration might take to support wheat prices should its wheat and cotton bill lose in Congress.

The House is scheduled to take up the Senate-approved bill about April 8. The vote is expected to be close. Both sponsors and critics are predicting victory.

A defeat could have widespread repercussions throughout the agricultural economy as well as in industry, if not offset by some alternative action.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has said that if the measure is killed, wheat growers face a loss of $450 million in income which last year was around $2.5 billion. He has said, too, that it would deprive at least 40,000 persons of jobs that otherwise would be available.

The secretary has said also that wheat prices—which averaged around $1.85 a bushel for the 1963 crop—would drop to a farm level of about $1.26—which would be the new government price support level.

But there are many top political as well as farm leaders who predict that the administration would not allow this to happen. They say it would take administrative action to prevent such a decline in wheat prices and income. Of course, administration leaders are not encouraging this idea. Any statement now that administrative action is contemplated might well hurt the pending measure's chances.

Although farm law would require that the price support be dropped to 50 per cent of parity price of wheat should no new legislation be enacted, the Agriculture Department has other weapons for minimizing the price and income decline. The 50 per cent of parity price support—which would be available only to those farmers who planted with this year's reduced allotments—would be about $1.26 a bushel on a farm average basis.

The biggest department weapon is the power to set the price at which it will sell government surplus wheat. At the present time, its sales price is 105 per cent of the price support plus handling charges. On the basis of the $1.26 support, its sales price would start off at harvest time at about $1.33 and would increase about a cent monthly to cover storage charges.

But a number of farm and congressional leaders want the department to raise its sales price. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democrat leader in the Senate, long has been urging that it be raised to 115 per cent of the support, plus handling charges. So has the American Farm Bureau Federation, the big farm organization which opposes the administration wheat plan, and the National Farmers Union, a backer of the administration farm proposals.

A government wheat sales price of 115 per cent of support plus handling charges would be about $1.45 at harvest time and would advance as the season advanced to cover storage costs.

Humphrey and other backers of the higher government sales price contend the latter would go a long way toward stabilizing 1964 wheat at around $1.50 a bushel.

The government sales price plays an important role in determining market prices because, from time to time, the trade must turn to government stocks for needs for milling and export, particularly at times when growers are holding back new-crop wheat for higher prices.

Many political leaders believe that the Johnson administration could ill afford to refuse to use this device for stabilizing wheat at higher prices. Refusal to use this authority could become a big issue in the presidential campaign in wheat areas.

Some farm leaders believe that once the issue of the new farm bill is settled, wheat prices will strengthen. They contend that administration backers, in efforts to drum up House votes for the wheat-cotton bill, have been talking down prices by describing the probable dire effects of the measure's failure.

Should the wheat plan fail, Freeman would be faced also with a decision as to what to do about another national wheat grower referendum on a rigid control plan for the 1965 crop. Such a referendum would have to be held late this spring. A year ago, growers soundly rejected the same plan that would have to be submitted for the 1965 crop.

Administration leaders freely concede they are not eager to take on another such referendum, particularly ahead of the presidential election.

It is being predicted freely that the administration would avoid another referendum at this time by making a determination that—in view of uncertain world supplies and threats of drought in this and other parts of the world—the 1965 crop would be grown free of rigid controls.

It would, they say, set voluntary acreage allotments designed to prevent overproduction and limit price supports for the 1965 crop to those complying with these allotments. The supports would have to be at about the 1963 crop level of $1.82.

Freeman—speaking in advance of the critical House vote on the wheat-cotton bill—has said he doubts he could escape a referendum. But should the bill fail, he would be expected to review the situation.

Civil Rights Compromise Said Unlikely

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson apparently is giving his legislative lieutenants little room to maneuver toward any compromise that might insure Senate passage of the civil rights bill.

The President was described by close associates today as being hardrock firm against any changes in the House-passed measure. They said he has maintained this attitude in private strategy conferences as well as in his public statements.

Johnson, an expert on how to get things done in the Senate, is said to have told the bill's managers they should plan for eventual around-the-clock sessions in an attempt to break a Southern filibuster.

The President reportedly has little hope that Dixie opponents will ever permit passage of the legislation without the invoking of the cloture rule. This means that two-thirds of those voting would have to approve applying a debate limitation.

Therein lies the dilemma of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., floor manager for the bill, and the Democrats and Republicans who are backing his efforts to bring it to a vote.

There is no practical way — and Humphrey is the first to admit it — of getting the necessary two-thirds vote unless Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois is willing to go along.

Dirksen wants some changes in vital sections of the bill. He has said he will propose about a dozen amendments to the provision dealing with fair employment practices but has no wish to "emasculate" it.

He also is expected to offer a substitute to a section banning racial discrimination in hotels, motels, restaurants, theaters, gas stations and sports stadiums. He has not spelled out his proposal yet.

Dirksen said he has substantial Republican support for efforts to change the fair employment section. He has not tested the GOP temper on the public accommodations section.

But the Republican leader has predicted flatly that before any bill is passed it will be amended. He has left the impression that he and Republicans who follow him on the matter will not be willing to support cloture unless it is.

If all senators were present, approval of 67 would be needed to curb a filibuster. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said Wednesday proponents can rally only 58 votes at this time.

Sending a revised bill back to the House might involve some lengthy delays. The voting of a watered-down measure also might trigger new Negro demonstrations in the period just before the national presidential nominating conventions.

With these and other disturbing thoughts in their minds, the bill's managers know they may arrive some day at the point where they will have to decide whether to accept some compromises or resign themselves to possible defeat of the legislation.

Scientists Will Measure Earthquake

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Bell-like vibrations of the earth will enable scientists to determine the length of the rupture in the earth's crust which caused the earthquake in Alaska last Friday.

So says the California Institute of Technology, on the basis of data collected from seismometers in Peru, on the island of Oahu in Hawaii and in California's Sierra Nevada. This network measures the frequencies of vibrations.

Dr. Frank Press, director of Caltech's seismological laboratory, said Wednesday that analysis of the vibrations will provide a pattern of the quake's extent.

Washington Boycott Is Canceled by CORE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Congress of Racial Equality has canceled plans for a boycott of Washington public schools April 20 to protest allegedly improper conditions.

CORE called off the boycott Tuesday night after the city's Board of Education accepted a majority of 14 proposals for improving schools which were presented to local school officials last month by CORE.

CORE members voted more than 4 to 1 to drop boycott plans.

Julius W. Hobson, local CORE chairman, said the only two proposals turned down by School Supt. Carl F. Hansen involved free bus transportation for transfer students and complete removal of police from all schools.

Proposals accepted included transfer of students, upon their parents' request, from overcrowded to under-capacity schools and use of policemen only as a last resort when educational discipline fails.

Busy Work Returns to Alaska Towns

By WARD SIMS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—An air of normalcy has returned to the streets of Anchorage, but here and elsewhere in Alaska a lot of work remains before the devastation of last Friday's earthquake is repaired.

Today, as they continued the monumental task of clearing debris and trying to get schools, transportation facilities and the economy functioning, Alaskans were cheered by the news President Johnson has ordered quick federal aid for the stricken state.

The President said Wednesday he would ask Congress for $50 million in emergency relief funds.

Gov. William A. Egan, who plans to meet with President Johnson in Washington, probably Monday, says he will ask for $500 million in federal aid. Robert G. Baker, president of Matanuska Valley Bank, says he thinks the request should be for $1 billion.

Both men said the money should be grants, no loans, so the hard-hit individuals and businesses will not be burdened by additional debt.

Egan said the state would do its utmost, but probably could contribute no more than $50 million for rehabilitation.

Of Anchorage's two high schools, one was so badly damaged it cannot be used until major repairs are completed. One elementary school was destroyed. Double shifts are planned at the other high school and at another grade school.

"We hope to have some, maybe all, of the schools open early next week," says Dr. Don Dafoe, Superintendent.

Pupils evacuated from Valdez, along with their teachers, now are attending schools at Gulkana, Copper Center and Glenallen. The schools in Kodiak and Seward are being used as emergency centers. In the Kodiak Island village of Old Harbor, the school is standing but the village it was supposed to serve is gone.

Transportation facilities are getting emergency repairs.

Henry Roloff, state commissioner of economic development and planning, said the government-owned Alaska Railroad, the only one in the state, should be open north to Fairbanks and south to Whittier in three weeks.

Repairing it from Whittier south to Seward "will be a long haul" because of the number of bridges out, he said.

The highway to Seward is out and the town is being supplied by air. The Alaska Highway to Seattle and the Richardson Highway to Valdez are open, however.

Docks at Anchorage, Cordova and Homer are operable, but the one at Valdez was destroyed. Tides at the latter city have been running 14 feet lower than normal, indicating that the land in that area raised 14 feet in a massive uplift.

BALLOONS FOR THE AIR FORCE

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Sylvania Electric Products is investigating the possibility of using balloon satellites for a communications network to link U.S. Air Force installations throughout the world.

The network would provide virtually instantaneous voice and data signal contact and is designed to overcome deliberate interference and natural radio disturbances.

The study, being conducted under a $100,000 Air Force contract, will determine the feasibility of relaying signals over microwave radio beams by bouncing them off balloons orbiting the earth at heights of 2,000 miles.

NIGERIAN MILITARY ACADEMY

KADUNA, Nigeria (AP) — Nigeria has opened its first military academy in this northern capital to provide academic and military training to army and navy personnel.

Man officers in Nigeria's 8,000-man army have been trained in British and other foreign military academies and Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Belewa said "we could not depend indefinitely upon the generosity of friendly countries."

Newsmen Learn Being Part Of Big Disaster

By WILLIAM J. TOBIN

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)— There were no puns about stopping the presses when the Good Friday earthquake rocked Anchorage with one of the mightiest shockwaves ever recorded.

The presses at both the Anchorage Daily Times and the Anchorage Daily News had stopped for the day when the ground heaved and twisted wide sections of Alaska's largest city into rubble.

It was Sunday before the Times could begin telling its story of the great devastation, and Monday before the presses rolled again at the News.

Newsmen learned the difference between covering a disaster and being a part of one.

The quake struck about 5:36 p.m. Anchorage time as both papers were cleaning up preliminary work on Saturday afternoon editions and most staffers were preparing to leave for home.

Times photographer Joe Rychtenik, standing by his desk after returning from a routine assignment getting departure pictures of Mrs. Alaska leaving for her national competition, was the first to call out.

"I feel a quake coming on," someone later remembered him saying. There was no time for reply before the swaying became strong and the sudden jolt rocked the building.

A scramble for the stairs began as light fixtures crashed, typewriters spilled, shelves crashed down in the library and teletype machines overturned. And across town, the jolt hit the News—flipping trucks in an adjoining parking lot and sending the back pressroom wall crashing outward.

Rene J. Cappon, the editor of the News, ran to the street with reporter John Ratterman. Publisher Norman Brown, in the backshop at the time, ducked at the side of a huge mat roller. Mrs. Brown ducked under a counter in the bookkeeping department.

The composing rooms at both papers were a shambles of piled type, lead and forms. But major damage, compared with the havoc in other buildings and homes was slight.

The Times' Hoe straight patten press apparently was unmarked. The News' 32-page Goss deck press wiggled with the force of the quake, but was undamaged.

But without power, it was obvious neither paper could publish Saturday — the first time either had ever missed an edition.

By Sunday morning the Times was ready to roll with emergency power. It got 35,000 copies of a 12-page edition out at 4 p.m.

The News faced a major task in closing in its back wall, but it was out as usual on Monday, also with a 12-page edition.

Ironically, the quake struck as both papers were engaged in special projects. Just hours before the quake hit, the Times published the first of a new weekly tabloid supplement, Home & Hobby—a timely stroke of do-it-yourself thinking for a city which faces a big spruce-up task for hundreds of homeowners.

At the News, scheduled to go to morning publication from the afternoon field on April 13, the quake hit in the middle of work on a special progress edition— aptly dubbed, in advance, "Alaska's Futures."

OUTDOOR WEDDING

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — It is not unusual for Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lee to see snow on their wedding anniversary. They had an "outdoor" wedding 50 years ago because of a snowstorm.

When the couple arrived at the church for the ceremony the ground was covered with snow and ice. Rather than see the bride struggle through the deep drifts in her wedding finery the minister bundled up, waded out to the buggy and performed the ceremony for their white wedding.

'UP TO SNUFF' SOCIALLY

LONDON (AP) — The correct procedure for taking snuff became a ritual in polite society during the 18th Century and fashionable schools were opened in London to teach "the exercise of the snuff box." Snuff boxes became status symbols, and were usually small enough to fit into pocket or purse, although they could be large, table - sized containers meant for communal use. Made in all possible shapes from materials ranging from paper to precious metals, they were decorated with jewels, ivory, mother-of-pearl, and carvings or engravings.

Students Study Survival of Desert Rats

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON (AP)—University of Arizona scientists have been studying the mystery for years—how do vast numbers of desert animals survive without drinking water for long periods of time.

Now they have found an additional clue by milking a tiny kangaroo rat — no small accomplishment in itself.

The milk contains far less water and much more fat than that of most mammals.

Kangaroo rats also known as dipodomy's, are wee gnome-like creatures that infest sections of Arizona, California, New Mexico and Texas.

The late Dr. Charles T. Vorhies of the university was one of the first to report that these desert dwellers, resembling miniature kangaroos, have found a way to live without water. "There is no evidence they ever drink," he reported.

Kangaroo rats abound in areas where water holes are 40 to 50 miles apart. Dr. Vorhies reported, "these little creatures are tied to their home burrows and cannot travel even four or five miles to and from a water hole, to say nothing of a 40 to 50 mile round trip. Such a jaunt might work off more water than the creature could drink."

They eat extremely dry foods and abound in areas where summer surface temperatures sometimes reaches 155 degrees.

For a while the government was mad at the dipodomys. They build their nests two inches to two feet beneath the ground and connect them with a labyrinth of communicating burrows. During World War II the Air Force built training fields on the desert. The kangaroo rat tunnels caused a bomber to tip over, so predator and rodent control officers were told to kill them. The animals have long since recovered from this setback.

University of Arizona zoologist Gerald J. Kooyman got the idea that the kangaroo rat's milk might give a hint as to how they have adapted to the arid climate.

But how to go about milking a tiny creature weighing only a few ounces? Finally Kooyman used the same technique a farmer uses on a cow, and produced about one-tenth ounce each milking.

Only seals and whales, it develops, have milk that contains fat. It needs less water for storage.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

WHITE HOUSE - SHAKESPREARE: The White House observed the 400th anniversary of William Shakespeare's birth Wednesday with a special performance of scenes from "The Taming of The Shrew."

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and daughters Lynda Bird and Luci Baines were joined by 200 children of members of Congress in the East Ballroom for the wooing and wedding scenes of the Shakespeare play, performed by the Catholic University Players.

President Johnson stuck his head in briefly, commented "Oh, it's already started," nodded to his wife and left to return to his office.

The show was introduced by 16-year-old Luci. Afterward, Luci, Lynda and Lynda's roommate Warrie Lynn Smith of San Antonio, Tex., mingled with the guests and chatted with the cast.

Mrs. Johnson shook hands with the cast and guests in a receiving line.

SILVER CERTIFICATES: A Federal Reserve official says the government will probably stop issuing $1 silver certificates next summer.

The $1 silver certificates are being replaced with the new $1 Federal Reserve note authorized by Congress last year.

Even after issuance of silver certificates stops, it will be some time before they disappear from circulation. A dollar bill lasts an average of 18 months, but some last longer.

The Treasury plans to continue issuing $5 silver notes.

COLLINS: Gen. James F. Collins has succeeded Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther as president of the American Red Cross.

Collins, who was U.S. Army Commander in the Pacific before his retirement from active military service, took over the $30,000-a-year job Wednesday. Gruenther retired from the post Tuesday.

Trust Busting 'Patrolman' Has New Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's chief trust buster is drastically reshaping the government's antitrust enforcement posture.

His strategy is based on the observation that speeders slow down when they know the traffic policeman is patrolling nearby.

Thus William Horsley Orrick Jr., the vigorous boss of the Justice Department's antitrust division, is steering away from any idea of enforcing antitrust laws by sitting back and waiting for complaints.

Orrick feels that approach may be all right for the local district attorney, but that it leaves large gaps in antitrust prosecution.

That's why he is redeploying his forces to make sweeping studies of entire industries when the opportunity arises—either as the result of a complaint of or investigations by his staff.

The goal is to eliminate any anticompetitive practices that may have developed, unchecked in some industries.

To illustrate what he's getting at in new antitrust policy, Orrick, 41, thrust a hairy arm toward a wall map of the United States. Little flags clustered about the major cities, where antitrust field offices are located. Red flags indicate criminal antitrust suits, blue flags civil suits, orange ones grand jury investigations.

Away from the major cities, the flags are sparce or nonexistent.

"That's why I'm changing our emphasis," Orrick said. "An unscrupulous businessman in Spokane isn't any more interested in obeying antitrust laws than the man in San Francisco, where our field office is."

While 70 per cent of antitrust cases stem from behavioral probleme in business, Orrick said, only 30 per cent are concerned with structural problems. With his new approach, he hopes, these figures will change.

Orrick took over the antitrust task from Lee Loevinger last June, when Loevinger was named to the Federal Communications Commission.

At Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's behest, Orrick formed a policy-planning group from among his 292 antitrust lawyers and 30 economists.

Their task is to decide whether a reported business abuse merits a full-scale investigation of the industry involved.

American Lives, Blood Money, Defend Viets

NEW YORK (AP)—American lives, blood, money and materiel are deeply involved in the struggle between South Vietnam and the Communist Viet Cong that has been going on since the early 1950s.

"CBS Reports" Wednesday night undertook an examination of the "nasty little war," as narrator Charles Collingwood called it. It showed the difficult conditions — experienced guerrillas, the problem of identifying ally from enemy in a civil war and the lack of enthusiasm of the Vietnamese people for the long struggle.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, in a taped interview, said:

"If the Communists were to control Vietnam almost surely, eventually, their control would extend through Southeast Asia and there would be a ripple effect as far west, probably, as Pakistan and as Far East as the Philippines and certainly to the south through Indonesia."

Much of the program was devoted to side issues — the destruction of the villages and dislocation of the people, the disturbed political situation and bits from a furious, bitter interview with Mme. Nhu, former first lady now in Paris exile.

NBC, which originally planned to substitute a series of shows about New York World's Fair for "That Was The Week That Was" during the summer, has dropped the project. Instead, it will show a series of short variety shows called "Parade," originally broadcast in Canada.

ABC has announced that Dinah Shore will be on its network next season with four evening variety specials and three daytime shows especially designed for the feminine audience.

The singer is under a long-term NBC contract, so some complicated negotiations to release her have been underway.

An NBC special about the Indianapolis Speedway and the big Memorial Day auto race is scheduled for May 2[illegible].

Workmen Seek William's Wall in London Tower

A few years ago, in a popular and successful movie, "Our Man in Havana," the man playing the title role was returning home to Britain to face the music with high government officials.

As their plane passed over London, his daughter asked the identity of a structure over which it was flying.

The hero and the camera both peered down, and the cluster of buildings was immediately recognizable as the Tower of London. It was not identified in the conversation, but the look of horrified apprehension on the hero's face was sufficient. It was a look exemplary of that of anticipated retribution for evildoers, real or imagined, in considering the bloody history of the Tower of London.

The Tower, a hodgepodge of loosely connected buildings within a fortress on the banks of the Thames, has undergone many changes since Willaim the Conqueror laid the first stones for the White Tower in 1066, the American Automobile Association's London office notes. This year, in a move to rehouse the Crown Jewels, it is undergoing another.

Four laborers are digging a hole in the ground, which will eventually hold a new vault for the Crown Jewels. This is no steamshovel operation. The men are working under the guidance of a skiled technician, digging with the care and patience of archaeologists.

Many artifacts, including bits of pottery from the 11th thru the 14th centuries, have already been recovered.

The workmen have also uncovered a number of ancient instruments, along with items of Roman Arretine ware, dating from around the time of Christ. It is know there was a Roman military encampment there at one time.

But of even more historical interest is the hope of uncovering the rampart built by William the Conqueror to keep the citizens of London in awe following the Norman conquest. A small bit of the wall was uncovered several years ago, and is on view to the public, but the principal contours have never been rediscovered.

British officials hope to have the new vault ready for the Crown Jewels by early next year. Meantime, they remain on view in the old location in the beautiful White Tower, focal point of the fortress and William's original building at the site.

This is the world's richest royal collection. It includes the historic Koh-I-noor and Cullinand diamonds. Viewing the jewels costs a shilling (14 cents) added to the amount of admission to the Tower grounds itself The lines waiting on a midsummer day are long.

A 450 year old ritual for guarding the Tower and its contents is preserved today.

In the Ceremony of the Keys, each night at 10 p.m., the chief warder — the head "Beefeater" — locks the Tower gates and brings the keys to headquarters in the fortress. The sentry calls out, "Halt, who comes there?"

"The keys."

"Whose keys?"

"Queen Elizabeth's keys." All present arms and the warder calls out, "God preserve Queen Elizabeth."

And the guard says, "Amen."

WAKEFUL HIBERNATION

Some hibernating animals, such as the badger, sleep through the entire winter without wakening, but others, like the chipmunk and gopher, become active on pleasant days.

AMERICAN CITIZEN

CHICAGO (UPI)—Five-year-old Marvel Lai Chong, abandoned as an infant in Hong Kong and later adopted by a Chicago couple, was told after a ceremony Tuesday that she was an American citizen.

"Goodie," he said. "Can I take it with me?"

Anxiety Being Reduced, Psychology Experts Claim

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Relax—we're not harassed by some special age of anxiety, two psychology experts said today.

There may be less anxiety among people now than in the past, despite H-bombs, the population explosion, social pressures and rapid change, said Dr. James G. Miller, professor of psychiatry and psychology at the University of Michigan.

The amount of total anxiety has been reduced by lessened fear of sudden death and malignant illness through medical research, by better control over "lawless terrors of the past," and by education which has reduced superstitions malign supernatural powers has receded," Miller told a symposium commemorating the 10th anniversary of tranquilizer drugs.

The United States and Great Britain were found to have the lowest levels of anxiety among 10 nations he has studied, said Dr. Raymond B. Cattell, research professor of psychology at the University of Illinois.

The greatest anxiety was found in underdeveloped nations such as India, "where standards of living are lower and where a country has cultural and political crevasses separating its peoples."

"With America and Britain lowest on these lists, the view that we iive in an unusually anxious culture and age is scarcely supported," he said.

HOW IT'S DONE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The principal feature of the Radio Corporation of America's exhibit at the 1964-65 New York World's Fair will be an operating color television facility.

Visitors to the exhibit will enjoy a "behind - the - scenes" panoramic view of the complex activities that go into the production and broadcast of a color television program.

New Mexico Land Project Bankrupt

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—A New Mexico land development project, advertised four years ago as having four fresh water lakes and a planned golf course, now has a dry hole where the first lake was and a patch of brown grass at the golf course site.

It also has money problems.

Antelope Springs Ranches, Inc., east of Albuquerque, now controls only 1 per cent of the hundreds of acres sold in 5-acre tracts for $25. There is not enough money coming in to pay for the land it does hold.

Its president, Sherwin Spector, said he had to move to Illinois and get a job to support his family. His wife is vice president. They are the only officers left.

Spector said the former officers of the company sold 99 per cent of the purchase contracts before he took office. He said he didn't know what happened to the money.

Part of the development has been repossessed and some 2,000 acres are mortgaged.

Otis M. Dickey of Moriarty, who repossessed some of the land last month, summed up the situation, "It's going to be a mess before it's over."

First Act of Congress was a bill regulating time and manner of administering oaths of office required by the Constitution.

India Will Free Leaders of Disputed Kashmir

NEW DELHI (AP) — In a major reversal of policy, the Indian government announced today it will free Kashmiri nationalists it imprisoned because of their militant fight to separate the disputed Himalayan state from India.

Among those to be released is Sheik Mohammed Abdullah, the Moslem "Lion of Kashmir" whom Prime Minister Nehru's government ousted from the premiership of the state 11 years ago and jailed.

Lal Bahadur Shastri, minister without portfolio and Nehru's right-hand man, told Parliament Abdullah and his followers would be released in an effort to "stabilize" the tense political situation in Kashmir. He didn't say how many would be freed.

Shastri's statement came six days before a scheduled meeting of Indian Home Minister G. L. Nanda with the home minister of neighboring Pakistan, which long has charged Abdullah's detention was an example of Hindu India's repression of the Kashmir people, most of whom are Moslems.

Pakistan disputes India's claim to Kashmir.

It's Tough Job to Trail LBJ, Newsmen Declare

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—Memo from the White House press corps to the man in the White House: Please ease up on the throttle; it's a tough job trailing a president and an impossible one at 75 miles an hour.

Besides, with the traffic casualty figures what they are, we'd all breathe a little easier if you'd confine your hard-driving to your White House desk.

Not that anyone can exactly prove Lyndon B. Johnson is a bit heavy footed when he gets behind the wheel of his big, luxury car. But newsmen found over the Easter holiday that when they trailed him at 60 to 65 miles an hour they were only doing exactly that—trailing.

If this weren't cause enough for dismay, a reporter who tried to trail Mrs. Johnson from the LBJ Ranch to the hairdresser one day estimated her driver was zipping along at 75 to 80.

The word around these parts is that you can tell a car the President has driven by its banged-up back end. But everyone rates Johnson an excellent driver and everyone knows he is a rancher. This means he has to shoot into a pasture to look over his cattle, and the bumps and rocks are hard on a car's back end.

Still, the reports continue that the 70-mile-an-hour speed limits around these parts is no restriction for the President.

In New York, the World-Telegram and the Sun, in a story from Johnson City, quoted an unidentified veteran White House photographer as saying his own speedometer read 90 as he "was keeping up" with Johnson's car after church Sunday.

The newspaper also said that on a drive Saturday the President was reported to have covered his speedometer with his broad-brimmed hat when a passenger remarked that the needle was pointing to 85.

Johnson went out to look over some ranchland Sunday, pursued by newsmen in a 70-mile zone. One reported that a Secret Service car held him back to 60 to 65 miles an hour while the President sped away at 75 to 80.

The matter was brought up to White House press secretary George Reedy. He said he was unaware of it if the President was hitting the reported 80 or 85.

In any event, all this is old hat to the White House press corps.

They used to hit 100 at times trying to stay up with President Dwight D. Eisenhower. And once when they tried to keep up with him as he sailed along the highway to Gettysburg, Pa., they were flagged down by state police for speeding.

Four Teen Boys Rescued From Missouri Cave

JEROME, Mo. (AP) — Four teen-age boys were reported lost Tuesday night in a partially explored cave west of Jerome, Mo., 125 feet above the Gasconade River, the Missouri Highway Patrol said.

Dr. James Maxwell, advisor for a cave explorers club at Rolla, Mo. School of Mines, said he rushed members of his club to the cave in a rescue attempt.

The four were lost in Bruce Cave, one of the largest in Pulaski County. The county has more caves than any other in Missouri, the highway patrol said.

Bruce Cave has been mapped for 10,000 feet, according to a book, "Caves of Missouri" by J. Harlan Bretz.

Dr. Maxwell said there was a bend in Bruce Cave which the four teen-agers could have gone into and missed the cavern opening.

"If they hit that bend, they're lost," Dr. Maxwell told a highway patrol officer.

Gary Edgman, 16, told police he went into the cave with the four about 2:30 p.m. Edgman said he came out after about 15 minutes and waited at the cave's mouth. When the others didn't return after about two hours, he notified police.

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam has reached an understanding with the leader of right-wing forces in Laos that will enable Vietnamese troops to strike inside Laos against Communist Viet Cong bases and supply routes, informed sources reported today.

This development was said to have resulted from a recent meeting in Dalat, the South Vietnamese hill station, between the rightist Laotian vice premier, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, and South Viet Nam's strongman premier, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

Khanh reportedly won Phoumi's approval to a plan under which Vietnamese raiding parties can strike into Laos against predesignated Communist targets.

Elements of Phoumi's 50,000-man rightist army operate along the Vietnamese border. His 33rd Infantry Battalion is at an outpost a stone's throw from the Vietnamese outpost of Lao Bao.

Informed sources said Khanh argued that his plan to root the Viet Cong out of South Viet Nam can succeed only if Communist bases and supply routes in Laos are put out of action.

These include the Ho Chi Minh trail, an ill-defined maze of jungle trails which has long been a supply route from North Viet Nam to the Communist guerrillas.

Phoumi reportedly gave his consent to Khanh's proposals only if the raiding parties were limited in size, were in hot pursuit of Communist Vietnamese, and if the targets were designated in advance.

Phoumi also reportedly insisted that he wanted no part of a military alliance with Viet Nam, a move that could bring down the Laotion coalition government. For that reason, informed sources said, Laotian troops will not participate in any actions with the Vietnamese.

There also is no likelihood that the U.S. government will let American military advisers enter Laos with the Vietnamese raiders.

The South Vietnamese government has long wanted some kind of border agreement with both Laos and neighboring Cambodia to stop Communist infiltration.

Khanh is known to be trying to reach an agreement with the Cambodian chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, for a "hot pursuit" agreement under which Khanh's forces could follow Viet Cong guerrillas operating in the Mekong Delta when they cross into Cambodia. Talks collapsed recently after the South Vietnamese attacked a Cambodian border village.

The Vietnamese army is shrouding any mention of moves into Laos in secrecy but so far has reportedly not made any.

Any decision to proceed with the raids apparently will depend on the progress of Khanh's pacification plan in the 1st and 2nd Corps military regions in South Viet Nam which lie along the 250-mile Laotian border.

This reporter today completed a four-day swing through this region and found both Vietnamese and American advisers generally optimistic.

Significant troop concentrations have taken place in the border areas in recent weeks. Two Ranger battalions advanced to within a stones throw of Laos.

Hundreds of other troops are scheduled to be moved into special forces camps being built along the border area.

Diplomats Not Safe From Traffic Tickets

MANILA (AP) — Mayor Antonio Villegas sent the police off on a ticketing spree against U.S. Embassy officials today in retaliation for alleged harassment of Philippine diplomats in Washington.

About 100 tickets for traffic violations were reported issued to drivers of American cars bearing diplomatic license plates.

One car was that of Minister Richard Service, the deputy chief of mission.

Villegas said he ordered the crackdown after receiving complaints that Philippine officials were being harassed and humiliated by Washington authorities for traffic violations.

How to Keep Well

RHEUMATIC FEVER PREVENTION

Rheumatic fever differs from diseases like whooping cough and measles in that one attack does not confer everlasting immunity and the victims usually are left more susceptible. But, during the last few decades, much has been done to prevent recurrences.

The second and third seige of rheumatic fever may do additional damage to the heart. Prevention centers about the group A beta hemolytic streptococci that trigger the malady. Strep sore throat, tonsilitis, or scarlet fever generally precedes rheumatic fever 15 to 30 days. The trick is to eliminate the micro - organisms before they have a chance to set the stage for the second attack.

This can be done in different ways. Every youngster who has had rheumatic fever should be given an antibiotic or sulfa drug regularly to safeguard against recurrences. Surveys in large cities show that many youngsters who should receive this prophylaxis do not get it, for a variety of reasons.

In Chicago, rheumatic fever is a reportable disease and the health department and heart association are making a concerted effort to locate those with a history of rheumatic fever and heart disease. Families who cannot afford the preventive medicines get them free.

A plan to prevent the first bout of rheumatic fever also is gaining momentum. Throat cultures are made on children with an upper respiratory infection, and the results are reported to the family physician within 24 hours. An antibiotic is administered immediately, if beta hemolytic streptococci are present. The treatment is continued for 10 days to eliminate all traces of the organisms.

Rheumatic fever occurs in only a small percentage of those with this type of streptococcal infections. There is no way to tell ahead of time who is susceptible. For this reason, everyone harboring these organisms is treated, even though the chance of developing the disease is small.

At one time we believed heredity played a role and those with a family history of rheumatic fever were more susceptible. There is evidence now that the strength (virulence) of the bacteria is more important. The weaker strains are less likely to cause rheumatic fever.

Reply

Yes, especially when the individual has high blood pressure, heart disease, or ulcers. Catnaps are wonderful for those who work under tension and are fortunate enough to have the time and the place.

Walking Headache

Reply

Yes, provided you refer to the upper end of the spine. Arthritis of the vertebras of the neck may cause headache while walking.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

OUR HEDDA GETS A LAUGH CHECKING A WILD RUMMOR

HOLLYWOOD. — A long time ago I learned that no matter how ridiculous a rumor sounds, it bears checking. Especially here. So when "a very good authority" called with a tip that Mrs. Dean Martin had quietly filed for divorce and Molly Bee was waiting in the wings to become the next Mrs. M., I called the little old wine drinker at home and asked, "How about it?" He chuckled merrily, admitted he's known Molly since she was 8, and said he saw her a couple of years ago. "Is she really standing in the wings? How about that now? I drink a little, but—"

I asked Dean, "Well, what are you doing?" He answered: "Just gettin' ready to call Molly. No, we got the day off on our picture ("Kiss Me, Stupid"). Old Pete Sellers got a sty in his eye. I saw it—looks like he has three eyes. They could use him on Outer Limits."

"Have you met the new Mrs. Sellers?" I asked.

"Now there is something," Martin said. "She's not as pretty as Jeannie and doesn't have as good a figure—but she's beautiful. You know when you called to accuse me, I thought you were going to say Kim Novak. I talked to her five minutes the other day."

In cold, rainy Palm Springs, Jeanne Martin went along with the gag: "Hedda, Dean has two or three girls picked out. He hasn't made up his mind what age group he wants to be in." She is planning to spend Easter vacation with her kids — in shifts because the Palm Springs house isn't big enough for them all, but if the weather doesn't warm up, they'll come home. She said their daughter Claudia finished a part in a Mr. Novak sequence. "Getting a career going is hard work, no matter who your father is," Jeanne said.

"You're puttin' me on," said Molly Bee when I called her. "Must be two other people. I've been on the road for eight weeks of one-nighters. Joined Bob Hope and played three universities — L. S. U., Baylor, and Tulane. In New Orleans Bob and I went to the Pete Fountain Inn. Pete (a jazz clarinetist) did a three-hour show for us. We couldn't stand it so we got up and sang, too. They dropped the Confederate flag and everybody stood up. A man said to Bob, I'm proud to see you standin'. Down here we take this flag serious. Why I've had a Confederate uniform hangin' in my closet for 50 years.'

'And I've had Phil Harris hangin' in my closet for three days,' said Bob."

Molly and Bob will be queen and king of Indiana University in May. Meanwhile she shuttles back and forth from New York for the Jimmy Dean TV show. She says it's great to be back singing western style again.

Peter Sellers doesn't want Britt Eklund, his bride of five weeks, to work, and it looks as though he'll get his wish. She walked out of a Twentieth Century-Fox picture being filmed in England after three weeks of shooting with three more to go and joined her husband here. Says she ain't going back. Sellers denied reluctantly that they're expecting a baby, which would get her out on an act-of-God clause. The company closed down, put 200 people out of work, and the studio is filing suit against her. The aftermath: She'll never be able to do another film in England. But we're so chicken livered we'll probably put her to work here.

"Lilies of the Field" has brought everyone connected with it all kinds of luck. Cary Grant saw the picture and immediately engaged Ralph Nelson to direct "Father Goose" which he'll make with Leslie Caron in Jamaica in April.

Mr. R. L. Campbell, Vice-President
Safeway Stores, Inc.
3888 East Mexico
Denver, Colorado

Dear Mr. Campbell:

3-MILLION POUND BEEF SALE!

What a show-stopper that ad was!....and a crowd pleaser to boot! I know for a fact that some people traveled farther from home in order that they might avail themselves of the very wide selection of beef items offered by Safeway Stores at such attractive prices.

The ads appearing in the two Denver papers, coupled with the bus advertising and T V commercials certainly went a long way in informing the consuming public of the availability of the high quality and well aged beef Safeway featured.

I visited several stores during the Sale and was pleased to see that the meat department was the busiest part of the store and the beef section attracted most attention. It was apparent to me that the store was hard pressed to keep the supply on a par with the demand!

There is no doubt in my mind but that this outstanding offering to the consumer went a long way in disposing of much of the over abundance of highly finished beef we feeders have produced and I know that our officers and members appreciate the fine cooperation exhibited by Safeway Stores in this time of trial in our industry.

Sincerely yours,

Neil

Civil Rights Bill Backers Argue In Senate Fight

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate backers of the civil rights bill argue today that its voting rights section is a modest step toward winning the ballot for more Negroes in the South.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., gave this description of the section in a prepared speech, explaining that he personally "would prefer to more direct and positive approach to the problem."

"I would prefer, in fact, that postmasters or other local federal officials be made registrars whenever it is found that state or local election machinery is supporting voting discrimination."

But he conceded that "at the moment, it appears that a majority of the Congress is not prepared to take this step."

Hart was to be joined by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., in a bipartisan presentation of the voting rights section, title I of the House-passed bill.

Tuesday, Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., delivered the only major speech on the bill, centering his attack on the voting rights section. He held the floor 6 hours and 25 minutes, longest stint in the 18 days of debate so far.

Thurmond assailed the provision which would make a 6th grade education the basis for a presumption of literacy, denouncing this as an unconstitutional invasion of the rights of the states.

Thurmond said more than 100,000 Negroes are registered to vote in his state and that he knew of no discrimination.

"It's a lot of hullabaloo over nothing," he said.

He discussed at a luncheon of GOP senators the dozen amendments he is advocating to the fair employment practices section of the measure, but said more such sessions would be needed over the next two weeks before he is ready to introduce them.

He said he was not seeking to "emasculate or water down" the section, only to assure it was not made unduly harassing to businessmen.

Hart said "it is the patience of the American Negro which in many respects is the most remarkable fact of all as we look at the civil rights revolution of the 1960s."

The Michigan senator said that, despite some new powers to enforce voting rights in the 1957 and 1960 civil rights acts, the results have been highly disappointing.

The Justice Department has pursued the matter vigorously but in 100 counties in 8 Southern states, only 8.3 per cent of all Negroes of voting age were registered by 1962, he said.

In 1956, the figure was about 5 per cent so that "if the pace of the last seven years is not accelerated, it will take over 100 years to get even a majority of Negroes in the 100 counties registered," Hart declared.

State Asked to Fight Golden Eagle Menace

The eagle, the largest bird of prey in Colorado, has been attacking young lambs in Delta, Montrose and Mesa counties, according to State Agriculture Commissioner Paul W. Swisher.

Swisher said permits allowing ranchers to kill a few of the birds could serve as "a program of control" rather than eradication.

Under a new federal law, only the governor can request the Department of the Interior for permits to kill the birds. Love ran into a storm of protests last year when he made the request.

Love said he would ask for more information on the plan. "I'm not in favor of requesting it until I have information on the actual losses," he said.

OLD STOCK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The world's oldest stock certificate in a still existing company — Sweden's Stora Kopparberg — will be on view at the Swedish pavilion in the New York World's Fair.

Dated June 16, 1288, the stock certificate attests to the ownership of a one-eighth share, in the Swedish company of Nicolaus Christineson who received it on that date from his uncle, Bishop Elofsson.

Profits on Rockets Bring Disagreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators who studied Nike, Bomarc and Atlas missile costs disagree strongly on the profits involved. Five of them say profits ranged up to 178 per cent, two others challenge these figures.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee made its 5-2 split report Tuesday on weeks of hearings which ended May 25, 1962. The probe covered contracts over the years 1950 to 1962.

The majority report, filed with the Senate by Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., figured that some of the contractors who developed and produced the missiles received profits as big as 178 per cent by "pyramiding" practices.

Dissenting reports by Sens. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., and Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., challenged these figures. Ervin said the evidence did not sustain them. Curtis said the committee was ignoring established methods of computing profits, and employing "retrogressive" accounting methods which gave a distorted picture.

The majority report voiced sharper criticisms of the Pentagon for failing to hold down the profits than for the companies which got the profits.

There was no immediate Pentagon comment on the report.

Reventlow Gets Ready to Get Married Again

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cheryl Holdridge had to make the decision: Universal Studio contract, or life as Mrs. Lance Reventlow. She chose the latter.

"Four months ago I would have jumped at the contract," she sighs, "but that was before Lance proposed. If I signed with the studio, I might be in the middle of a picture when we got married and there'd be no honeymoon.

"Lance likes to travel. Supposing I had to work and couldn't go with him. That wouldn't be right. I had to choose between my career and my personal life. Lance doesn't want me to quit acting, but it wouldn't be right for me to be tied to a studio."

Such a momentous decision came at age 19 for Cheryl, a sunshiny, snub-nosed blonde who used to be a Mouseketeer and now is engaged to one of America's almost eligible males. Reventlow, son of heiress Barbara Hutton, isn't quite ready for the altar. His marriage to flame-haired Jill St. John doesn't end under California law until November.

But he is thoroughly committed to another journey down the aisle, according to Cheryl.

She reports: "When we first started dating, Lance said he was never going to marry again. If he did, it would be before a justice of the peace, never in a church. He would never have a big wedding and he didn't want children. He called them rug-runners and curtain-crawlers.

"Now he's getting married, it'll be a big wedding in the Westwood Community church with a large reception at the Continental Hotel. And he wants four children."

And who is the persuasive blonde? She is the daughter of a retired Army general, born in New Orleans and reared in nearby Sherman Oaks. She started in films as an extra and dancer, then was tapped for Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse Club. Those were three and a half of the best years of her life.

"It was great experience," said she, "and I learned a lot in school, too. We had one teacher for every 10 students and it was like having your own tutor."

Alas, the club finally disbanded and Cheryl was tossed back into the ranks of the unemployed. She went to public high school, meanwhile getting roles in television films. She can be seen tonight as Don Grady's girlfriend in "My Three Sons."

Cheryl had a single date with Lance early last year, having met him through singer Jimmy Boyd. Nothing clicked, at least not with Lance. "He was too tied up in his own split with Jill," Cheryl explained.

Although she was smitten with him, she declined further dates, not wishing to get involved in his divorce situation. After Jill filed suit, it was a different matter. He called one night in December for a movie date. She said yes, and they have seen each other constantly since.

Book Borrowed in 1909 Is Returned

A library spokesman said the book, "Annie Kilbur," by William Dean Howells, was brought back by a woman who said she found it in an old bookcase in her home.

Tuesday was the final day of a library moratorium on collection of fines for late book returns.

WORLD'S OLDEST?

Pines 4,000 years old have been found growing in the White Mountains of eastern California and some scientists contend these gnarled trees are the world's oldest living things.

25 Shows Limp To Oblivion On Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's 1963-64 season has only six or eight weeks to go and the network schedules include at least 25 shows limping toward oblivion.

Some born weaklings, like "The Jerry Lewis Show" on ABC, "Glynis" on CBS and "Harry's Girls" on NBC, expired early and unmourned.

Others, like NBC's "Richard Boone Show," have suffered bravely through chronic script trouble. "Route 66" on CBS flopped after costar George Maharis left the cast.

Several programs are victims of circumstance. NBC's "Espionage," a well-produced, spy series will be dropped because it occupied a Wednesday night niche in competition with two of television's most popular programs, "Beverly Hillbillies" and "The Dick Van Dyke Show."

ABC's "Arrest And Trial" might have survived almost anywhere — except opposite NBC's "Bonanza." "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters," also on ABC, was designed to appeal to younger viewers—but had too much competition from the well-established Walt Disney programs on NBC.

CBS's "Judy Garland Show" seems to have succumbed to a combination of troubles —"Bonanza" as competition, following Ed Sullivan's variety hour with another 60 minutes of much the same thing, and disagreement among the show's producers on its format.

Since the season started in September, 10 prime time evening network shows have flopped. Many more will soon reach the end of the road. This is a high mortality rate. But, like the unfolding of the first daffodil, it happens every spring.

After agonizing appraisal, NBC decided to dump Imogene Coca's "Grindl" and to fill her Sunday night half hour next season with "The Bill Dana Show" now seen during kiddy time earlier in the day . . . "CBS Reports" on April 15 will examine the controversy kicked off by the recent federal report on smoking.

An upcoming drama about a man who takes the wrong medicine by mistake was originally a story about a man suffering a heart attack — and was changed at the nervous sponsor's insistence . . . Ed Sullivan will have still another carbon copy of the Beatles on next Sunday's show.

Industrial Fund Reports High In Net Assets

DENVER (UPI)— Financial Industrial Fund reported Monday that its total net assets climbed to a quarter-ending high of $276,109,552 Feb. 29.

The new total compared with $259,436,904 Nov. 30 and $238,256,637 on Feb. 28, 1963— for gains of 6.4 per cent and 15.9 per cent respectively.

FIF, one of the nation's largest mutual funds, said that period-ending net assets per share totaled $4.6553—up 7.2 per cent from the $4.3388 of last Nov. 30 and, adjusted for capital gains distribution, 17.3 per cent compared with $4.0469 on Feb. 28, 1963.

Also reported was a 91 per cent appreciation over cost in its heavy air transportation commitments. The firm said air transportation common stocks and convertibles represented 8.1 per cent of net assets on Feb. 29, and that their combined worth had risen $10.6 million from original purchase.

The figures were revealed in FIF's semi-annual report to over 100,000 shareowners.

NO CLEAR EVIDENCE

Although there is little doubt that the American Indians originally came from Asia, there is no clear evidence relating the languages of the Americans to those of Asia or elsewhere in the Old World, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Hawks Down Warriors In NBA Playoff Opener

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — St. Louis finesse keeps the pressure on the muscular young San Francisco Warriors in the National Basketball Association's Western playoff finals and the pressure proved too much, at least in the opening game.

Leading by 20 points four minutes into the second quarter, the Warriors faltered and the heads-up play of such veterans as Richie Guerin, Cliff Hagan and Bob Pettit brought the Hawks a 116-111 victory.

So in the West the St. Louis club leads 1-0 and meets the Warriors at the Cow Palace in game No. 2 on Friday night. Boston leads Cincinnati 1-0 in the East with their second meeting tonight in Boston.

Wilt Chamberlain hit 16 points as the Warriors built a 33-20 first-quarter lead and they built it to a 47-27 advantage before the Hawks began surging back.

Hagan held the hot shooting hand with 13 second - quarter points as the Hawks narrowed the count to 58-54 at the half. Pettit took over the guarding of Chamberlain for the period and held him to five.

In the second half it was Guerin's turn and he scored 23 points, bringing his total to 32, second only to Chamberlain's 37. Fourteen of Richie's points came on free throws.

Hagan suffered a bruised knee in the second half and Len Wilkens turned an ankle, but both are expected back in action for the Hawks on Friday night.

Hagan, used sparingly in the second half, scored 23 for St. Louis. Center Zelmo Beaty hit for 24 including 18 in the second half.

PPL Pennant Chase Soon Underway

The 1964 Pikes Peak League pennant chase officially begins this Friday with two loop games on the agenda.

Six-time PPL champion from Cheyenne Mountain hosts Widefield and Air Academy High tangles with Manitou Springs at the Kadets' home field to round out Friday's action. Both games start at 4 p.m.

Meanwhile, two PPL teams were scheduled for non-league contests this afternoon. Today's slate called for Manitou to host St. Mary's and the Wasson "B" squad to entertain Harrison. These games were scheduled to begin at 4 p.m.

The Cheyenne team, under the direction of Eldon Helm who has led the Indians through six PPL and four state championships during his eight year reign, launched their 1964 campaign on a happy note last Saturday. The Tribe recorded an impressive twin bill win over visiting Lamar, last year's state finalist.

Behind strong pitching and hitting, the Cheyenne crew belted the Lamar nine, 7-3 and 5-1, to record the doubleheader triumph. This was the 107th victory for Helm during his coaching stint at Cheyenne.

And Helm, who will retire from coaching this summer to take the job of Cheyenne principal will attempt to lead his baseball team to Cheyenne's 53rd consecutive PPL victory.

The PPL's bridesmaid, Academy High, could deprive Cheyenne of capturing its seventh league title as the Big Blue has a power-hitting squad. Russ Lyon has directed the Kadet baseball teams to the runner-up slot in four PPL campaigns. This could be the year for the Academy High team to snap its runner-up jinx and cinch the pennant.

BIRD IN FLIGHT—Wasson's John Wickham dives for the plate during the first inning of the Thunderbird's game with Boulder at Memorial Park Wednesday as Panther catcher Gary Maschetti tried to grab a loose ball. Wickham scored the second of four Wasson runs in that frame and the T-Birds went on to post a 12-3 victory over the Northern League team. Wasson Finds Power at the Plate In Thumping Visiting Boulder

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Wasson's baseball team started the current season as though runs were something you read about in someone else's box score. But during the last two afternoons at Memorial Park, the Thunderbirds have produced some interesting reading themselves.

The best example came Wednesday as Gib Funk's hit-starved club sank its teeth in Boulder like a man who has just been issued a Diners' Club card. Wasson's attack, pale as the spring snow through the early games, erupted for 14 hits as the 'Birds ran their season mark to 4-1 with a 12-3 victory and looked even more like a team that has the tools to defend the South Central League title it hoarded the past two seasons.

Funk was taking no chances when the skirmish got underway Wednesday. His basepath scavengers had free rein from the start — but their heroics were much less necessary than in the past. For the first time during the present campaign the Thunderbirds were greeting the ball like a long-lost relative and before the first inning had gone into the scorebook, Wasson was saturating Memorial Park with base hits. To the T-Bird coaching staff it was a welcome end to a drouth that was beginning to look like it might extend through the season.

Hitting was only one of the happy incidentals in Wednesday's sudden surge. Equally encouraging was the performance of Bob Torrie, a strapping righthander who may need only concentration and the usual amount of good fortune to become one of the South Central League's best pitchers. Torrie, a transfer student from Washington, worked the first six innings with only minor problems in what has to rate as one of the 'Birds' best pitching performances of the young season.

Boulder reached Torrie for six hits and bunched three in the second inning for a pair of runs, but had little success thereafter. Through one stretch, starting late in the second frame, Torrie retired eight straight batters and he was sailing along easily when lifted for a pinch-hitter after the 'Birds had the game safely in hand in the last of the sixth. During his stint he fanned six and did not allow a base on balls.

Wasson's hitting was well scattered through the top of the lineup. Third-baseman Mike Teague sprayed bullets all over the field to share honors with John Wickham, a senior who is playing his first varsity baseball. Both had three safeties. Tom Stanley, a lanky newcomer to the first base position, and veteran catcher Hal Meller both had two hits, as did Jim Smith.

Smith, a featherweight shortstop who stretches to reach 5-9 and needs his glove to weigh in at 140, created the major excitement of the afternoon. The multi-talented junior, who is also a star football and basketball player, rifled a pitch some 360 feet over the left field fence in the fifth inning for the team's first home run of the campaign.

Wasson combined a little of everything to take what proved to be an insurmountable 4-0 lead in the first inning. Teague slashed a vicious single to left to lead off and three more hits, two stolen bases, a pair of errors, and a squeeze bunt by Terry Stillwaugh had Boulder reeling before the game was well under way.

The Panthers got two back in the second as Torrie suffered through his worst frame. Three singles and an error opened the gates but the Wasson righthander slammed them quickly with a strikeout pitch to Russ Hyder and a fly ball off the bat of D. N. McDowell.

Following that Torrie breezed as his teammates racked a pair of Boulder relievers for eight more runs over the next five innings. Hits by Teague, Wickham, and Stanley triggered a two-run spurt in the third while Wickham's single and a double by Stanley accounted for another pair in the fourth. Smith's stunning homer led off the fifth and Wasson bunched four more hits to score three times in the sixth. Double plays in both the fifth and sixth helped Boulder escape further damage.

The game set up the T-Birds for a return to SCL action Saturday morning. That day Wasson meets rugged Centennial in a 10 a.m. contest in Pueblo that should go a long way toward determining the Thunderbirds' role in this spring's race.

Cox Leads Halfway In BPA

Cox put together six-game blocks of 1,239 and 1,339 for a 2,578 total. McCoy had 1,244 and 1,288 in his two sets Wednesday for 2,532.

Cox also had the highest single game of the day, 277.

Bill Lillard of Dallas, Tex., shot the highest six-game series, 1,340.

George McDonald of Denver, who led at the end of the first six games with 1,299, dropped to 1,196 in his evening block for a 2,495. This placed him in No. 6 position.

The field of 96 will roll 12 more games today with the top 16 qualifying for the match-game play Friday. The high four from this action will go on national television (ABC) at 1:30 p.m., MST, Saturday.

The Leaders:

Race Fan Collects Second Twin Double

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — That old maxim about lightning never striking twice in the same place doesn't hold true as far as the twin double at Jefferson Downs race track is concerned.

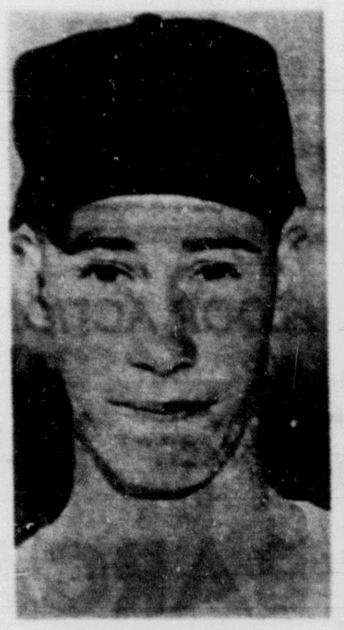
Last spring Falcon cashed in a twin double ticket worth $8,372.40.

Prep Stars of the Week



PHIL JOHNSON

MIKE MARTIN
Record-Setter

Baseball

Sophomore right hander Phil Johnson of Palmer's Terrors has been selected as the baseball Prep Star of the Week for his outstanding play this past week.

Johnson has appeared in three games for the Terrors since the beginning of the season and has recorded two victories without a defeat. His latest win was posted over Trinidad in a crucial South Central League test at the southern Colorado city.

In pitching 8 and one-third innings this spring, Johnson has yet to give up a run, while recording a dozen strikeouts. His work has been a big factor in giving the Terrors the early lead in the South Central League race with a 2-0 record.

Others considered for the honor were Don Breeding of Palmer, Butch Meller and Bob Kochis of Wasson and Gary Graham of Cheyenne Mountain High.

Track

Wasson's Mike Martin has been selected as the first star of the week for the 1964 season in track and field by members of the Gazette-Telegraph sports department for his performance in a triangular meet won by the Thunderbirds last Friday.

Martin led the 'Birds to their triumph over Palmer and Longmont by winning three events. He captured first place in the broad jump with a leap of 20-3½, won the low hurdles in the time of 22.5 and was first in the high jump with a leap of 5-11. The high jump performance set a new Wasson school record.

Others considered for the honor this week were Jim Glaskin of Palmer who won two events in the same meet and Jeff Berven of Wasson who captured the mile in the outstanding early season time of 4:41.5.

Greensboro Field Opens Play Today

By KEN ALYTA

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, still looking for his first golf tournament victory of the year, headed a field of 150 that began play today in the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open.

The competition was formidable. Included were nine of the 12 men who have won on the tour this year, 22 of last year's 25 leading money winners and 26 of the current top 40.

Jack Nicklaus, Julius Boros and other top notchers joined Palmer in this final competitive tune - up before the Masters championship which begins next Thursday at Augusta, Ga.

The field included such worthies as Billy Casper, George Bayer, Tony Lema, Tommy Jacobs, Jack Burke, Al Besselink, Lionel Hebert, Ken Venturi, Art Wall, Dow Finsterwald, Doug Ford, Bruce Devlin, Mason Rudolph, Doug Sanders and a fellow named Sam Snead who'll be 52 next month.

Snead has won seven times, starting with the 1938 inaugural and running through 1960, and eight times has finished second or third.

The 72-hole tournament runs through Sunday over the par 72 Sedgefield Country Club course measuring about 7,000 yards.

Palmer, who a year ago at this time had won three tournaments, hasn't won this year. He lost a Pensacola, Fla., playoff to Gary Player last month, finishing second in a three-way 18-hole playoff that also involved Miller Barber.

Ties for third at Los Angeles and San Francisco in January were his only other high-money finishes.

A regional television network will carry the concluding holes Sunday as the professionals battle for top money of $5,500.

Jack Dempsey Sues Time For 3 Million

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former heavyweight boxing champion Jack Dempsey has filed a suit asking $3 million damages from Time, Inc., for an article in its magazine, Sports Illustrated, which said he used loaded gloves to beat Jess Willard for the title in 1919.

The suit, filed Wednesday in state Supreme Court in Mnhattan, said the magazine "falsely charged" Dempsey used weighted gloves to gain the title.

The article, which appeared in the Jan. 13 issue of Sports Illustrated, was signed by Jack (Doc) Kearns, who was in Dempsey's corner during the fight. The article quoted Kearns as saying Dempsey did not know the gloves were loaded.

Kansas State Grid Team Has Day Off

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI) — The Kansas State Wildcats had a day off from spring football practice today because of English proficiency examinations.

Coach Doug Weaver sent the team through some contact work Wednesday after two days of fundamentals. Spring drills resume Friday, with contact work expected to resume where it left off Wednesday.

Tryouts for Olympic Team Start for Nation's Cagers

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Olympic Basketball Trials get under way at St. John's University today and never was it more true that "it matters not who won nor lost, but how they played the game."

Of course, that's not exactly what the late Grantland Rice had in mind. In fact, basketball wasn't even a part of the Olympic program when he penned the words in the '20s, but it certainly fits the situation.

The trials consist of a three-day, eight - team tourney that ends Saturday. The teams are made up of all-stars from the NCAA, the NAIA, AAU and armed services. Each team plays three games, but the results don't really matter.

The U.S. Olympic Selection Committee will make its choices by individuals, not teams. They'll select 12 players, plus six alternates, to represent the United States in the Tokyo Olympics this fall.

Selection to the team is virtually the same thing as winning a gold medal. The United States never has lost a basketball game in Olympic competition and will be a prohibitive favorite to take it all again. Since World War II, no team has come closer than 24 points to the U.S. aggregation.

And with the field of 96 candidates for the 12 berths, it appears certain that coach Henry Iba of Oklahoma State should have another winner.

Most of the All-America and Little All - America selections are included.

While none of them are assured of spots on the team, top candidates have to include Walt Hazzard of UCLA, Lucious Jackson of Pan American College, Dave Stallworth of Wichita, Cotton Nash of Kentucky, Cazzie Russell of Michigan, Ron Bonham of Cincinnati, Bill Bradley of Princeton, Willie Shaw of Lane College, Larry Pursiful of the Phillips 66ers and Willie Murrell of Kansas State.

The NCAA has three teams of all-stars in the field; the NAIA representing the nation's small colleges, has one, and the AAU and armed services two each.

Football Playoff

A few days ago, in one of our recent chit-chats of this space, the subject of championships came up, mainly directed to the topic of those somewhat tainted titles in sports in which there are few participants.

Along the way was the mention that the biggest of all collegiate sports—football—is without a true national champion. That is, unless you're the sort that takes those often ridiculous weekly polls seriously.

BOB DEVANEY
Had Big 8 Champ

While nearly all other activities of the NCAA and other alphabetical abbreviated organizations connected with schoolboy athletics have elimination tournaments to sort out the best of the bunch, football is left with a haphazard method of crowning its king each fall.

Not that any other system is without fault.

There undoubtedly are those who will question the royal blood of UCLA this past basketball season, for instance. Although the Bruins went undefeated through the regular season and worked their way into the NCAA tournament finals via the regional playoffs, some claim there had to be a certain amount of luck involved.

Using UCLA as the example, at least a few students of the game say this team probably wouldn't have even reached the initial playoffs had it not been for rather weak competition in their own league on the West Coast. Had the Uclans been playing in the Big Ten, they figure, this team would have been just another in the pack.

That, however, is debatable. But at least UCLA backed up the pollsters with the tournament victory over Duke.

This doesn't happen too often, though. And it points up the fallacies of the polls. It's especially true in a sport like football where there is not enough inter-sectional games to make a reliable comparison.

We've all seen it time and again when a couple of highly ranked teams meet each other, with a decision by a single point or so. Well, what invariably happens is that the loser will drop out of sight in the poll because of that one loss while others perhaps not nearly as worthy move up with a clean record against weaker opponents.

On such a basis do we determine the best in the land.

Then, because of the publicity power of such a poll, these top-ranked teams are usually paired in the bowl games at the close of the season in what amounts to the playoff for national honors. But then again there is little mixing of districts and the best of the crop may never meet.

It probably sounds far-fetched and impractical, but there are those who would like to see a system of playoffs to determine football's national champion, in much the same way as other sports like basketball or baseball are played.

That is, champions of various conferences would be matched with each other, or strong independents, with the finals to take the place of the current bowl games on New Year's. Of course, they would have to be more selective in picking the possible teams than is the practice in other sports but this could be accomplished without much trouble.

The probable plan would be for the first regional playoffs to be at sites thoughout the country. This would start in either late November or the first week in December, after the regular season is over for nearly all teams.

After that, regional finalists could be paired in warmer climes—perhaps in the stadia that house the bowl games. And even if it wasn't trimmed down to a final two teams in the championship game, even quarter-finals on New Year's Day would be better than the present situation.

Financially, there are few that would object to such a plan. When you consider the thousands that come in for a one-shot deal like a bowl game, the possibilities with a series of games is unlimited.

The one big drawback would be that it would involve considerably more time away from the classrooms than under the current setup, and this could be one big argument from the individual schools against it.

However, it's been noted that the college division of the NCAA for schools of relatively small size has already formed plans similar to this. They have set the sites and dates for four regional championships which would amount to quarter-finals of a national tournament. Should they go just one step further it would be practically the same as mentioned above.

The playoffs for the NCAA College Division will be next Dec. 11-12 in the four areas—Pacific Coast, Atlantic Coast, Mideast and Midwest. One stadium already selected for these games is Sacramento's Camellia Bowl in California.

Birds Clip Boulder Runners

BOULDER — Excellent depth boosted Jim Hartman's Wasson track team to its second straight small meet victory of the young season here Wednesday afternoon as the Thunderbirds downed Boulder High 64-54.

The meet, which was the final one for the T-Birds before they attempt to defend their title in the Pikes Peak Relays at Wasson Stadium Saturday, produced some outstanding early season marks as Wasson won eight of the 14 events.

Boulder's Warren Gillette was the outstanding individual as he won both the 100 and 200 yard dashes, the broad jump, and anchored the Panthers' 880 relay team to victory.

Gillette sizzled to a 10.1 clocking in the 100 and sped over the 220 in 22.7 His top mark, however, came in the broad jump where he got off a brilliant leap of 22-10. Wasson also had excellent performances in that event as Mike Martin finished second with a jump of 21-4½ and Dominic Flacco leaped 21-4 for third.

The T-Brids' win would been more decisive except for the absence of star distance runner, Jeff Berven. The Thunderbird ace, who has already turned in a clocking near the 4:40 mark this spring, is nursing a sore leg muscle and bypassed Wednesday's competition in order to be ready for Saturday's Relays.

Wasson's victory was the result of a whopping edge in the field events. The 'Birds won all except the broad jump and swept all three places in both the shot put and high jump. Bob Toof won the shot with a heave of 46-5½ and Craig Gillette picked off first in the high jump on the basis of fewer misses. Gillette and two teammates all cleared 5-6.

State's Top Track Powers Slated In Annual Pikes Peak Relay Event

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Saturday's Pikes Peak Relays at Wasson Stadium will be highlighted by the appearance of the two schools which are dominating the athletic picture in Colorado's top classifications this year.

East Denver's powerful Angels, a perennial power in AAA circles, are enjoying a sensational athletic year. However, the Denver League school is not dominating its classification to any greater extent than is Cheyenne Mountain in the AA division.

Both schools are new entries in the Relays in 1964. It is the first appearance ever for the Indians, who have only recently built their track program to a status where it ranks along with other sports at the school. East Denver appeared here once, in 1960, and won the title that year with a team that was to go on to capture the state championship. The Angels classy 1960 team included the fabulous Chris Babbs who still holds state records in the 100, 220, and 440 dashes.

PRACTICE RELAY HAND OFF—The Widefield 880-yard relay team runs through a practice hand-off in preparation for the Pikes Peak Relays scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Wasson Stadium. Claude Burke (far left) hands the relay baton to Clifford Hill while Steve Gerleman (left) and Perry Pierce look on. Gerleman is the anchor man an dthe Widefield sophomore speedster turned in a 22.9 last Tuesday to win the 220-yard dash during the Pikes Peak League triangular meet between Widefield, Harrison and Florence. The Widefield squad will join six other PPL teams (Cheyenne Mountain, Air Academy High, Salida, Harrison, Fountain and Florence) and St. Mary's in the Class A division. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

The 1963-64 school year has seen East return to the athletic status it enjoyed at the turn of the decade. East's football team was undefeated in regular season play and was ranked number one in Colorado in the Denver Post Poll. The Angels were eliminated from the state playoffs in the semi-finals, however, following a one-point loss to Pueblo Centennial.

Several of the same athletes then turned to basketball where East swept to the Denver League title and then powered its way to the AAA state championship, crushing Pueblo Central in the finals. Now many of those stars have their attention fixed on track where the Angels are considered by local coaches as a strong early favorite for the state crown.

What makes East Denver's brilliant year even more amazing is the fact that the Angels enjoyed a supurb nine months in 1962-63. During that school year East teams finished as runner-up in both the state football and East eams finished as runner-up in both the state football and basketball tournaments and ended fourth in the state track meet.

Cheyenne's story is similar, at least for the 1963-64 campaign. The Indians swept through the Pikes Peak League football race in devastating fashion and then marched on to the state AA title. Later came a PPL basketball championship from where the Indians moved into the semi-finals of the state tourney. This spring their always strong baseball team is once again the favorite in the conference race and rival coaches figure Cheyenne will be the one to beat in the cinder wars also.

Saturday's Pikes Peak Relays will thus be important appearances for both of these highly regarded teams. The Relay's scoring system allows for the outstanding individual performance but also emphasizes team depth more than any other meet in Colorado.

This year's Relays is also the first of the big prep extravaganees in the state and with the prize field that is entered, it will command more attention across Colorado than ever before. In the AA Division, East Denver's Angels will be trying their wings against such standout track powers as Manual, Aurora, Iver-Ranum, and the four top South Central League track and field schools.

Manual brings a team that has won the state title the past two springs; Aurora Hinkley is certain to be a blossoming power under Coach Paul Caviness who previously built Aurora Central into a top track school; Wasson has won the Relays the past two seasons and has never finished worse than second in the SCL; Palmer is the defending SCL champion; and South and Central are always top contenders in that conference. Ranum, one of the state's newest schools, has already become a major contender in the cinder sport.

Cheyenne also figures to have a rough go in its first shot at the A title in the PPR. The Indians will have to dethrone Salida, an always potent contender in the spring sport — especially in the field events. In addition, St. Mary's has perennially has fine teams and such outlying schools as Widefield, Academy High, Harrison, and Fountain have improved consistently over recent seasons.

Wasson coach, Jim Hartman, who is the meet dirctor, said this week that Manitou Springs will also compete in this year's meet on a non-scoring basis. Florence, one of the original entries, is sending only a partial team and the Mustangs have been invited to enter any of the events which the Huskies do not fill.

Birdie Tebbetts Suffers Heart Attack

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts, manager of the Cleveland Indians, apparently suffered a heart attack Wednesday night but hospital officials said indications were there was no immediate danger to his life.

He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital.

A physician at the hospital said early today that Tebbetts definitely suffered a coronary, but is in satisfactory condition.

The Indians were idle Wednesday, but held a workout.

Indians' General Manager Gabe Paul said Tebbetts complained about chest pains a short time before he was taken to the hospital.

Cheyenne Track Team Opens With Victory Over Fountain

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telgraph Sports Writer

Tom McCord's Indians displayed over-all strength when the Cheyenne Mountain track team finished in first place during Wednesday's four-way track and field meet at Fountain.

The Cheyenne squad accumulated 52½ points to pull a squeaker over the host team, Fountain, as the Trojans collected 48½ points to give the Tribesmen a run for their money. Canon City finished in third place with 37 points while Air Academy High was fourth with 14 points.

A transfer student named Bob Carter nearly pulled the victory away from Cheyenne as the Fountain speedster recorded three first places. Carter won the 100 and 220-yard dash events in addition to taking first place in the broad jump.

All eyes were glued on the 100-yard-dash event for some of best sprinters from the Pikes Peak League were on hand including last year's District champion, Rob Stockhouse from Academy High, and Cheyenne speed merchant, Bob Richardson.

Although Carter got off to a slow start, he managed to catch the other runners at the 25-yard mark and he pulled away at the half-way mark to win the 100-yard race. Carter was clocked at 10.2 seconds.

In the 220-yard dash, Carter ran with the pack until the last 60 yards and then put on a burst of speed to win the race hands down. His time wasn't especially outstanding but he displayed potential in the longer sprinting race. He won in 24.8 seconds.

Carter also captured the broad jump when he nipped Cheyenne's entry, Al Kemper. Carter sailed 19-6 feet to win that event beating out Kemper by one inch.

Rick Stowell, as expected, walked off with the shot put and discus honors. The Cheyenne strong man tossed the shot 53 feet and hurled the discus 138 feet. Teammate Louie Wilson made it a 1-2 sweep for Cheyenne in both events.

The most impressive time during the track meet was the 880-yard relay. The Cheyenne team won that event quite handily winning in remarkably good time for this early in the season with a time of 1:32.1. This bettered the PPL District meet record set last year by Cheyenne (1:35.4).

Composed of Jack Hays, Steve Lucas, Al Kemper and Richardson, the Cheyenne 880-yard relay team should be a solid choice in the forthcoming Pikes Peak Relays slated this Saturday at Wasson stadium.

Canon City's Dennis Meese turned in a 15.6 to walk off with top honors in the 120-yard high hurdles. This bettered the PPL District mark set in 1960 by Price of Fountain (15.8).

BETWEEN THE LINES

By LOY HOLMAN

The others shouldn't be hard to find.

Just for instance from last fall, we could have watched Bob Devaney's Big Eight champions from Nebraska go against Darrell Royal's undefeated University of Texas in one of the regional playoffs. That would bound to be quite a match—and probably a better game than the Cotton Bowl game between Texas and Navy, the supposed 1-2 teams in the country.

Then in the east, Navy probably would have been paired with Pittsburgh, in the south Alabama and Mississippi or either of these playing North Carolina or Mississippi State. From the west, Washington, Oregon, Air Force and maybe Arizona State. And in the midwest, Illinois and maybe a team like Notre Dame would go at it in the first round.

Just imagine the interest in the playoffs between the winners of these regionals! You can almost hear the cash registers ringing.

It's probably all impossible—but we can dream.

Writers Assn. Seeks Boxing Commissioner

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Boxing Writers' Association (BWA) added its voice today to the chorus asking for a national boxing commissioner.

Barney Nagler of the New York Morning Telegraph, president of the BWA, telegraphed a "commissioner" resolution to Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., in Washington, D. C.

Senator Hart is chairman of Senate's sub - committee on anti-trust and monopoly, which has been holding hearings recently on the sport.

The resolution, voted unanimously at Wednesday's BWA luncheon, assured the senator that the BWA was wholeheartedly behind his committee's effort to get "Bill S. 1474" enacted into legislation.

That bill, drawn up by the late Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee when he was head of Senator Hart's sub - committee, was designed primarily "to curb monopolistic control of professional boxing and to establish within the Department of Justice the office of the national boxing commissioner."

Bill S. 1474 was introduced into the Senate by Sen. Kefauver on March 29, 1961. It was read twice and then referred to the judiciary committee, where it still remains.

CHEERFUL — Jeanie Carroll, 20, a brown-eyed blonde from Fort Wayne, Ind., was named the top cheerleader in the country. The junior from Indiana University won a nationwide contest at Cypress Gardens, Fla.

Argentine Boxer Is Dead

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled today for Alejandro Lavorante, former Argentine heavyweight boxing champion who died more than a year and a half after collapsing at the end of a fight in Los Angeles.

Lavorante, 27, died Wednesday in Mendoza, never having fully regained consciousness. He was knocked out Sept. 21, 1962, by heavyweight Johnny Riggins and then underwent three delicate brain operations.

"I just kept hoping and praying he would come through," Riggins said in San Francisco upon hearing of Lavorante's death. "He was a good fighter and could have gone up."

The 1962 bout was stopped in the sixth round after Riggins, who appeared to be trailing through the first four rounds, landed three solid rights in the fifth and sixth. Lavorante returned to his corner, then slumped off his stool unconscious.

An emergency brain operation was performed to remove a blood clot. A 3-by-5 inch section of his skull was removed in a second operation to relieve pressure but later was reinserted.

Lavorante remained in Los Angeles until May 4, 1963, when he was taken back to Argentina. He reecived therapeutic treatment at a clinic, then returned home.

Prior to the Riggins' knockout, Lavorante had been stopped by Archie Moore and knocked out by Cassius Clay, all within six months. Before the three fights, he had been rated fifth in the heavyweight class.

Boxing Tiger Seldom Changes His Stripes

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

MIAMI (UPI) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, the Michigan Democrat who headed the Washington investigation into the Sonny Liston-Cassius Clay fistic farce, has to be credited today with the pugilistic understatement of the year.

The money machinations which went on behind the scenes aren't too amazing because the boxing tiger seldom changes his stripes. But after hearing President Ed Lassman of the World Boxing Association admit he knew two Runyonesque gentlemen who were on the spot it drew a significant remark from the senator.

WBA and state commission regulation of "the game," the senator asserted, has not been an "astonishing success."

This investigation, like the previous Kefauver sideshow, is expected to produce just about the same results. Namely nothing. One reason is that the Senate is boxing a civil rights issue and the politicos are anxious to get home and do some politicking.

But certainly Lassman, a Miami Beach sandwich man, proved once again that there is an awful lot of ham on rye even outside the nation's Capitol.

This is the same Lassman who wanted to strip gaseous Cassius of his world heavyweight title until he reformed. There could be only two reasons for such an inane act. The first would be because yon Cassius has a big mouth. The second would be because he is an admitted Black Muslim.

Now I'll have to admit that Old Fearless thinks Cassius is a cheese champion, whether on white or rye. I was not one of those who applauded him as "the greatest." So that he would stay for his post-fight interview the night Liston had sitting sickness. For all of me he could have walked right then, and still been walking.

But I didn't think it made Lassman a gladitorial genius when he mouthed that nonsense about stripping Clay of the title. If just being mouthy is a cause of deportation I'd have been in Tibet long ago. And even the Black Muslims have to be part of the world which the championship represents.

Some day the Senate may find time to appoint a federal boxing commissioner, which is the only sensible answer. But then what will we do for laughs?

8 -- Swinging Swing

Deliberate thinking will prepare you for a co-ordinated swing.

Every golfer should follow a pattern before every swing. I never vary my pre-shot motion.

As I approach the ball from behind I decide on the shot's direction and trajectory. I decide which club will give me best results.

I prefer not to take practice swings before a shot. This might interrupt my pre-swing pattern. From the moment I take the club from my bag or caddie until my swing is completed I want a steady, deliberate pattern of motion.

Once I have the club in my hands I stand aside from the ball; re-check the line to the target; assume my grip; and finally, with my feet close together, I place the clubhead squarely behind the ball.

The positioning of my feet and hips in relationship to the target line is a key point. Without proper positioning of the feet and hips I cannot achieve a swinging swing. In the correct hips-feet position my feet are parallel to the target line. This is a square stance. My hips are turned slightly to my left, however, or counter-clockwise, of square.

Stanley Cup Semi-Finals Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRES

The Stanley Cup hockey semi-final playoffs resume tonight with the Montreal Canadiens and the Detroit Red Wings each favored to take a commanding 3-1 lead over the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Chicago Black Hawks, respectively. Montreal is at Toronto and Chicago at Detroit.

The Canadiens, who won the National Hockey League championship by one point over Chicago during the regular season, feel they have the Maple Leafs on the run especially since they won 3-2 on Toronto ice Tuesday.

"We have them on the run," is the way Montreal Coach Toe Blake put it. "We carried the play to them and caused the Leafs to start blind passing. We won a lot of games that way this season."

Chicago's woes seem more difficult at Detroit. The Black Hawks haven't won on Detroit ice in 12 games and absorbed a 3-0 shutout from goalie Terry Sawchuk of the Wings Tuesday.

Sawchuk spent Wednesday in a hospital bed in traction to ease the pain of a pinched nerve in his left shoulder and neck area. Doctors said he would be able to play tonight, however.

National Loop Enjoys Exhibition Supremacy

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Are the Milwaukee Braves the best team in the American League?

From the way the National League Braves have manhandled American League opposition you get the feeling — but it's just one facet of the supremacy the NL is establishing in inter-league battles with the AL during the exhibition baseball season.

Triggered by Hank Aaron's fifth homer, the Braves won their 10th consecutive game from American League opposition Wednesday, adding the Chicago White Sox to their list of victims, 5-3.

The Braves' list now includes every one of the seven AL teams training in Florida. In 11 games against AL opposition, only the Washington Senators have managed a victory against the Braves—they did it in the first game.

The Braves victory was one of three by NL teams Wednesday on a five-game inter-league program, and lifted the National League's lead to 2-1 in games between the two circuits. National League teams have won 66 games, AL clubs 33.

Behind Milwaukee in the inter-league standings are the San Francisco Giants, 15-2 against AL opposition. National League domination is so complete that even the New York Mets, who are 6-2, have a better percentage in inter-league play than any American League team.

Besides Milwaukee, the Dodgers and Chicago Cubs beat American League opposition Wednesday while the Los Angeles Angels and Baltimore recorded victories against NL teams.

The Dodgers shelled Minnesota pitching for 15 hits—three by batting champion Tommy Davis—en route to a 7-3 victory protected by Larry Sherry's four scoreless innings of pitching. Merritt Ranew hit a decisive homer and Ron Santo stroked two doubles and a single in the Cubs' 8-7 decision over the Red Sox.

The Angels provided the day's batting star as outfielder Lee Thomas hit two homers—one a grand slam—and collected six runs batted in during a 10-7 thumping of the Giants. The Orioles did it with pitching as Robin Roberts and Harvey Haddix combined for a two-hitter in a 4-0 shutout of Pittsburgh.

Elsewhere, the other half of the White Sox' split squad walloped Washington 12-7. Johnny Blanchard and Tony Kubek provided all the runs with homers in the Yankees' 4-2 triumph over Detroit, Tracy Stallard of the Mets shut out Cincinnati 3-0 on six hits and Johnny Lewis hit a game-winning three-run homer in St. Louis' 6-5 victory over Philadelphia.

Men's AAU Swim Meet In Progress

By BOB HARING

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) —An Olympic - flavored match between some of the world's best swimmers highlighted today's opening of the Men's National AAU Indoor Swimming and Diving Championships.

The first event, the 400-yard individual medley, pitted West Germany's record-holding Gerhardt Hetz against America's top all-round swimmers.

In the second opening-day feature, Roy Saari started his bid for a third straight triple victory against a 1,650-yard freestyle field led by high school boy Don Schollander.

Preliminary competition this afternoon determined the six finalists who will meet tonight in the individual medlay finals. The winner of the 1,650 will be determined by comparative times of heats this afternoon and tonight.

Hetz' coach, Janos Satori, said the winner of the medley here could turn out to be the Olympic champion to be crowned next fall in Tokyo.

He named the chief challengers as Rich McGeah of the University of Southern California, who set an American record of 16.4 minutes at last week's National Collegiate Championships; Dick Roth, a Santa Clara, Calif. high school junior, and possibly Ed Townsend, a close runner-up to McGeah last week.

This will be Hetz' first competition in an American meet and first try at the 400-yard distance, though he holds the world's record in the 400-meter medley.

The Saari-Schollander duel features an unorthodox swimmer against a technically perfect swimmer.

Saari, defending champion in the 1,650 and holder of the world's record at 1,500 meters, uses the regular flutter kick only when he shifts to his "speed stroke." Most of the time he uses a sort of a side stroke scissors kick. Schollander sticks to the standard flutter kick with a style regarded as beautifully correct. Schollander, also a Santa Clara high schooler, has been Saari's chief rival in the distance events.

Early Derby Favorites Have Prior Showdown

By KELSO STURGEON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Hill Rise and Northern Dancer, the early favorites for the Kentucky Derby, probably will get a chance to find out which is the best horse 10 days before the classic Run for the Roses.

Bill Finnegan, who trains Hill Rise, indicated Thursday he is pointing the El Peco Ranch colt for the $25,000-added Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland and an early showdown with Northern Dancer, the even-money favorite to win Saturday's Florida Derby.

Horatio Luro, who trains Dancer, has said he would send his colt in the 1⅛-mile event at Keeneland.

"We'll just separate the men from the boys then," Finnegan said, adding that if Hill Rise went in the Blue Grass he would not have a race over the Churchill Downs surface before the Derby.

The Blue Grass, at 1⅛ miles is the last distance prep for the Derby and will be run April 23. The Derby is May 2.

Hill Rise, who Finnegan had considered starting on Saturday's opening-day program at Keeneland, worked out six furlongs in about 1:15 Wednesday. The colt was never pressed and was caught by some clockers in 1:14 3-5.

Finnegan said he presently plans to start Hill Rise April 11 in a 6½-furlong sprint—the $7,500 Spendthrift Purse for 3-year-olds. J tfhe colt, son of Hillary-Red Charm, starts April 11, then he will definitely go in the Blue Grass.

The presence of both Hill Rise and Northern Dancer in the Blue Grass would sharply cut the starting field in that race. As few as five could start.

Barring mishap, those considered probable starters are T.A. Grissom's Susan's Gent, Calumet Farm's Ky. Pioneer, Darby Dan Farm's Saltville and Hill Rise and Northern Dancer.

Ice Hockey May Come To K-City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The location of a professional hockey team to fill in the gap in Kansas City's sport season was in a solid talking stage today.

Joe Hartenbower, president of the American Royal Association, returned from Detroit and announced that a farm club of the Detroit Red Wings may be moved here for the 1964-65 season.

It would be the first professional hockey team here in 15 years and would fill the winter season gap left when the Kansas City Steers professional basketball team folded in 1962.

Hartenbower, who was accompanied on his trip to talk to Red Wing officials in Detroit by George Shepherd, manager of the American Royal, Livestock and Horse Show, said the team would play in the arena of the American Royal Building.

The building would seat about 7,000 when equipped for hockey he said.

The team to be brought here was left homeless when an explosion wrecked an Indianapolis ice rink last fall. Since the explosion the team has been playing in Cincinnati.

Hartenbower said the team would be a member of the Central Hockey League, which includes Tulsa, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Omaha and St. Louis.

Hartenbower said a meeting of the American Royal Association executive board would be called shortly to discuss the proposal.

The cost of improving the the American Royal arena for hockey is expected to be $150,000, including ice making equipment, dressing rooms, box seats and concession stands.

Hartenbower said in talks with Red Wing club owner Bruce Norris, of the Norris Grain Co., of Chicago, the owner said previous plans to move here for the 1963-1964 season had failed.

Norris told Hartenbower at the time it was proposed that a farm club be moved here to play in Municipal Auditorium, but the plan was abandoned when the City Council said it could not provide hockey facilities quickly enough for the start of the hockey season.

Hartenbower said the Red Wings were interested in bringing the farm club here because of the central location and because they believe the area would give strong support to a professional hockey team.

Team officials also reportedly have checked sites at Memphis and Oklahoma City.

Invaders Top L.A. to Even Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Seals moved up to the final playoff series in the Western Hockey League Wednesday night when they came from behind to trim the Portland Buckaroos 6-5 in overtime.

In the other best-of-seven semifinal playoff, the Denver Invaders, who topped the league in the regular season, squared their series with the Los Angeles Blades 2-2 when they took a 3-2 decision.

Substitute goalie Marcel Paille saved the day for Denver. The regular net-tender for the last-place Vancouver Canucks blocked the Invaders' net because Denver's regular goalie, Al Millar, was sidelined with a broken bone in his left hand.

Lou Jankowski headed the Denver attack with two goals, including the 20-foot shot which won the game with little more than two minutes left.

Los Angeles and Denver tangle again in Denver Friday night. San Francisco plays the winner for the Lester Patrick Cup.

Marolt Favored for Roch Racing in His Hometown

By ROBERT E. COX
United Press International

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI)— Downhill ace Bill Marolt goes into the Roch Cup races at his hometown this weekend with a newly-found mastery of the slalom and as a solid favorite for the combined title.

Marolt will be after his third slalom crown in as many weeks. Two weeks ago the Aspen Olympian was not rated a strong slalom threat by anybody.

Marolt has outskied everybody's guesses during the past two big slalom races on other Colorado mountains—cracking a long dry spell two weekends ago at Winter Park, and winning again last weekend at Crested Butte.

Experts said Olympic slalom silver medal winner Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., probably would have won the National Alpine slalom at Winter Park if he hadn't fallen during his first run. But there was no disputing Marolt's stunning slalom win last Sunday at the North American Alpine Championships at Crested Butte.

Marolt overcame a two-tenths of a second lead built up by Kidd on the first run by snaking down the course in 53.3 seconds on the second go-around, and beating Kidd by seven-tenths of a second in total time.

Kidd won the giant slalom in both recent meets and the combined at Crested Butte.

Marolt, who made as much news in incidents with Austrian police during the Olympics as Kidd and Jim Huega of Lake Tahoe, Calif., generated when they took silver and bronze slalom medals, said after his Crested Butte win:

"I have a lot more confidence than I had earlier this season. When I get at the start I really want to fire 'em down the hill. It a great feeling."

In women's competition this weekend, little Pia Riva looks to have the best chance for a combined title in downhill, giant slalom and slalom events, to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday in that order.

Miss Riva, a 28-year-old Italian Olympian from Milan, has been overshadowing her North American competitors in the recent last-of-the-season meets in Colorado. She won the giant slalom at Winter Park and the slalom at Crested Butte, and placed high up in the standings in many other events.

But, because of her nationality, she has not been eligible for formal awards in the two meets. This weekend it's different, and the little brunette, who hopes to get a job in America and stay for awhile, will be looking for some souvenirs this weekend.

Miss Riva found her toughest competition at Winter Park in smiling Jean Saubert, who, rumor here has it, might take a brief leave from the University of Oregon to come back to Colorado and compete this weekend.

Miss Saubert won a bronze and a silver medal at the Winter Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria, and then came to Colorado to sweep all four championships at Winter Park. Miss Riva beat Miss Saubert in the giant slalom there, but her ineligibility forwarded the first place honor to Miss Saubert, giving her firsts in slalom, giant slalom, downhill and combined.

Miss Saubert did not compete at Crested Butte, and it still was not definitely known today whether she would be among approximately 15 women competitors here this weekend.

THE GRACE CHORALE

Local Church Will Present Chorale

The Grace Chorale, representing Grace Bible Institute of Omaha, Neb., will be heard in sacred concert at the First Evangelical Free Church, 3006 W. Fontanero St., at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

A member of the forty-five voice group is Miss Lois Derksen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Derksen, 403 Stevens St., Colorado Springs.

The chorale, widely known in the United States and Canada, will present a program composed of sacred works of master composers and modern arrangements of hymns and gospel songs. Included is the "Say So" session and a brief devotional message by the Rev. Waldo E. Harder, president of the school, and spokesman for the group.

Grace Bible Institute is celebrating its twenty-first year as an interdenominational training center on the college level, training young people for church related Christian ministries.

Republican Chief Denies Civil Rights Weakening

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharp denial that Republican senators will back "weakening amendments" to the controversial civil rights bill came today from Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

The New York Republican, a leader in the bipartisan group now trying to push the House-passed measure through the Senate, flatly denied reports "that Republicans in the Senate will take this administration 'off the hook' by insisting on certain amendments as the price for enactment of the bill."

With debate now in its 20th day and showdown decisions apparently far in the future, Javits and Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., teamed up to explain and support the "public facilities" section of the complex measure.

This part of the bill aims at making it easier to end racial discrimination in parks, golf courses, swimming pools, art museums and other government owned or operated facilities.

Supreme Court decisions and existing federal laws now ban such discrimination but court tests or similar action to bring compliance now must be started and usually financed by individuals or groups.

Senators got advance notice Wednesday that the daily session will lengthen next week.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., indicated that supporters of the bill have mapped a program of bipartisan speeches in support of it running through April 1 and probably beyond.

And he and other senators backing the bill told a leadership conference of civil rights supporters Wednesday that they now lack the 67 votes required to clamp a limit on Senate debate and force voting.

Cloture, or what Southern opponents call "the gag rule," requires the vote of two-thirds, or 67 if all senators are present and voting.

SEA COWS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—Scientists said Wednesday they plan to release sea cows in the Middle River in hopes the weed-eating creatures will keep the waterway clear of clogging vegetation. Chemicals cannot be used because they also would kill fish.

Luci Johnson May Attend Marquette

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Marquette University's admissions office said Wednesday it had received the college examination board scores for Luci Baines Johnson, 16, director of admissions, said receipt of the score did not constitute an application for admission or an inquiry about information about admission. He said when high school students took college entrance examinations they listed the colleges and university to which they wanted the scores sent, in case applications to the schools were made later.

Miss Johnson is a junior at National Cathedral School for Girls in Washington. The White House said that it had no information on whether Miss Johnson wanted to attend Marquette.

Tourists Are Urged To See Alaska Sights

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP)—Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall has recommended travel by outsiders to Alaska to help that state recover from its recent earthquake.

At a news conference here Wednesday, Udall said vacationers can contribute toward economic recovery there by "making this the year to see Alaska."

Influence of Reds May Suffer New Blow in India

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's capital, often beset by worries over famine and rioting, was able to smile this week at "the case of the mysterious letter."

This thriller has ingredients to make an imaginative mystery writer envious: British intelligence, unknown hands secretly searching the dusty national archives, a revolutionary flying home from Moscow in the night.

To top it off, the still-awaited ending to the thriller is almost certain to reduce either Soviet or Communist Chinese influence in Communist party doings in India.

The hero or heel, depending on your politics, was Shripad Amrit Dange, the pro-Soviet Communist party boss in India, vice-chairman of the Moscow-controlled World Federation of Trade Unions, and general secretary of the All-India Trades union Congress.

He was in the spotlight because someone somehow searched through hundreds of thousands of letters and documents in the National Archives and found a letter supposedly written 40 years ago.

It was said to have been penned in a prison cell by a young Communist revolutionary jailed by India's then British rulers, on a charge of antistate activity.

The young man, frantic at the thought of four more years behind bars, pleaded with the British sahibs to release him. In return he said he would work for British intelligence as a secret agent inside the Indian revolutionary movement.

That young man, it was said this week, was none other than Shripad Amrit Dange.

Clearly, the pro-Chinese wing of Dange's own party was trying to do him in, trying to oust his pro-Moscow faction and take the party into Peking's fold.

His high-ranking comrades known for their Chinese leanings were making speeches all over India about the letter, saying it was in Dange's handwriting and had been cross-indexed scores of times in the 40-year-old government records and obviously was not a forgery.

Prime Minister Nehru's government opened the archives long enough for interested parties to see the letter — one Communist official said he looked at it for three days — and then closed the file.

No one in fact was insisting very loudly that the letter was a forgery.

But who, originally found it? Who had access to these forgotten government files in order to give Dange's enemies their ammunition?

Nobody was answering any of these questions but there was speculation aplenty.

Dange was in Moscow when the storm broke. He flew home and declared he was enjoying the whole affair because it gave him a good chance to challenge party dissidents.

His mood changed the next day when he received telegrams from party cells throughout India and his own Trades Union Congress. All demanded that he resign.

The party secretariat talked with Dange for two hours behind closed doors and reportedly told him he should lie low until April 9 when the party's national council and national executive will meet to investigate the charge.
